For the past two weeks a group of surveyors have been engaged in surveying the roads in the Montague area with a view to widening and top-grading. The necessity of having good roads this year will be more apparent owing to the fact that the dredging of the Montague River is slated for this summer with the consequent result of more transportation of products to the ships at the docks.

South Granville School Officially Opened Last Night

The official opening of the new South Granville School was held last evening with a large crowd in attendance. Attending from the Department of Education were Hon. F. A. Large, Minister of Education, Dr. L. W. Shaw, Deputy Minister of Education, and Mr. Malcolm MacKenzie, Chief Superintendent of Schools for Prince Edward Island. Each official of the department congratulated the district on the excellent school facilities they now have at their disposal.

The school is very well planned, it is equipped with modern lighting, two classrooms, library room, and washroom. It is situated on an exceptionally fine school lot, and the community is to be commended very highly on the work they have done to acquire the new building. A one-room school, with accommodations for 25 pupils, there are facilities for teaching all ten grades.

Mrs. Corbett, who is the teacher in the new school, was in attendance last evening with her pupils. One of the oldest members in the district, Mr. Falconer, recalled his days as a pupil in the old school. Mr. S. MacInnis of the N.F.B. showed films as part of the entertainment for the evening, and young people of the community contributed with specialties, which were very well received.

Next Week Set As "Safety Week"

Citizens of this Province are requested to join in observing and giving emphasis to the "Highway and Traffic Safety Week," from May 21st to 28th inclusive. Sponsored by the Charlottetown Junior Chamber of Commerce, the instigation of a safety drive has met with the enthusiastic approval of all government and civic authorities, with the hope that it will promote safer and saner automobile driving in the future.

A special film, "Gentleman Jekyll and Driver Hyde," produced by the National Film Board, will be shown at the Prince Edward Theatre during the week. This featurette illustrates in a humorous vein how drivers break all the known rules of safety. It shows how Driver Jekyll breaks every traffic rule so that Gentleman Hyde gets home two minutes earlier.

A safety letter contest is also being sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Charlottetown Theatres. The contest letter should tell in 250 words or less the writer's opinion of "highway and traffic driving" conditions in Prince Edward Island and give suggestions for improvement. Anyone in the Province is eligible, with the exception of members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and employees of the theatre and its families. A top prize of $150.00 will be awarded the winner of the best letter, while special theatre passes will go to the 2nd, 3rd, 4th and 5th winners.

The letter should be brought or mailed to the manager of the Prince Edward Theatre on or before Tuesday, May 23rd. All letters must be signed and will become the property of the contest sponsors. The winning letters will be published in both Charlottetown papers. A board of judges representing service clubs, civic groups and churches will judge the various letters.

It is hoped that many will express their comments and suggestions to emphasize safer driving and stricter observance of the safety rules.

In October a Constitution and by-laws for the Junior Ladies' Aid of the Prince Edward Island Hospital were adopted, and copies of same were distributed to all the members.

Gaily trimmed Christmas trees in the wards and corridors again brightened the appearance of the Hospital during the holiday season, and brought a little of the Christmas spirit to patients and staff. This was done a few days before Christmas by a committee under the capable convensorship of Mrs. Robert Large.

Our mobile canteen, carrying magazines, cigarettes, candy, etc., has been in operation for sixteen months and has proven a very popular service to both the patients and the staff, as well as a success financially. Mrs. Lasky and her committee, Mrs. Lasky and Mrs. Barbour, deserve high praise for the very efficient manner in which this canteen is operated.

The fourth annual Parade of Spring Fashions, held at the Charlottetown Hotel in March, under the excellent convensorship of Mrs. Alan Macmillan, once more was our big project of the year. We appreciate the wonderful co-operation of every member of the Aid, the merchants, the advertisers, the manager and staff of the Hotel, the attractive models, and all others who helped us in this enterprise. An additional fifteenth show helped to make this year's "Parade of Spring Fashions" the most successful financially, and Mrs. Macmillan and Mrs. Prowse, her assistant convensor, and her various committees certainly are to be congratulated upon their splendid work.

