

Mont Carmel-Egmont Bay Fair Draws Warm Praise

Yesterday at 2 p.m. Lt. Governor T. W. L. Prowse officially opened the 1956 Egmont Bay - Mont Carmel exhibition and extended to the directors his congratulations on the manner in which the fair was arranged. He said it was second to none. Commenting on the various exhibits Lt. Governor Prowse paid a special tribute to the work of the women of the district in preparing the culinary display and handicrafts.

The Hon. Eugene Cullen, Minister of Agriculture, who was present as the representative of Premier Matheson said, "in this Province people depend on agricultural products and so we must produce the best quality. For this reason exhibitions are held. The government pays a grant of 80 to 100 per cent of prizes."

He announced that the Provincial Government proposes to call a meeting of the directors of various regional exhibitions. At this meeting ideas will be exchanged and through this exchange, means may be devised to further improve the exhibitions and the quality of the products.

J. Watson MacNaught, M. P., in his brief remarks said that there was something unique in the Mont Carmel - Egmont Bay exhibition, something which lies in the excellence of the handicrafts. This, he felt, could be developed away and beyond what it is now. He congratulated the directors on the fine exhibition they have built up.

PAYS TRIBUTE

J. A. Gallant, M. L. A., in his remarks paid tribute to the work of John F. Arsenault, a director of the exhibition who is ill in the Prince County Hospital. Mr. Gallant said that this was the first exhibition at Mont Carmel that Mr. Arsenault had missed since 1903. He was one of its organizers and was a man who had worked unselfishly for the good of the community all his life, asking for no other reward than the realization of a job well done.

Others who spoke in appreciation of the excellence of the exhibition were Judge W. E. Darby, Walter Shaw, R. R. Bell, M. L. A. R. C. Parent, Edmund Arsenault and Robert Sampson.

Ideal weather conditions prevailed throughout the afternoon and by the time the official opening took place there was a good attendance drawn from various parts of the Province.

The consensus of opinion of the judges of the various exhibits seemed to be that there was considerable improvement both in quality and quantity in many of the entries.

The Mont Carmel - Egmont Bay exhibition has for many years been noted for the outstanding quality of the sheep exhibit. Mr. Robert Sampson of the Canada Department of Agriculture who has judged the entries for the past two years, said that this year there were 138 entries in the sheep class, a notable increase over other years. Seventy-five per cent of the Country breed.

He was much impressed with the entries of Mr. Sylvère Arsenault whose entries won the ribbon for the champion ram and champion ewe.

These entries, he said, had stiff competition from those of Henry W. Wedge of Summerside. Judge Sampson said that both these exhibitors were producing excellent flocks.

CATTLE ENTRIES UP

The number of entries in the cattle sections were much higher than last year with the exception of those of the Shorthorn breed. Mr. Keith Clay of the Department of Agriculture, said that while the quality was good, the entries were few and he would like to see more in this class exhibited in future. He paid high tribute to the Shorthorn cattle exhibited by Ivan Clark and Son of Lot 16, whose animals were top winners because they were of top quality.

Commenting on the quality in the other cattle classes Mr. L. J. Roper said that this year the quality was better right across the board than it has been for the past eight years. The best cattle, he stated, were really wonderful.

In the swine section the entries were down under previous years. Those that were exhibited included some excellent breeding stock and in summing up the entries for the swine section Mr. Boswell said that the lack of quantity was more than made up in quality.

Robert Chappell of York, who was the judge of the horses, expressed the opinion that the general quality was improving each year. He said that the two grand champions were animals which were worthy of being shown at any exhibition.

Although the livestock portion of the show attracted many while judging was in progress an equal interested number of people thronged the building where the culinary display and handicraft show was held.

A great deal of interest centered around the portion of the show sponsored by the 4-H Club. Mr. Alan Palmer of the Department of Agriculture, in Summerside, who had charge of the 4-H part of the show was enthusiastic regarding the work being done by the Abrams Village and St. Chrysostom - St. Phillip Clubs.

He said that in his opinion both clubs had made a much better showing than last year.

The weight pulling contest during which single and double teams of horses pull slabs of concrete blocks, has always been a highlight at this exhibition. Yesterday there were no singles entered and the contest was won by the double team owned by J. Frank Gallant pulling a dead weight of 4,020 pounds. Edmund Bernard placed second with a team which moved 3,855 pounds.

