

What is Scott's Emulsion?

It is the best cod-liver oil, partly digested, and combined with the hypophosphites and glycerine. What will it do? It will make the poor blood of the anæmic rich and red.

It will give nervous energy to the overworked brain and nerves. It will add flesh to the thin form of a child, wasted from fat-starvation.

It is everywhere acknowledged as The Standard of the World.

The Transvaal War

ELANDSLAAGTE.

Graphic Description of the Bloody Battle.

G. W. Steevens, the Daily Mail correspondent, gives the following graphic description of the bloody battle and glorious victory of Elandslaagte which did not begin until nearly 5 o'clock in the afternoon. He says:—

"Our guns moved to a position toward the right and the Boer guns opened fire. Lord, but those German gunners knew their business. The third or fourth shell pitched into a wagon full of shells with a team of eight horses hitched to it. We held our breath for the explosion, but when the smoke cleared away only the near wheeler lay on his side, and the wagon had its wheels in the air. Our batteries bayed again and the Boer guns were silent.

"The attack was to be made on their front and left flank. The Devonshires formed for the front attack and the Manchesters on the right. The Gordon Highlanders edged to the extreme rightward with a long boulder-freckled hill above them. The guns flung shrapnel across the valley. The cavalry were in leash, straining towards the enemy's flanks.

A Blinding Rainstorm

"It was about a quarter to 5, and it seemed curiously dark. No wonder, for as the men moved forward the heavens opened, and from the eastern sky swept a sheet of rain. With the first stabbing drops the horses turned their heads, and no whip or spur could bring them up to it. It drove through mackintoshes as if they were blotting paper. The air was filled with a hissing sound, and under foot you could see the solid earth melting into mud, and the mud flowing away in the water. The rain blotted out hill, dale and the enemy in one grey curtain of swooping water. You would have said that the heavens had opened to drown the wrath of man.

"Through it the guns still thundered, and the khaki columns pushed doggedly on. The infantry came among the boulders and began to open out. The supports and reserves followed. Then in a twinkling, on the stone pitted hill's face, burst loose that other storm, a storm of lead and blood and death. In the first line down behind the rocks, the men were firing fast, and the bullets came flickering around them. The men stopped and started, staggered and dropped limply, as if a string that held them upright had been cut. The line pushed on, and a Colonel fell, shot in the arm. The regiment pushed on, and they came to a rocky ridge twenty feet high. They clung to the cover, firing, then rose and were among the shrill bullets again. A Major was left at the bottom of the ridge with a pipe in his mouth and a Mauser bullet through his leg. His company pushed on. Down again, fire again, up again and on. Another ridge won and passed, and only a more hellish hail of bullets beyond. More men down, more men pushed into the firing line, more death-piping bullets than ever. The air was a sieve of them; they beat on the boulders like a million hammers; they tore the turf like harrows.

Fix Bayonets

"On, and now it was surely the end. Merry bugles rang like the cock-crow on a fine morning. 'Fix bayonets,' staff officers rushed shouting from the rear, imploring, cajoling, cursing, slamming every man who could move into line, but it was a line no longer; it was a surging wave of men. The Devonshires, Gordons, Manchesters and Light Horse were all mixed. Subalterns commanding regiments, soldiers yelling advice, officers firing carbines, stumbling, leaping, killing, falling, all drunk with battle. And there beneath our feet was the Boer camp and the last of the Boers galloping out of it. There also, thank heaven, were squadrons of Lancers and Dragoon Guards, storming in among them, shouting, spearing, stamping them into the ground.

Cease fire! It was over. Twelve hours of march, reconnaissance, waiting and preparation, and half an hour of attack, but half an hour crammed with the life of a half lifetime.

Plan of Operations.

The plan of operations on both sides is slowly unfolding itself. General Joubert is evidently moving south to prevent, if possible, the junction of the British relieving force with the forces at Estcourt and Ladysmith, while on the Orange border the Boers are believed to be concentrating at Donkerpoort to oppose General Buller's advances. It is said that 6,000 Boers have already laagered at Donkerpoort. The English plan seems to be a threefold advance from Durban to Ladysmith, from Orange River to Kimberley, and from East London by way of Queenstown to Burgersdorp. General Buller has wired the commanding officer at Queenstown announcing the despatch of General Gatacre, with the first battalion of Seventh Brigade, to East London. This was the place from which it was originally ordered that Gatacre's column should start. Thus it is possible that General Buller's first plans have suffered less modification than some have supposed.

The British troops arriving in Cape Town, seem a good deal like water to a sponge. They disappear. What is to be hoped is that the Boers will suddenly find the sponge getting a squeeze.

NERVOUS... DEPRESSION

Means Impoverished and Exhausted Nerves—Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food Restores and Revitalizes the Nerve Cells.

People who suffer from Nervous Depression and Exhaustion frequently look healthy and strong. They alone know the thousand distressing symptoms which make their lives miserable.

The lack of nerve force results in a slow and sluggish action of the heart, impaired digestion, headache, despondency, and a fear to venture, loss of energy, sleeplessness, incapacity for mental labor or business.

With these symptoms there is usually melancholy and fear of death, which tends to increase nervousness, but there is every reason to be hopeful if the right treatment is used. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food contains all the nutrition required to create new brain and nerve tissue. It imparts to the nervous system that life-giving principle which sends a thrill of new strength and vigor through the system.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food will cure by the building-up process, which enables the body to laugh at disease and weakness. Face cut and fac-simile signature of Dr. A. W. Chase on every box of the genuine. See a box, at all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Toronto.
