OTTAWA LETTER

How P. E. Island is Described in the Immigration Pamphlet.

(Special correspondence of The Examiner.)

(Concluded.)

Mr. J. Heber Haslam (President Central Farmers' Club), Springfield, P. E. Island, March 2, 1892:

In reply to your request for information about Prince Edward Island as a field for intending British settlers, I have to say that in no part of Canada is there, to my mind, a more desirable place for Old Country farmers to settle.

The conditions here are, perhaps, more similar to those which they obtain in England than in any other part of Canada.

This Province is eminently adapted for dairying, sheep and hog raising, fruit-growing and mixed farming generally.

The soil is very fertile; the climate, in summer, everything that can be desired, and in winter it very rarely falls below zero.

The houses and barns are commodious and comfortable, and the farms well fenced—in a great many cases with spruce and hawthorn hedges.

The landscape generally reminds one of the Old Country.

Land, with good buildings, can be procured in the best localities for from $5 to $8 per acre.

Mr. D. S. Wright, Searlstown, P. E. I., March, 1892:

In reply to yours of the 30th ult., relative to the agricultural advantages of this Island, I can only reiterate the oft-repeated statement that it possesses unequalled fertility. The soil is a sandy loam, porous, and easily cultivated, well supplied with pure water, and especially adapted to the cultivation of grain and vegetables. Wheat is successfully grown, with a yield of from 25 to 45 bushels per acre; oats, barley and other grains in proportion; roots can be grown in abundance. The grass is of a fat-producing quality, and well adapted for beef and dairying purposes. No advantage of its resources has yet been taken from a modern agricultural standpoint, and the limit of producing power of one acre, with modern appliances, has not yet been reached. Many farmers following the line of cultivation practiced by their ancestors, by untiring industry and strict economy, have a surplus at the end of each year, which is deposited in safe keeping. An improper rotation of crops has so exhausted the soil the nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash, so essential to vegetation, that the fertility of the virgin soil is partially exhausted, and in consequence, many farms are forced on the country at a large discount. The cultivating and seeding process commences about the 1st May; wheat, barley and oats are sown when the land is sufficiently dry; potatoes, when planted in this month give the best results, although large crops have been grown when planted as late as the 15th June; mangels and turnips from the 1st to the 25th. Ten and twelve hundred bushels of the latter have been grown on one acre, but these figures are above the average.

The cultivation of corn for silo purposes is yet in its infancy. Experience has proved that the soil of this Island is well adapted to its successful culture. Attention along that line will greatly expand our stock and dairying capabilities, which must form our principal exports in the future, as first-class products command remunerative prices. The climate varies; while there is neither extreme heat nor cold, the temperature will gradually drop to 20° and below, and in course of 48 hours rise to freezing point. Snow and frosts disappear with April; by the 1st June vegetation is rapid; hay is sufficiently ripe by the 20th July, grain a month later, roots are there in October, and in this month all the land can be prepared for the following year's crop. Generally the ground becomes frozen by the middle of November (exceptional seasons a month later) and by the 15th of December navigation closes for ordinary shipping.

The export and import trade is carried on during the winter by a powerful steamboat, built expressly for winter navigation, connecting with a line of railway running through the Island, intersecting the various towns and shipping ports, with other shipping accommodation dotted along the shores, which make easy access to markets.

The chief exports are classified to suit foreign markets, horses (for which this Island is famed), sheep, eggs, poultry and potatoes, also fish (with which our waters abound) are sent to the markets of the United States, though trade with that country has become less profitable owing to present tariff restrictions; oats to Great Britain and the West Indies, and, in smaller quantities, to the different markets in Canada. Beef is also sent to Great Britain and pork to Canadian markets.

The land value varies according to situation and state of cultivation. A lot of 100 acres in Searlstown, 1½ miles from railway station, 70 acres tillable, balance covered with hard and soft wood, with covered with buildings, one-half mile from ordinary farm buildings, sold a few weeks ago for $2,100, or $420 sterling; another of 50 acres in same locality, all under cultivation, for $1,600. Another of 130 acres—100 in a good state of cultivation, balance covered with profitable timber, good farm buildings, sold for $6,000. Another of 200 acres is offered—120 in a good state of cultivation, balance covered with timber for building purposes, wood and farming, with good farm buildings, well watered, near school and church, for $6000. These figures place the value at from $20 to $60 per acre, excepting land near towns, which commands high prices.

