Dead Sea Scrolls Subject Of Address By Dr. Toombs

"Seven complete scrolls and one other on copper, each dealing with the period in history between 150 B.C. and 130 A.D. have been brought to light in the Dead Sea scrolls," Rev. Lawrence E. Toombs, B. A., B. D., B. Sc., Ph. D., told Rotarians and their guests at the regular luncheon meeting at the Charlottetown Hotel yesterday. "Hundreds of thousands of fragments have been unearthed at the site of the ancient city of Shechem, which lies 40 miles north of Jerusalem. It is believed that about the year 68 A. D. this city was overrun by Roman soldiers, but before the people left, they buried their treasure and their scrolls, which were written in the Hebrew language. All the complete scrolls have been purchased by the Hebrew University in Jerusalem where they are carefully preserved under glass and are being studied by scholars. The fragments of scrolls are also under glass at the Rockefeller Museum in Jerusalem where they, too, are being avidly scrutinized by those who are trying to match up the writings and bring order out of chaos among the fragments.

"Success has been achieved in re-assembling fragments on leather dealing with Samuel, two-thirds of this scroll having been matched up and translated," Dr. Toombs said.

He described in detail the main dining room and scriptorium with desks and stone benches and seating for 60 to write, which have come to light in the excavations begun in 1947. Three kinds of writing have been identified and the whole book of Isaiah and also copies of biblical books have been recovered along with commentaries and information regarding what was going on at the time of writing. What has been identified as a manual of discipline and a book of instructions to the group or sect deals with the manner in which they were required to be baptized before entering, and the sacred meal described as roughly like a Christian communion.

"No fear is felt as to what may be done to either the Jewish or Christian faiths in the discoveries day. A drunk and incapable who was arrested Saturday night, he wandered into the Police Station and was sentenced to twenty days in jail; another on a similar charge received a similar sentence. Two others drunk and incapable were charged with a fifth was fined ten dollars and costs or five days. In the case of a man charged with the theft of a car battery, the plaintiff declined to appear and the accused was dismissed.

Executive Of P.E.I. Temperance Federation Meets

The executive of the Prince Edward Island Temperance Federation met in mid-summer session in the Study at Trinity United Church last evening with Dr. J. A. Clark presiding.

The field secretary, Dr. Ross Eaton, reported that contact has been made with a Rev. Ralph Ingersoll, a minister of the Reformed Baptist Church, now serving in Woodstock, N. B., with a view to becoming a part-time assistant secretary. The committee was instructed to negotiate with Mr. Ingersoll on such terms as they have suggested.

Twelve copies of a recent book, "The Cup of Fury" were authorized to be secured for distribution. The annual meeting of the Federation is scheduled to be held in Charlottetown early in November, at which time it is hoped to have Rev. John Linton, in attendance. He is now attending the International Conference on Alcoholism at Istanbul, Turkey.

Dr. Toombs is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Toombs of Charlottetown, who following his graduation from West Kent School, attended Prince of Wales College, graduating from there in 1940.

Dr. Toombs continued his studies at Acadia University receiving his B. Sc. degree and in the following year his B. A. He later attended Pine Hill Divinity Hall at Halifax leaving there with the degree of B. D. He was ordained in Sackville, N. B. in 1948.

Dr. Toombs received his Ph. D. at Drew University, Madison, New Jersey in 1951. He is an outstanding student of the Bible and a recognized authority on "The Dead Sea Scrolls".

At the end of the month Dr. Toombs is leaving to join an expedition enroute to Shechem where he will spend the summer unearthing this ancient city. Next winter he will attend the American School of Oriental Research in Jerusalem.

The chair was occupied by Russell Selles, who introduced the speaker, Co-chairman Rev. T. H. B. Somers, in thanking Dr. Toombs on behalf of the club, expressed appreciation that all present had been granted the privilege of hearing an account of the finding and study of the documents at first hand.

