THE JAPANESE WAR.

A letter received from Victoria, B. C., from M. Gustav Lefan, one of the officers of the French cruiser Lyon, serving for some time past on the China station, contains an interesting account of the story and incidents of the Japanese war, which had but fairly opened when it was despatched. The Lyon was the only neutral witness of the sinking of the British steamer Kow Shing. The latter incident of the campaign M. Lefan referred to at some length in his letter. He says: "I do not think much of the Japanese or Chinese as sea-fighters. It seems a shame to give good ships and modern arms to such a set of cowardly butchers. Take the Kow Shing affair; it was nothing but cold-blooded murder. The Naniwa overhauled the Kow Shing and two smaller crafts, the Naio and Tooman, just outside of the Shopa Island, early in the morning of the 25th. The Kow Shing was flying her British colors, and so was the Tooman. The Japanese gunboat dropped her anchors when she reached signalizing distance, and we did the same. Two boats were lowered from the Naniwa, and her officers spent several hours on the Kow Shing, sending the boats back and forth in the meantime. We were anxiously awaiting developments, but did not expect to see powder burned, as much on account of the defenceless condition of the Kow Shing, as owing to her flying the British colors. Of course, we knew as well as the Naniwa that she had Chinese troops on board. Finally the boats returned to the Naniwa and the Kow Shing went to the lee of the Island and anchored there by order of the Japanese, as we afterwards learned. The next we knew, two hours later, the trading steamer was under steam and the Naniwa was standing out to open sea, cleared for action. There was not even half or a quarter of a mile between the two; nevertheless, the big cruiser tried some of her heaviest metal on the captive. Then she got her torpedoes working, and in a few minutes the floating wreckage was all that was left of the well known steamer. We lowered our boats, picking up twenty-five men who were swimming. The Japanese were shooting the swimmers in the water with rifles and gatling guns when we came up but suspended firing and lowered boats, too, though we did not see them pick any one up. They said that the transport was trying to escape. The Englishmen we picked up told us she was merely shifting anchorage, so as to be safe from wreck at the turn of the tide, and that she was not so foolish as to try to get away.

"The saddest part of the affair is that in the excitement the Naio disappeared. Whether she, too, went under or escaped we do not know. The Tooman stood by to rescue the drowning Chinese from the Kow Shing, although she herself was badly crippled. This drew on her the firing from the Naniwa, and a torpedo quickly settled her. The skipper of the Tooman, I think, was an Englishman or an American, so I have been told. Whatever country he belonged to should be proud of him. He faced the music with not a chance in a hundred, stood by the Chinese as long as they floated and died game. It was nothing but wholesale murder, and if Japan does not suffer in the long run it will not be because she does not deserve to."

DR. E. A. ROSE DISAPPOINTS THE DOUBTERS—HE ONCE HAD DIABETES BUT HAS IT NO MORE—ATTENDING TO HIS BIG PRACTICE.

Portland, Ont., Aug. 20.—The account which appeared in many Canadian papers a few months ago of Dr. E. A. Rose having been cured of diabetes by Dodd's Kidney Pills, attracted widespread attention at the time. Many doubters, though, protested that the cure was not a permanent one. The best proof that these doubters were wrong is the fact that for a year back Dr. Rose has been attending to his practice, which was always a large one, in this village and the surrounding country, and has never had any return of the disease. His health is first-class and the doctor is not compelled to take any of the precautions as to diet or otherwise, that are always orderse for people threatened or troubles with diabetes.

DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

THE FUTURE LONDON.

In 1941 it is Computed that the Population Will Be 17,500,000.

Some interesting statistics regarding London have recently been prepared by the County Council, with some conjectures as to the population which the city may have in 1941. According to these figures, London already contains 1¼ per cent. of all the population of England and Wales. If the city grows at the rate of the last three decades, in 1941 it will have a population of 17,500,000. If there be no additions from the outside, as there have been in the past, but merely the natural increase is added which comes from the excess of births over deaths it will contain nearly 11,000,000.