What will most create the position of the agriculturist in Prince Edward Island is the investment of capital in modern methods of cultivation. We want men of expanded ideas, versed in agricultural science and practical results, with sufficient capital to purchase those partially neglected farms and develop their resources, which in a few years would return the amount invested and provide for their owners comfortable homes in the vicinity of schools and churches, free education, no direct taxation, with institutions in almost every locality for mental improvement, and, I may say, possessing all the modern advantages and accommodation enjoyed by the farming population of any country.

The suitability of Prince Edward Island as a place of settlement for British farmers with more or less means at their command, can be inferred from the foregoing statements.

Mr. Thomas Reid, Campbellton, New London, P. E. I., February 27, 1892:

I would respectfully call your attention to this section of the country, as a desirable home for emigrants from the mother country.

To those who are turning their eyes towards Canada for a home, it is safe to say no better or more remunerative land can be found anywhere. Profit follows upon farming of almost any kind, on account of the productiveness of the soil and the convenience of markets. While wheat, oats and potatoes are the general crop, the soil is adapted for the growth of roots or grain of almost any kind.

This section of the country can compare favorably with any part of Canada for the production of wheat, many farmers this season raising from 30 to 40 bushels per acre. Although this is considered an exceptionally good crop, we have always good returns. New London, as one of the foremost settlements on the Island, is well provided with schools and churches—Presbyterian, English, Methodist and Catholic churches within a few miles of each other; also halls, where lectures and public meetings are held. Land in this locality, all ready for farming, can be bought for from $20 to $30 per acre, together with fences and good buildings thereon.

To those with small capital and wanting a home in a good community, with river advantages, &c., we would heartily invite them either to visit the place and see for themselves or write for fuller particulars.

Mr. Henry J. Townsland, Brookside Farm, New Glasgow, January 14, 1892—

Prince Edward Island, adjoining province to Nova Scotia, to my mind is the El Dorado of Canada. The British farmer who settles there will find not a few English, Scotch and Irish brother chaps who have found out the beauty spot before him. The soil is usually rich and easily worked, the situation healthy, and in summer, the whole Island, in its general aspect of rich pasture, a population of growing green crops, looks like some Old World park; each farm being divided by trees and hedges; the roads wide, straight and well kept; railway from one end of the Island to the other; steamboat communication with all parts of the world; a population of advanced farmers for neighbors; a local government (yet the party politics be what they may), the foundation of which is a desire to legislate for the farmer, there being no other axes to grind than the agricultural ones, the result of which is that the breeding of stock, of all kinds takes a leading place in the stock-raising on the Island, and it is from the Island of Prince Edward that a very large proportion of the stock to improve the flocks, herds, and studs of not only New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, but also of the border of the United States; the farmer of Maine and Massachusetts made in time past many drafts.

To the farmer, then, who understands the handling of thorough-breds, who knows how to keep them up to the standard, and improve on the Island of Prince Edward is a field open to him, let his leanings be either to sheep, horses, cattle or swine.

TO GAIN the public confidence is essential to business success, and it can only be gained by a steady course of faithful dealing with them. It is by this course that Messrs. Tackett & Son have secured the great success of their "Myrtle Navy" tobacco. This confidence is not only a source of business to the firm, but also a source of economy which the consumer gets the benefit of. The merchant never loses a moment of time in examining the quality of the tobacco. The name fixes the quality as absolutely as the mint stamp fixes the value of the guinea. It is not even necessary for the commercial traveler's trunk to be burdened with a sample of "Myrtle Navy." All his customers know what it is, and know in an instant when it has been supplied. There is no room for any dispute about it. No waste of time or postage in writing complaints about it. These myrtle look like trifles to the uninitiated, but they save money, and enable merchants to perform the work of distribution at the smallest possible cost. They are part of the reasons why the finest quality of tobacco grown can be sold at so cheap a price.

GENTS—My father died of CONSUMPTION of the Liver, many in my family have died with the same disease, and a large part of the time for the last two years I have been very sick, no appetite, bowels alternating between constipation and diarrhoea. Pain all over my body, and severe pains all through my Liver. So nervous I could not sleep, and sweet and refreshing sleep came to me only when I began to increase rapidly in weight.

I have now taken less than a full course (six bottles) of SKODA'S DISCOVERY, with SKODA'S LITTLE TABLETS, and today I feel as strong, and able to do my work, as I did when I first began to grow stronger; bowels assumed a natural condition; sweet and refreshing sleep came to me; I began to increase rapidly in weight.