IOOF Funeral Notice

Members of Hillside Lodge No. 123 will assemble at the lodge room on Wednesday, July 11th at 1:30 for the purpose of attending the funeral of the late William C. Stewart. By order of the Noble Grand.

Hopes To Keep Within Civic Budget This Year

All departments of the City are keeping well within the estimates for the year, with the exception of the Street Department, it was reported by the chairman of the Finance Committee, Councillor E. Johnstone at the regular monthly meeting yesterday of the City Council. The meeting was presided over by His Worship, Mayor J. Stewart. All members were present with the exception of Councillor Elmer MacDonald.

Coun. Johnstone estimated that based on the expenditures for the first six months of the current fiscal year all departments would complete the year with their budgeted amounts.

Coun. P.R. McCormac, reporting on the Street Department, said that work on the North River Road would be completed this week providing the weather remained favourable. The inclement weather has caused some delay in the street program. An additional slight setback was a breakdown of the scales at the asphalt plant. This had been overcome by obtaining a set of scales on loan from a business concern. He said that the area in front of the new Federal Building would be completed this evening in preparation for the laying of asphalt.

Among the correspondence read, was a letter from a number of residents of the west side of Prince Street between Kent and Fitzroy protesting the proposed opening of a restaurant in the east side of the block next to the Health Centre. The Mayor said it presented a difficult problem. There appeared to be means by which the zoning regulations could be made to apply. The proprietor of the proposed restaurant had already obtained the required building permit to carry out the necessary alterations to the present building.

Letters were also read from a resident of the east end of Richmond Street and Canada Packer Ltd., regarding the lack of adequate drainage facilities at the intersection of both Richmond and Sydney Streets. The City engineer was instructed to make a survey of the situation and to prepare an estimate for presentation at the next regular meeting.

A request from the St. Dunstan's Credit Union to be exempted from the business tax was discussed and it was decided final foundland and Canada.

But he said he thought the report of the Gordon royal commission on Canada's economic prospects will result in practically a new Canadian charter. And he said, "I expect the formation of this commission is the direct result of the row kicked up by Atlantic premiers during the last four or five Dominion-provincial conferences.

POWER CO-OPERATION

Mr. Hicks said Nova Scotia could foresee limitations of its hydro potential and he was prepared to hook up a grid system with New Brunswick when such a connection appears feasible. Electricity and transportation were the only two points on which Mr. Hicks dealt at length.

Transportation was also the major topic of Premier Matheson who said the railway on the island would eventually disappear unless services improved. "People are not interested in the using of railway unless they get service," he said.

Any industrial developments in the other Atlantic provinces will be of immediate benefit to Prince Edward Island, said Mr. Matheson, because the agriculture industry—the province's mainstay will reap results.

NEED MORE FROM OTTAWA

But agriculture was not discussed at length during the open session. Premier Smallwood was concerned mainly with more federal participation in resources development and with a general improvement in the living standard. "The government of Canada is wrong," he said, "if they feel—and sometimes I think they do—that they should treat all provinces equal. These four provinces need more from Ottawa than do most other provinces."

But as Mr. Smallwood spoke in the well-filled legislative gallery he pounded the desk to emphasize that "We must be aware of the danger of throwing ourselves at Ottawa and saying, 'You dirty brute' you married me and now take care of me."

"We must do all in our power," he said.

In his call for federal assistance in provincial developments Mr. Flemming said the capital needs of the New Brunswick Electric Power Commission in the next decade has been estimated at $211,000,000 and "I believe in

Director

Major Roy MacGillivray of Charlottetown was appointed a director of the Canadian Welfare Council at the annual meeting of the organization held recently at Edmonton, Alta. The Canadian Welfare Council is composed of members throughout Canada who deal with the various phases of welfare and includes representatives from Federal and Provincial Governments including Family Allowance officials. Major MacGillivray, who was the first president of the Catholic Social Welfare Bureau in Charlottetown, and who continues to actively support that expanding organization, is well qualified to assume office in the larger field of activity. More than 3,000 delegates attended the Council meeting.

