Mr. MacDonald gave a very comprehensive report on the National Convention held in Saskatoon early this month. TORONTO (CP)—Tax experts say the $60,000 in cash, merchandise and services swimmer Marilyn Bell has received since she swam across Lake Ontario Thursday will be tax free.

Under Canadian law, gifts or prizes are not taxable. The tax-free returns of the 16-year-old athlete include $10,000 from the Canadian National Exhibition. She had no understanding, before she started the swim, that the exhibition would pay her, tax men say.

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A 36-inch fireworks bomb boomed high over the grounds at 10 minutes to midnight, marking the official end of the 14-day session, while adding machines counted up the greatest CNE attendance ever.

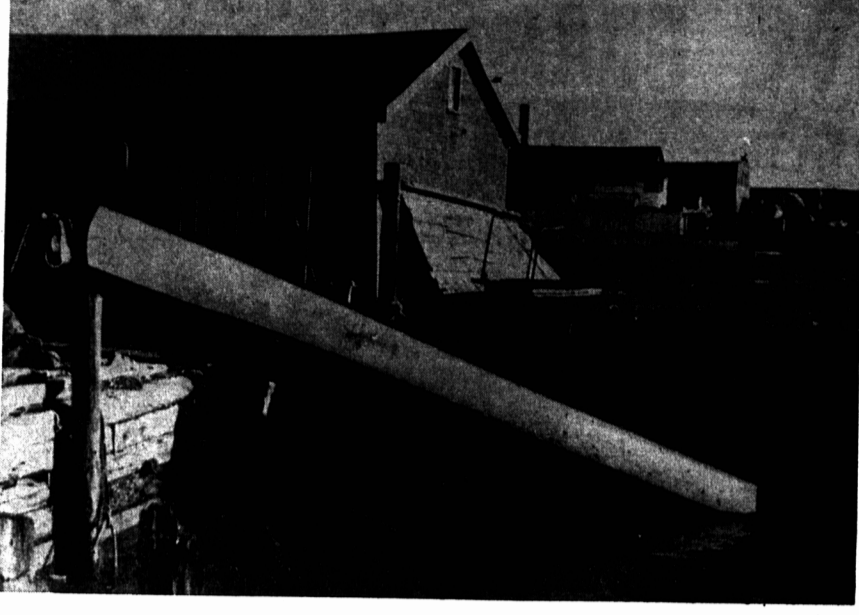

A record 2,800,000 persons attended the fair, nearly 100,000 more than the previous best total of 2,723,000 set in 1950 and 200,500 more than last year.

Saturday 262,000 turned up, of the 11th time figures were above the same day last year. Five day records were established, including a single-day high of 296,500 who came on the second day.

Que. Politician Critical of St. Laurent's Views

MONTMAGNY, Que. (CP)—Solicitor-General Rivard of Quebec said Saturday a speech by Prime Minister St. Laurent in Montreal last week has saddened his compatriots but "would rejoice all the fanatics who wish to enslave the spirit and heart of Quebec."

Quebec. "This was unjust to Quebec and the words were regrettable, Mr. Rivard said. They 'reveal a centralizing mind that is particularly dangerous.'"

FOREMOST FACTORS

"The prime minister probably knows the opinion of Russia through the Canadian ambassador in Moscow," Mr. Rivard went on. "We would have liked him to know the opinion of a Canadian ambassador to the Vatican, but the federal government has not seen fit to grant to the oppressed the diplomatic privileges it has granted to the oppressor."

STOLEN RIGHTS

"This ill-feeling exists because we have started to recover the rights stolen by Ottawa because we want to build our own schools, have our own study programs, build hospitals, organize social services and because all this disturbs the views of some federal centralisers."

Quebec's advance in all fields, especially in mining and forestry developments, were the first and most important factors in Canada's growth, he said.

ILL-FEELING

"It is, to say the least, surprising that the prime minister of Canada, a Quebecer, does not remember that."

Mr. Rivard said if there is some ill-feeling in Quebec it is not caused by the growth of Canada. Quebec would continue to bring its broad contribution to the prosperity and greatness of the country.

"This ill-feeling exists because Quebec affirms its unalienable rights in taxation matters," the solicitor-general said in a reference to the new provincial income tax.

PROBLEMS IN PAKISTAN AND INDIA

"We envy him nothing in that sphere and only hope Canada finds profit thereby."

"We will, however, continue to think it is more important at this time to recognize the rights of Quebec than those of Communist China," Mr. Rivard said.

IMPRESSIVE MEMORIAL CEREMONY HELD AT CORNWALL YESTERDAY

An impressive ceremony took place yesterday afternoon at the two cenotaphs at Cornwall erected to the fallen of both World Wars. The Kingston Branch of the Canadian Legion observed their annual Memorial Day and were joined by a large group of citizens from the surrounding districts.

A parade of veterans, marshalled by Mr. Andrew Gass and led by Pipe Major Albert MacLeod and Piper Harold Saunders, moved off, preceded by a group of school children carrying floral bouquets which they later placed on the war memorials. Standard bearers were Comrades A. C. MacEachern and Michael Murphy. The Last Post and Reveille was sounded by Bugler William Chaisson of Charlottetown.

