

Ask Papa.

Oh, woman gentler of the sexes, Your conduct many mortal vexes, And woefully his heart perplexes— This you know;

For should he kneel in supplication, Asking your heart's capitulation, You look about in consternation, Murn'ring "No."

Yet this for months you've been expecting, Daily this same scene reflecting, Without the least thought of rejecting, Should he ask;

But now that he is in your power, You trifle with him half an hour, And on him frightened glances shower, Through a mask.

And when at last, amidst genteel chiding, You smile through blushes—vain the hiding, And ponder as it still deciding— Rogue you are;

He knows the answer you're concealing, To him your eyes are all-revealing, And you'll answer, double dealing, "Ask papa."

The Oldest Church in America.

At the little village of Tadoussac, says an exchange, in the province of Quebec where the Saguenay empties in the St. Lawrence, there is to-day the oldest church on this continent, older even than the old Spanish church at St. Augustine, Fla. This church was built by the French discoverer, Jacques Cartier, for the French colony he had founded. It is only a small building, being only about twenty feet square, with a very low ceiling, and was erected in 1517, sixteen years after the discovery of the continent. It contains a very remarkable picture of the Virgin Mary, painted more than 300 years ago by one of the Jesuit Fathers at the Mission, to which certain miraculous properties are ascribed by the habitants of Quebec, and a good many pilgrimages there. Tadoussac is also a great summer resort for the rank and fashion of Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa, and Toronto. The objects of interest in the church— for, besides the picture, there are some ancient vestments and a very curiously embroidered altar cloth—are freely exhibited to strangers by the handsome and intelligent young Jesuit priest, Father Pecon, who has them in charge. A couple of years ago a party of Canadians were visiting the church. Among the latter were Lieutenant Governor Robataille, with his family, and Sir Hector Langevin, the Canadian Minister of public works, with his lovely daughter, Miss Alice. In passing through the altar rails, the young lady made a misstep and would have fallen to the floor if the priest had not caught her in his arms. "Oh, thank you so much," said the young lady, as soon as she had recovered from her agitation. "You have saved me from what might have been a very bad fall." "Do not thank me," said the priest, drawing aside the curtain that covered the picture of the Virgin, "your preserver is there."

"Jones is a miserly man, but is very pleasant," said Brown. "Yes," replied Smith; "but it is his miserliness that makes him so pleasant." "How's that?" "Why, don't you see, he hates to lose anything, and therefore keeps his temper." "Austere pedagogue to a small boy—" "Boy you speak very indistinctly. Don't your friends ever tell you so?" "Small boy—" "No, sir, they're not so rude."

It is estimated that $32,000,000 is paid for candy yearly in this country. This is not allowing anything for the taffy we give one another.

Mrs. SOPHIA POTTER'S Bone Rheumatic Liniment

IT is a fact well known that Mrs. Sophia Potter's Bone Rheumatic Liniment cannot be excelled for removing pain and soreness. It is no worthless trash, as some may suppose, simply because they have been imposed upon by others but is positively the "King of Pain." Sore throat cannot stand before its power. All we ask is a trial that you may be convinced of the truth of our statement. Our experience is that one bottle tried also sells many more.

See circular for particulars and testimonials, and try a bottle—it will not fail to do all that is promised.
