A Necklace of Engagement Rings.
One charming New York girl has as unique a necklace as one could well imagine. What do you think her string of wampum is composed of? Engagement rings! They are strung together flat to circle her neck, with tiny links of gold chain fastening them together, stone end out. There are pearls, single and in egypt setting; turquoise, marquis and diamond solitaire, and one unlucky being settled his fate and place on this row by a large and particularly fine opal; another was a ruby, seven were emeralds and two were heart shaped sapphires. The oddity of the chain just saves it from being vulgar.

The Green Garnet.

Among the rarest precious stones the green garnet is probably the most valuable. This gem is a superb, rich shade, far more brilliant than that of the emerald. A green garnet easily commands double the price of a pure diamond of equal size, because it is so exceedingly rare, while red garnets are so common that their cost is trifling.

HE WAS UNRELIABLE.

Why the Minister Looked With Suspicion Upon Hiram Snyder.

The author of "Little Journeys to the Homes of American Statesmen" tells a story of the civil war, when the days dragged gloomily in anticipation of news from the front and when grief was likely to overtake any who had boys in the ranks. He says:

One night the postmaster was reading aloud the names of the killed at Gettysburg, and he ran down to the name of a youth we knew. The boy's father sat there on a nail keg, chewing a straw. The postmaster, for his sake, tried to shuffle over the name and hurry on to the next.

"Hi!" said the father. "Wha-what's that you said?"

"There was nothing to do but face the issue, and the postmaster repeated with a forced calmness:

"Killed—Snyder, Hiram."

The boy's father stood up with a jerk. Then he sat down. Then he stood up again, staggered to the door and fumbled for the latch like a blind man.

"God help him!" said the postmaster, wiping his eyes with his red handkerchief. "He's gone to tell the old woman."

The minister preached a funeral sermon for the boy, and on the little pyramid that marked the family lot in the burying ground they carved the inscription:

"Killed in honorable battle, Hiram Snyder, aged 19."

Not long afterward strange, yellow bearded men in faded blue began to arrive. Great welcomes were given them, and many a big gathering was held in their honor. At one such gathering a ghost appeared—a lank, saffron ghost, ragged as a scarecrow, wearing the cape of a cavalryman's overcoat, with no coat beneath.

The apparition was a youth of about 20, with a downy beard all over his face and a countenance well mellowed with coal soot, as he had ridden several days on the top of a freight car near the engine. The ghost was Hiram Snyder.

We forgave him the shock of surprise he had caused us—all except the minister who had preached his funeral sermon. Years afterward I heard the minister remark in a solemn and aggrieved tone:

"Hiram Snyder is a man who cannot be relied upon."

A Jury of Women

Who have tested the merits of Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney & Liver Pills return the verdict that for backache and kidney disorders there is no preparation in any way equal to this great discovery of Dr. A. W. Chase, America's greatest physician. This great kidney cure is sold by all druggists at 25 cents a box, and has proved most efficient as a remedy for the many ills to which woman is subject.