It was decided that, from the point of view of the Junior Aid workers and from that of the contributors, it would be more feasible to hold the annual League of

Junior Ladies' Aid Of P. E. I. Hospital Review Highly Successful Year

Instead of in May, as in former years. Letters have been sent to the various Church Guilds and Women's Institutes interested, advising them of this change in date. We hope that in the Fall this worthy project will receive the same interested and generous support which it has received in the past.

During the year, members of the Aid ushered at the Nurses' graduation, provided refreshments for the nurses' dances, assisted in the Red Cross collection, and helped the Senior Aid in selling tickets for their annual sponsored picture show at the Prince Edward, and in selling tags on Easter Saturday. We again awarded a prize for General Proficiency at the Nurses' Graduation.

In the year 1949-50, we purchased for the Hospital an electrically controlled cosmo incubator Bassinet, a combination instrument cabinet and work-table for the recovery room, a small wheel chair, and a collapsible wheel chair.

From the proceeds of this year's Fashion Show, we have bought an electric Singer sewing machine for the Cundall Home; and we have ordered an incubator bassinet for the nursery, an oxygen administrator and resuscitator for the recovery room, and a wheel chair. At this time may I express our sincere appreciation to the members of the Senior Aid who have been most interested and sympathetic in all our undertakings.

In closing, I wish to thank our Vice-President, Mrs. Robert Large, for her willing co-operation at all times; our Secretaries, Mrs. Dick Ross and Mrs. Walter Picard, who so ably have recorded the minutes and looked after the correspondence; our Treasurer, Mrs. Tom DeBlais, who has so efficiently kept the Aid's finances in order; and all the members, whose enthusiasm and close co-operation have made the office of President a pleasant one.

We have had a measure of success during the past year, but let us resolve to work in unity to keep the Aid's finances in order in the year to come. Surely our excellent Hospital and its staff are deserving of our best.

An excellent report was read by Mrs. A. G. Macmillan, Fashion Show convener, on the result of the "Parade of Spring Fashions." The Junior Aid cleared $1,128.79 to mark the most successful show in its four-year-old history.

Service Appreciated Mrs. A. J. Haslam in reporting for the Mobile Hospital Canteen stated that "during the year, with the exception of Sunday, Wednesday, and holidays, the car visited the patients daily. This service has been very much appreciated by the patients, and has proved to be a valuable means of adding to the Aid's finance. The total sales amounted to $3,208.67 which you will agree is a very nice sum for a business operating only two hours a day. As of the April 30 stock taking, all bills were paid including the stock on hand to the value of $40.38. We turned over to the general account $350.00, leaving a balance in the car account of $61.88."

ISTANBUL, Turkey, May 15 - (AP)—An unexpected landslide in Turkey's general Sunday overture of the People's Party founded by the late Kemal Ataturk after 27 years of rule, unofficial returns indicated tonight.

The returns showed that the country repudiated President Ismet Inonu's government and trust in Turky's five-year-old Democratic Party.

A tide of economic discontent upset the party which for 22 years was the republic's only political party. Unofficial reports gave Celal Bayar's democrats upward of 300 out of 487 seats in the one-chambered parliament.

Eighty per cent of the 9,000,000 eligible voters are estimated to have cast their ballots. Nine cabinet members were reported swept out of parliament. They were: Vice-Premier Erkin Nihat, Finance Minister Rashtu Ismet, Customs Minister Sheragettin Fazil, Communications Minister Kamel Satir, Agriculture Minister Tahsin Oran, Education Minister Cahit Banguolu, Exploitation Minister Munir Birel, Public Works Minister Sheragettin Adalan and the National Defence Minister, Nuru Cakir.

Hasan Saka, former Premier and Foreign Minister, also lost. Inonu was reported defeated in Ankara, the capital, but held his parliamentary seat by winning in Malatya, a second province in which he ran. Under the law ministers are allowed to run in two districts.