Considering that New York is fast becoming the seat of wealth in this country that London is in England, one can gain an idea of how the burden of taxation would fall upon New York if the socialistic income tax bill should become a law. London pays 42 per cent. of the income tax of England and Wales, and we should not have the advantage which the tables show that city to have in escaping a large portion of the cost of local government by receiving a share of imperial taxation, and many from other sources. London's government costs about $55,000,000 a year, but of this sum the ratepayers pay only about five-sixths.

London contains about one-quarter of all the paupers of England and Wales, and it furnishes a large percentage of the criminals. The women sentenced to penal servitude from there constitute 25.86 per cent. of the whole number from the two countries, and the men 29.75 per cent. The metropolitan poor law debt is nearly one-half of all owed for that purpose in England, and the law debt is nearly one-half of all owed, police force costs 41.97 per cent. of the total cost of police in the country. The fire brigade costs 53.24 per cent.

Twenty two persons in a thousand died in London in 1892. Bronchitis carried off 10,000, consumption 8000, pneumonia 6000, and influenza and cancer 3000 each.

Ben Hafiz, the Muezzin.

Far lifted from the city's jar and fret
Ben Hafiz waited on the minaret;

And gazing where the Prophet's city stands,
A benediction waved from wrinkled hands.

His prayerful voice was raised—the hour was nigh—
To Allah lifted his imploring eye.

Below him sparkled many a twinkling fire,
Where pilgrims camped around the sacred spire.

"Oh, where is God?" the old Muezzin cries;
With eagle glance he scans the vaulted skies.

All silent trembling the thin realms of air—
Ben Hafiz vainly sought an answer there!

Beneath his feet stretched far the sapphire sea—
"Lo! In its depths—Divinity may be!"

The blue waves rippled on the lonely shore;
No token reached him in their hollow roar!

The campfires leaped, their red glow mounting higher,
He pondered: "There! Perchance, is Allah nigher?"

Bright gleams lit up the sleeping host in vain—
Not a response! Ben Hafiz asked again.

The mountains, hung above him, crensted round,
Caught his quick eye—"Is God there hidden, found?"

But scarped rocks and peaks all silent lay—
With no reply, Ben Hafiz turned away!

"Alas! All silent!" the Muezzin cried,
The hopes which warmed his heart in sadness died.

"Earth, air and fire—the waters, I explore—
For God, whose footsteps here return no more!"

When, like a lark, a sweet voice thrilled above!
An angel sang—"Ben Hafiz! God is love!"
RICHARD HENRY SAVAGE.

Firing a 100-Ton Gun.

"The man who has never been in close proximity to a 100-ton gun when it is fired can have little conception of the noise and vibration," said Lieutenant John W. Leigh, a retired naval officer. "Partly by courtesy and partly by chance, I was on the Thunderer at the siege of Alexandria, some twelve or thirteen years ago. Two sets of advice were given me as to how to act when the big guns were fired. Old experienced seamen can stand the shock by raising on their toes the moment the word is given to fire. The majority of people, however, find it necessary in order to preserve their ear drums from perforation, to lie down, resting most of the weight on their hands and toes. Even with this precaution, the sensation is most unpleasant until one gets used to it. Even with the comparatively small guns in general use in our navy, the concussion on board a ship when a shot is fired is very annoying, but the enormous guns used so generally in European navies are a source of terrible danger to the crew as well as the enemy, and I doubt if they could possibly be used in a hand to hand encounter, useful as they are in destroying distant ports."
—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Care of the Deciduous Teeth.

The child receives its first temporary tooth about the fifth month after birth, the dentition being completed at the age of two years. These teeth should be cleaned with a soft brust and warm water. The child usually retains these teeth until the eruption of the permanent set, the first permanent tooth appearing about the 6th year. The deciduous teeth should be carefully watched, and when a tooth shows decay consult your dentist and have it filled. At this stage the filling is not expensive, and will save the child much pain and trouble from an aching tooth. The early extraction of the deciduous teeth often causes the irregularities of the permanent set. They should be retained until the jaw has fully expanded to receive the permanent teeth. Teach the child the necessity of keeping the teeth clean and pure. The early use of the tooth brush will establish a habit that will, in after years, be considered a necessity to health and personal cleanliness.—New York Herald.

Such license shall be granted and remain in force for the space of one year following the date upon which the said license shall be granted and no longer."
