Papandreou To Form Gov't

ATHENS (AP)—Elder statesman Georie Papandreau has accepted a request from king Paul to form a new Greek government.

Papandreou, winner with his Centre Union party of last Sunday's parliamentary elections, met the king for 10 minutes in Tatoi Palace.

Meanwhile, the interior ministry announced the official distribution of seats in the 300-member parliament as a result of the elections:

The Centre Union, 140; the rightist National Radical Union of former Premier Constantine Caramanlis, 128; the pro-Communist United Democratic Left, 30; Progressives, 2.

TWO VICTIMS SET THE STAGE

Behind-The-Scenes Look Given Of Viet Nam Coup

The following is a comprehensive summary of behind-the-scenes events leadiag up to last week's military coup in South Viet Nam. It is told by Reuters correspondent Nicholas Turner who covered the political and military scene in South Viet Nam during the critical months before the coup.

By NICHOLAS TURNER

SAIGON (Reuters)—The military operation which overthrew President Ngo Dinh Diem and his brother Ngo Dinh Nhu was ironically based on orders fully approved by the two men themselves to thwart an officers' coup.

The orders, called Operation Bravo Two, were masterminded by Brig.-Gen Ton That Dinh now promoted to major-general who was called in by Diem and Nhu to draw up plans for crushing the coup.

Dinh was regarded as one of the two most loyal generals and Diem and Nhu gave him full powers to move military forces discovering too late they had thereby sealed their own fate.

The switching of sides by Dinh, who as commander of the 3rd Army Corps with headquarters in Saigon controlled vital units which could be moved quickly to support either side in a coup, was an important factor in bringing about the coup.

For many months there had been a growing feeling among a group of generals and also among the younger officers that the Diem regime was not capable of winning the war against the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

HAMPERED BY SECURITY

The officers were hampered in their plans to overthrow the regime by extremely tight security. The generals and colonels, who probably decided about June or July that the regime should go, skilfully converted Dinh to their point of view.

One of Dinh's top aides visited Dinh Tuong province at the end of October to discuss coup plans with military officers commanding units on Saigon's southern fringe.

Dinh reported this to Nhu, who ordered him and Col. Le Quang Tung, head of special forces, to draw up plans for a counter-coup.

Dinh suggested that Tung move some of his loyal units out of the city "to fool the Americans," who had threatened to cut off aid to the special forces unless they were sent out into the country to fight Communists.

He also successfully arranged the removal of other units whose commanders were considered loyal to the regime.

When security officials reported these movements to the palace, Diem and Nhu said they had authorized them.

REMOVE DOUBTFUL ONES

Before the start of the coup unit commanders likely to oppose it were removed.

A number of officers considered loyal to the regime were invited to a lunch Nov. 1 during which Maj.-Gen Duong Van Minh, military assistant to the presidency, announced that a coup against Diem had been launched.

He asked which of those present refused to join it. The only one to refuse was Tung, who was executed on the spot.

Minh later emerged as head of the military revolution committee and effective head of state.

The first of three task forces formed under Operation Bravo Two led the coup, seizing the national police headquarters here and Saigon radio during the lunch hour of Nov. 1.

The third force then occupied other key points in the city while the first two pressed the final attack against the palace.

By mid-afternoon when the radio broadcast demands to Diem and Nhu to surrender and leave the country, the battle was on.

Heavy street fighting broke out and air force planes bombed navy ships on the Saigon River until it became clear the navy was backing the coup.

GARRISON SUBDUED

An attack on the garrison of the presidential guards shook the city and the garrison was subdued in the late evening by tremendous barrage involving tanks and artillery.

Diem, still refusing to surrender, broadcast in vain appeals via a special transmitter in the palace for units to come in from the provinces and for paramilitary units and local defence forces outside the city to move in.

At 4 a.m. on Nov. 2, tanks moved in for the final assault on the palace, supported by mortar and artillery.

After three hours a hole was blown in the walls surrounding the palace and the defenders stopped firing. Marines, behind tanks and armored cars, stormed the palace grounds and the battered buildings.

Troops combed the palace for Diem and Nhu, believed to be hiding in tunnels beneath the palace grounds. Then came a tip that Diem had fled to a Roman Catholic church in Cholon, Saigon's sister city.

Armored personnel carriers found not only Diem, but his brother and close members of their staff as well.

Both resisted as they were put into one of the carriers to be taken back to general staff headquarters. Diem claimed he was still head of state and entitled to a car.

At some point during the ride to headquarters Diem and Nhu were shot inside the carrier. Nhu, who resisted violently, also was stabbed. Their bodies were later seen with neck and head wounds.

