The Varsity Troupe of King's College Coming To Prince Edward

The Varsity Troupe of King's College, which is playing at the Prince Edward on Wednesday and Thursday, June 14th and 15th are not strangers to the theatre goers of this town. Last year they played in all the chief centres in the Maritime Provinces and delivery where the general comment was "Equal to professionals."

Such comments as the above were heard in every city and town where the troupe visited. The three act comedy "Ann", which they are presenting this year, is a very amusing comedy, full of delightful complications and interesting situations. The vaudeville bits are new and original and those who enjoyed all the humorous situations of "Mrs. Temple's Telegram" will find nothing lacking in "Ann". The troupe have secured new scenery, new costumes and carry their own stage settings. They will undoubtedly receive a cordial reception when they visit Charlottetown on Wednesday and Thursday, June 14 and 15.

WON INSTITUTE PRIZE—Mrs. Rose Ann Devereaux, Kelly's Cross, extends her sincere thanks to each and every one who so very generously donated names to her for their Institute quilt. Through the kindness of her many friends she had the extreme pleasure of handing in $25.00 and 250 names to the Secretary at their last institute meeting. She won the prize that the Institute offered to the lady who would hand in the most names, by a majority of 190 names.

P. E. I. L. H. SIGNALERS—The P. E. I. Light Horse go into camp this year as usual at the Exhibition grounds. The camp opens on June 2nd, and continues until 25th. Headquarters signalers who intend attending camp this summer should communicate immediately with the adjutant or directly with Lt. Col. W. C. Cook. The establishment this year has been slightly reduced and to make sure of getting a place Light Horse signalers should lose no time in enrolling.

P. E. I. L. H. CAMP—Those of our readers who last summer saw that splendid body of men and horses known as the P. E. Island Light Horse will be glad to know that they go into camp again this year. It was wonderful to see what a few days training could do. The evolutions at Victoria Park, on inspection day were well worth seeing, and the fine appearance of the men and the steadiness of the splendid horses were freely commented on. We will look forward to the appearance of this popular unit on our streets once more.

WHAT ORGANDY WAS AND IS.
 Organdy as we know it today is much different from the organdy of a century or so ago. Old references to this fabric indicate that it was a stiff-finished fine muslin. The crispness was imparted to the fabric by a heavy starch filling. The old organdy was not transparent; it lacked the daintiness and practicality necessary to a dress material and because of its stiffness and the fact that it could not be washed, it was used only in bonnets and trimmings of dresses. It fell to the lot of one far-sighted Swiss chemist to see the possibilities of a material that would be crisp, that would be sheer and

The Practical Aspect of a Father's Love

TWO business associates were discussing their children and the problems connected with their upbringing.

Said one: "My whole life is bound up in that boy and girl of mine—they shall have a chance in life that I never had—I am spending every cent I can afford on their education."

Said the other: "I am doing the same for my two little ones. But I've done more than that to safeguard their careers."

"What more can one do?" was the surprised query.

"One can give them the protection of Life Insurance," promptly came the rejoinder—"and that is what I have done. Their education will go on even if I am not spared to see to it."

No man has completely fulfilled his obligation to those he loves, until he has extended to them such a practical application of his affection.

Let the protecting arm of Life Insurance be thrown around them.

Let the North American Life Assurante Company issue a Policy on your life—thereby creating an Estate sufficient to carry out your plans for the children's education.

It's not a matter that you can afford to delay. See to it now while yet you have the health that will enable you to secure insurance.

A request for our "Child's Endowment Policy" Booklet will give you all information.