Inonu's government maintained silence over the political upset. Inonu, President since 1938, was seeking a fourth four-year term. His party had controlled the government ever since Ataturk overthrew the old Sultanate monarchy in 1923. Ataturk was president until 12 years ago when Inonu succeeded him.

The issues in Sunday's elections were domestic, and Turkey's foreign policy is expected to remain the same, with the country's alliance to the western democracies and its strong opposition to Russia firm.

Dr. J. A. MacMillan Discusses Health Plans At Rotary

It is historically true that any serious attempt to change the basic philosophy of a nation is usually commenced as a move to establish a new system of health regulations and administration. Once the new philosophy is accepted as a health measure it is gradually applied to all forms of industries and business, said Dr. J. A. MacMillan, President of the Blue Cross for the Maritime Provinces, in an address to the Charlottetown Rotary Club at their weekly meeting yesterday.

Urging business leaders to recognize the threat of state medicine as an ultimate threat to their own business, the speaker suggested that the best means of combating it was to encourage the expansion of such voluntary health plans as the Blue Cross, Blue Shield and various other private means of providing medical and hospital facilities to the public through regular payments as a group.

Dr. MacMillan, who entitled his talk "Free Enterprise and the Health of the Nation," said there was no place for pessimism in Canada. We are certainly not running short of the things necessary for a happy life. He mentioned the discoveries of high grade ore in Labrador from which steel will be available for many generations. Oil too is being discovered in abundant quantities, and there is little danger of depletion of our soil. Canada could well supply a large part of the world food requirements in addition to feeding our own population.

All in all, said the speaker, Canada is entering an era of unequalled prosperity at home, and a most favourable position in the world.

Generally speaking, said Dr. MacMillan, Canadians have four great systems of political philosophy from which to choose. None is absolutely right and none free from all wrong. They are Communism, State Socialism, Free Enterprise with Government control of business, and Free Enterprise.

It is of the latter of which Canadians are most concerned since we share in the tremendous developments brought about under this system both here and in the United States. Basically it means that industries, businesses and individuals enjoy certain freedoms as inalienable rights which no power may take from them. Some of these, said the speaker, are the right to possess property, to enjoy the fruits of one's own labour, to receive a return according to one's efforts; rights such as freedom of speech and of the press.

At the same time Free Enterprise does not mean that business may run its merry way regardless of the individual, or seek profits regardless of the means. It is recognized that certain practices are morally wrong and that there are certain obligations to the public which anyone enjoying our society must observe or face intervention by the government. All recognize the need for such intervention, but this is not interference in private business. Some of these recognized regulations have to do with minimum wages, child labour and workmen's compensation.

Crux of the Matter The crux of the matter is, said Dr. MacMillan, if state medicine becomes established, the same philosophy will prevail in everything.

Today health is at its highest level in history except for a few marked shortcomings brought out during the last war. Why is it then that we hear of state medicine? he asked. The excuse is that pressure is being brought to bear upon the Government to take care of those unable to get adequate medical and hospital services. They talk about the man living forty miles from the nearest doctor and hospital centre. This man they refer to as certainly not provided for, but neither is he properly housed, or even adequately fed. His problem is not one of health, but one of economics. If he had the means of livelihood he would soon have proper health care. Left as he is no form of state medicine will aid him.

Planning will not provide his basic necessities, so that his case is a useless argument for an eminent health scheme. Today we have plenty of facilities to look after the public health and if the public wants more it can get them. If some people think the public needs more, but can't afford them, then how can the government afford them. No form of administration can give more than the public as individuals can afford.

Wide Participation In concluding his talk, Dr. MacMillan said that between 55 and 60 per cent of the people in the United States participate in some form of voluntary health plans. In Canada the percentage is already nearly as high, and in Charlottetown, the two hospitals get $120,000 annually or about 27 per cent of their total income from the Blue Cross. Island doctors get about $300,000 annually which is an indication that this voluntary health plan is not small business. He asked the members to take an interest in seeing that all their employees were provided with this health service and suggested that if they did not "others will."

The Club voted $60.00 to be sent to each of the relief funds of