RCAF Radio Beacon To Be Lined Up With Long Runway

The Department of National Defence has called for tenders on the relocation of R. C. A. F. Station Summerside direction finding radio beacon. It is planned to locate the beacon at Miscouche Point. The present beacon is near the Island highway between the Airport and St. Eleanore's Corner.

Radio transmission emitted by this equipment enable aircraft crews to locate the airport and descend through cloud in poor weather. Motorists driving past the present location can hear the beacons Morse code signals of Summerside on their car radios.

The new location will bring the beacon in line with the airport runway presently being extended. This will allow pilots to fly a definite descent procedure in relation to the beacon which, when completed will place them over the radio site and in line with the airport longest runway, while still unable to see the ground.

The direction finding equipment further shows the pilot the direction of Summerside from points as far as 100 miles away and enables him to fix his position when used with a beacon transmission from some other station in the vicinity. Equipment of this type is located in Canada as well as at most civilian airfields.

The U.S. Navy announced here Jones promised he would store to the Scottish town silver looted by his men in 1778 when they raided the town. The destroyed John Paul Jones delivered a silver tray to town officials last week.

BATTLE OF BRITAIN

Scenes like this will come to mind to many Sunday as the 16th anniversary of the Battle of Britain is observed. The shot was taken at the height of the battle as pilots, who prompted Churchill to say "never in the field of human conflict was so much owed by so many to so few," "scrambled" to their famed Hurricane fighters to stave off the enemy. Home At Malpeque Corner Destroyed By Morning Fire

An early morning fire caused by an overheated stove pipe completely destroyed the residence of Mr. Russell Craig at Malpeque Corner Wednesday morning. The fire broke out about 6:45 and was first noticed by neighbours who saw the smoke issuing from the roof. Mr. and Mrs. Craig and family were in the lower part of the house and with the assistance of neighbours who gathered they were able to remove part of the furniture in the downstairs part of the home.

The Kensington Fire Department arrived at the scene of the fire with the new pumper truck and were able to save several adjoining buildings and residences from destruction.

So rapid did the fire spread that on the arrival of the brigade the roof was falling in. However with the aid of the new pumper and the work of the Kensington Fire Department the fire was prevented from spreading to nearby homes.

Furniture in the upstairs part of the home was almost all lost. It is understood that the loss is covered partially by insurance and that Mr. Craig plans to rebuild in the immediate future.

Integration of Negro, White Students Is Progressing Well

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Thousands of white and Negro children in the south attended school together for the first time last week.

A few Negroes braved mob pressures with the help of soldiers' guns to go to school with whites, but the majority entered without incident.

This third school year opening since the U.S. Supreme Court outlawed racial segregation found schools moving swiftly ahead toward full integration in all border states of the south—but with resistance still strong in the hard core of "deep south" states.

Additional districts in Texas, Oklahoma, Missouri, Kentucky, Maryland and West Virginia last week opened classrooms to children of both races. Some schools in those states and in Arkansas began integration last year.

300,000 INTEGRATED

There has been no public school integration in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia.

Southern School News, published monthly by a group of southern editors and publishers, reports that about 300,000 Negro pupils will attend integrated schools in nine southern and border states and the District of Columbia this fall.

Approximately 2,400,000 Negroes will remain in racially separated systems, The News says, while desegregation will be in effect in 723 school districts and school units in the southern area.

With school opening across the south, 186 school districts are opening their doors without regard to race for the first time or had desegregated last year without public announcement.

The first—and worst—outbreak of the new school year occurred in Tennessee where Clinton High School admitted 12 Negroes under court order.

GUARD PROTECTION

Demonstrations in varying degrees of unruliness also flared up over Negroes attending or attempting to register at public schools in Mansfield, Tex., Sturgis and Clay, Ky., and Mooloka, W. Va., and at a junior college in Texarkana, Tex.

Negroes attended school in Clinton and Sturgis under National Guard protection. Texas Rangers moved into Mansfield but a mob succeeded in preventing Negroes from registering. A boycott by white pupils developed after Negroes entered the Mooloka school.

Although attention was centered on the trouble spots, there were many more areas of voluntary integration where there was no trouble. However, they were in areas with relatively small Negro populations.

But as integration moves into areas of more intense feeling on the race issue, there is always the danger that simple opposition to mixing of races in the classrooms, if spurred on by white extremists, might snowball into serious racial conflict.