Two tenders for fire hose were approved, one to Leslie Gillespie 1 supply 250 feet of 2 1/2 inch hose and 100 feet of 1 1/2 inch hose.

A request from the Board of School Trustees asking that the funds now held by the City, amounting to approximately $46,000, be transferred to the board received considerable discussion. It was found that the City was not empowered to make the transfer and the City Clerk was instructed to write the chairman of the board explaining the circumstances and to suggest other means of obtaining the required funds for renovations.

PLEAD TO LEAVE

The panic-stricken population of Santorini driven from their home by the earthquake and by the eruption of the island's volcano which followed it, crowded the shores pleading to be taken to the mainland.

The Greek Interior minister said the quake hit the entire South Aegean area and had its epicentre in Santorini.

(The Rome Observatory said the main tremor was "extremely violent" and was followed by minor shocks.)

"It said the energy developed by the hypocentre of the tremor—the point below the surface where an earthquake develops—may have been equal to about 10,000 ordinary atomic bombs."

HUGE TIDAL WAVES

Huge tidal waves occurred around the island of Syros, Santorini, Kalymnos, in the Dodecanese Islands, and other of the Aegean Islands at Kalymnos, it swept 100 yards inland. The waves reached as far as Heraklion in Crete.

Unofficial reports from Santorini said most of the island's villages were badly damaged.

Only 50 of 200 dwellings in Pyrgos Ville were said to be unaffected. In Anemoneria, the Mocrastery of St. Elias was reported destroyed. All houses in the village of Mesogonia either collapsed or were damaged.

King Paul and Queen Frederika, a situation like ours, assistance should be available."

Mr. Flemming, chairman of the open session, said the term "regional loyalty" has taken new depth and dimension. He said this regional loyalty was developing at a time when "great opportunities" for economic development existed.

Kidnapped Baby Search Bogs Down

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — The search for kidnapped Peter Wenberger bogged down again Monday in a welter of hoax calls from heartless meddlers. Police turned this way and that, without a clue. No trace of the five-year-old boy has been found since he was seized from the patio of his home here in mid-afternoon of July 4. Nor has there been a scrap of hard evidence that the child is alive.

Two men were arrested in New York early Monday. Police said they admitted hoax telephone calls that sent the baby's mother, Mrs. Beatrice Wenberger, into the night in a lonely, perilous, fruitless search for her son.

With 5,000 cash on her to meet a ransom demand, the tiny, brunette mother spent 70 agonizing minutes parked at a lonely intersection in New York City. With pounding heart she awaited a promised rendezvous with the kidnapper.

FUTILE WAIT

Her vigil was a waste of time. Even as she waited, police said, her two tormentors were phoning her home anew at least three more times from taverns and drug stores.

"They said they weren't interested with the money," New York deputy police inspector Raymond V. Martin said. "They just wanted to see the cops run around."

The fake phony call had assured Mrs. Wenberger she could pick up her baby in a Roman Catholic church in Jackson, Miss. She said she had paid the ransom in the adjoining Woodside section of Queens.

Mrs. Wenberger ran from her home here at 9:30 p.m. Sunday into a humid night that seemed to her like a nightmare. She drove the 15 miles to the Woodside rendezvous.

When it became apparent the kidnapper was not going to show up, Mrs. Wenberger drove on to the church. Police and clergy searched the office from top to bottom. They found no baby.

TRACE HOAXERS

Meanwhile, the added phone calls had proved the undoing of the two hoaxers, both in their 20s. Through an operator, the telephone calls were traced and New York City police seized the men.

During the weekend, the mother obtained the co-operation of Roman Catholic and Protestant clergymen as well as rabbis of her own faith.

Throughout this fashionable section of Long Island, they agreed to leave their churches open to contact them or leave the baby.