AGAINST WISHES

The killings were believed to have been against the wishes of some of the leaders of the coup. The killers were apparently trying to remove any possibility that the brothers might remain a danger to the new regime even in exile.

Top American officials in Saigon knew of the coup in advance but were not instrumental in bringing it about.

The population rejoiced at the success of the coup and thousands of imprisoned Buddhist monks and students were freed. But big problems lie ahead.

The in - fighting among the members of the military revolutionary committee has barely begun.

It is widely expected that Dinh may gradually find himself eased out of his position of power because he, alone among the leading generals, is a central Vietnamese as were Diem and Nhu.

Minh, who has emerged as the strong man, appears determined to give preference to southerners.

The U.S. is likely to find the new regime no more pro-American than the Diem government and much more oriented towards France.

The generals are anxious to crush the Communist Viet Cong and believe they can do so, but they are likely to make clear they are not simply the servants of American foreign policy.

Yank Teamsters Seek Pay Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Teamsters union will serve the U.S. trucking industry with contract demands for about $250,000,000 a year in increased pay and fringe benefits for more than 400,000 workers.

Teamsters President James Hoffa said the proposed three-year "master contract" to be mailed out Monday to representatives of 16,000 trucking firms is the biggest single labor agreement ever proposed in the U.S.

In the first effort for a U.S.-wide contract covering approximately 85 per cent of the U.S. trucking industry, the Teamsters are asking:

1. Pay increase of 15 cents an hour a man a year for three years.

2. $1 more a week for pensions and $1 more a week for health and welfare.

3. Other fringe benefits including three days off with pay in case of death in a union member's immediate family, better vacation benefits, pay for jury service, two more paid holidays and 10 cents an hour for dental care.

Teamsters truck drivers, helpers, mechanics, clerks and other employees to be covered by the contract now average about $1.17 an hour plus $6 a week in pension benefits and $3.50 a week for health and welfare.

Hoffa repeated earlier statements that there is no danger of a U.S.-wide truck strike.

Sawn Lumber Output Down

OTTAWA (CP) — Production of sawn lumber, excluding ties, in sawmills east of the Rockies decreased six per cent in September to 241,140,000 board feet from 256,680,000 in the same period last year, the bureau of statistics said Thursday.

However, output was up 1.5 per cent in the January-September period at 2,484,989,000 board feet from 2,448,820,000 a year previous. Stocks at the end of September totalled 434,599,000 board feet, down three per cent from a month earlier and 18 per cent from a year ago.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A N H

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By B. JAY BECKER

There are some sequences of bidding that, for practical purposes, are regarded as impossible — that is, you cannot have a hand that fits the bid or bids you've made, in each of the following five cases, specify whether the last bid by South is Possible or Impossible:

1.	West	North	East	South
	1♦	2♦	3♦	4♦
2.	South	West	North	East
	2 NT	Pass	3♥	Pass
	4♥
3.	West	North	East	South
	Pass	1♠	4♥	5♠
4.	South	West	North	East
	1 NT	Pass	2♣	Pass
	2 NT	Pass	3♣	Pass
	3 NT
5.	South	West	North	East
	1♦	Pass	1♠	Pass
	3♦	Pass	4♦	Pass
	4 NT

1. Possible. The cuebid by North shows a huge hand with a probable void in diamonds. South, for the four diamond bid, may have a hand certain to produce a game and yet not be in a position to choose the best trump suit. For example, he may hold: Rather than attempt to guess between spades and hearts, he should let North choose the trump suit. South reflects his uncertainty by responding to the cuebid with a cuebid.

2. Impossible. The two no-trump bid shows specifically 22 to 24 points, notrump distribution and all - around strength. South must not punish partner for responding with three hearts by raising him to six. North may have a hand with only 2 or 3 points. The most that South can do to encourage a slam is make a cuebid, such as four clubs or diamonds, which would imply support and slam possibilities.

3. Possible. South may have a slam - going hand where his chief concern is the possible loss of two heart tricks. The five spade bid asks North to bid six if he has first or second round control of hearts. South might have:

4. Impossible The two spade bid by North snows weakness and asks South to pass, and the three spade bid simply repeats the play. South cannot bid over and again the values he showed originally when he opened with a notrump.

5. Impossible. North is permitted to pass three spades, since the double raise, though highly invitational to game, is not a forcing bid. If North chooses to go to game — possibly with a doubtful hand — South has no right to punish him now by making a slam try. Such a sequence of bids is illogical, since it puts the partnership in a position where there is no way of arriving at four spades.
