purpose of learning whether Stone had a five-card heart suit. When Stone responded with three hearts, Roth (correctly) contracted for game in hearts rather than spades.

West led the diamond king and shifted to a club when his partner played the deuce. Declarer won with the ace and led a heart to the king which lost to the ace. Back came a diamond which South ruffed. Two trumps and three club tricks were cashed, presenting this picture:

The lead was in dummy and the crucial decision had to be made. Had Stone made the normal lead of a low spade to the queen, the contract would have been defeated. But Stone sensed the true situation.

He ruffed the jack of diamonds and led a low spade to the king. East took his ace and had to return a spade. When he led the spade deuce, South played low, dummy's ten took the trick, and the queen provided the game — going trick.

The unusual endplay gained our team 720 points. When the same hand was played at the other table, where I was east, the North-South pair arrived at a four spade contract.

Declarer playing at spades, had no reason to handle the trumps abnormally and lost two trumps, a heart and a diamond to go down one.

Opening lead — king of diamonds.

Tobias Stone, tempestuous member of the six-man American team which will compete for the world championship at Lake Como, Italy, starting this Saturday was declarer at four hearts.

He played the hand in brilliant style to score the vulnerable game and help our team win the national Masters Team of Four Championship when that event was played in Pittsburgh last summer.

The bidding was typically Roth-Stone-ish. Roth's three diamond bid (forcing) was made for the

OUR BOARDING HOUSE MAJOR HOOPLE

THE HAGUE (Reuters)—Joke Haanschoten, a four-year-old girl with a radioactive nose, was returned to a Utrecht hospital Saturday night for "observation."

Hospital authorities declined to discuss her strange case but police said "she did not look very ill."

Joke originally was admitted to University Hospital in Utrecht for an undisclosed nose disorder. During radiation treatment, the needle containing the radium broke off unnoticed and remained lodged in her nose.

She returned to her family in the village of Putten and went back to kindergarten for a day. Then the hospital noticed the broken needle. Eventually it was traced to the little girl.

She had in the meantime "infected" the house and garden. Her parents and four brothers and sisters were isolated in hospital. Police guarded the house and a sign warns: "Peril to life — no entrance."

WILL CHECK PLAYMATES
Her school has been closed and medical officers will check each of the 80 pupils.

Medical sources said it was a mystery how the disappearance of the needle which carried "very small amount" of radium could have remained undiscovered for so long.