Special speakers were Rev. O. D. Cochran, of North River Baptist Church and Mr. A. Walthein Gaudet of Charlottetown. As a former infantryman, Rev. Mr. Cochran related an instance during World War II whereby the act of another soldier, in losing his own life, was responsible for the saving of Mr. Cochran's. The speaker reminded the assembly that the Son of God made the supreme sacrifice for all mankind and following his teaching that there is any hope for the world. Mr. Gaudet observed that the school children were included in the day's observance and pointed out that this was a commendable thing, since it was one of the best lessons in citizenship that the boys and girls could receive. He spoke of the important place Canada occupies in the nations of the world and urged those present to take an active part in their community life so that the sum total of their efforts would stand as a model to the other nations who do not enjoy the measure of freedom that is enjoyed here.

During the service wreaths were placed by members of the immediate families of the fallen. During 1914-1918 they were: Pte. Robert E. White, killed in action, October 1917; Pte. Ethan C. White, died of wounds, June 4, 1918; Pte. Daniel MacPhee, killed in action, Aug. 24, 1918; Pte. Andrew Gass, killed in action, September 2, 1918; Pte. Victor J. MacDonald, died effects of gas, January 6, 1920; Pte. Damien Leonard, died on military service, December 16, 1918; Pte. George Yee, died of wounds, November 20, 1917 and Pte. Horace Gardiner, killed in action, September 27, 1918.

Four men lost their lives during World War II. They were: Gnr. John White Bell, October 3, 1944; Flight Sergeant Ronald H. Butler, October 22, 1943; Flight Sergeant Teris H. Miller, August 17, 1942; Pte. William E. Stone, October 10, 1944.

GALE DISRUPTED POWER LINES WORST PROBLEM IN CHARLOTTETOWN

Charlottetown experienced extensive damage as a result of the week-end storm. The city's first power line failure was at 10:10 p.m. Saturday due to falling branches and uprooted trees. This was quickly followed by a succession of similar incidents resulting in more than twenty transformers being burned out, and an entire black-out of the city from 1:30 a.m.

More than two-score ornamental trees, many of which had flourished on home grounds for nearly a century, were uprooted by the gale. Not a street in the city escaped the loss of huge branches or the up-rooting of shade and ornamental trees. An old tree landmark on Gallows Hill, another on Pownall near Euston, and one on the old Colonel Grey property on Brighton Road failed to withstand the gale. Other properties showing the effects of the storm by the loss of trees were the Holy Redeemer Rectory, Judge Duffy's residence, Brighton, the Army and Navy Club, the Dundas Home, R.C.M.P. Headquarters and Prince of Wales College grounds. Many of the falling trees carried away the power lines and broke off the poles.

Victoria Park and properties fronting on the harbour received the full brunt of the gale. Although only half a dozen trees were uprooted in the park area, the guard-rail along the park roadway was damaged for a third of its length and the base washed out in several places. Fences were blown down throughout the waterfront area and small buildings unroofed.

In the business area, several signs were blown down, the recently erected one at the Cantwell Pharmacy being carried across the street to the grounds of St. Paul's Church.

den adjoining Notre Dame Convent was levelled with the ground. The most devastating power line interruption was caused by a tree falling over the wires and snapping off two poles at the corner of Beaufort and Richmond Streets, which is a major lead line route on the power circuit.

SMALL BOATS SAVED
Through the efforts of the members of the Charlottetown Yacht Club, headed by Mac Irwin, many small craft on the waterfront during the storm and checked on hawsers from time to time to assure what safety possible under the circumstances.

The runabout "Gordon Ann," owned by Mr. Myron Bell was swamped and sank at the dock, but yesterday morning she was brought to the surface, showing no ill-effects from the immersion. In summing up the situation, Mr. C. F. Buckingham Superintendent of Construction Maritime Electric Company said that more than fifty miles of pole line running through the city streets and lawns with trees in full foliage presented a difficult task to check and clear. Full city gangs were on the job at daylight but unfortunately no rural linemen could be diverted to the city.

The tree program of last winter helped considerably in avoiding far more breaks in city circuits in the areas where trimming had been done, Mr. Buckingham said.

Annual School Meet To Be Held On September 25

Last evening, the Physical Fitness Division, Department of Education, announced that the annual P. E. I. interscholastic track and field championships will be held at Memorial Field, Charlottetown Saturday, September 25th at 2:00 p.m. All schools should immediately get their contestants picked for the various age races for boys and girls ranging from 7 years and under to 15 years for both and the open events—100 yd dash, high jump, running broad, pole vault, shot putt, quarter, half and 1-mile runs.

CASUALTY AVERTED

One casualty was narrowly averted when the occupant of a car parked at the corner of Queen and Kent Streets moved the vehicle and another took its place. The occupant of the second car just stepped clear when a nearby tree was uprooted, carrying with it two concrete sidewalk slabs. The tree fell atop the parked car crushing it badly. On East Kent Street a large falling branch crashed the plate glass window of a sun porch, which was luckily unoccupied. On Weymouth Street, the high board fence of the garage
