

UIC Regulations Outlined By Ch'town Office Manager

The belief that there is "no particular difficulty" for persons to draw unemployment insurance benefits rather than work when work is available, was criticized by J. B. Murley, manager of the Charlottetown unemployment insurance office last night.

"The fact is," said Mr. Murley, "every person who is in receipt of benefits must declare, every time he receives money from the commission, that he is able, ready and willing to work."

"Moreover," he went on, "anyone refusing an offer of suitable employment is likely to be disqualified from receipt of benefits."

In order to test the sincerity of the claimant who declares his readiness to accept work, Mr. Murley pointed out the UIC must have a suitable job opening to which that person can be referred. "Here is an area in which employers might well work more closely with the commission."

"The commission's national employment service," he said, "is designed specifically to find the right worker for the employer's job and the right job for the unemployed worker. Matching the worker to the job is a highly skilled occupation and the NES has the staff to be of great assistance to employers in this respect."

Alberta Oil Sands Could Double Reserves in West

By BORIS MISKEW
Canadian Press Staff Writer
EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta crude oil reserves alone could exceed those of the remainder of the non-Communist world if proposed experiments to extract oil by nuclear blasts are successful in northern Alberta.

The Western Hemisphere now has about one-quarter of the total known reserves of the non-Communist world — whose total is about 230,000,000 barrels — with the remainder being found mostly in the Middle East.

The proposed extraction of oil from the Athabasca oil sands could, if successful, leave Alberta with reserves of up to 500,000,000 barrels.

Reserves in the Middle East total 164,312,000 barrels while the Far East holds about 8,400,000 barrels. Known reserves in the Western Hemisphere total 54,000,000 barrels, with 30,300,000,000 in the United States. Canada's reserves are nearly 3,000,000 barrels — mostly in Alberta.

The Athabasca oil sands contain an estimated 600,000,000 barrels of crude oil in a 17,000-square-mile area, about 200 miles northeast of Edmonton.

Oil experts believe that between 25 and 50 per cent of this oil could be recovered if tests by Richardson Oil Corporation and its associates are successful.

This could increase Alberta's reserves up to 300,000,000 barrels, and the total of the non-Communist world to about 530,000,000 barrels.

MAY START NEXT WINTER

Officials hope to proceed with actual experiments at the Athabasca sands next winter.

Sam Stewart of Calgary, Richardson's Canadian division manager, told a press conference the experiments will include nuclear blasts to produce oil "from the sands buried too deeply to employ surface strip mining oil extraction techniques."

Oil in the sands is too thick and tar-like to flow or pump naturally, he said. It must be heated to convert it to a light oil.

Heat generated by a nuclear blast appears to be the most economical and feasible energy source available to raise the temperature of the underground oil. Mr. Stewart said.

The cavity-forming blast is expected to leave a place for oil to gather before being pumped out in the conventional method. All fission products should be trapped in the rock melted by the explosion.

dent, $10,000 would be little enough to care for small children.

He noted that the amount being paid out each year was very small and felt that payments of such large amounts would be more or less rare. He cited an instance where a woman was injured two years ago and is still in hospital where her bills have now accumulated to something like $8,000.

Mr. Bell reminded the House that although these maximum amounts were stipulated by statute, the claimant would be eligible to receive only the judgment handed down by the court.

PREMIER AGREES

Premier Matheson said he agreed with both the member from 1st Queens and the Leader of the Opposition that the payments should be increased but he expressed concern that through too generous payments the fund might become depleted.

Leo Rossiter (PC—2nd Kings) suggested that if the fund showed signs of depletion, the yearly levy on licensees could be raised to $1.50 or $2.00.

Premier Matheson said there had never been any consideration given to such a move.

Frank MacNutt (L—3rd Prince) said he was strongly in favour of an increase in payments under the unsatisfied judgment fund. He felt that claims for damage against property as well as against person should be raised.

Mr. MacNutt inquired of the Premier whether he had given thought to introducing "A Safety Responsibility Act". Mr. Matheson said he understood such an act was in force in New Brunswick and Manitoba. He was not too familiar with it, though.

COMPULSORY INSURANCE

Mr. Rossiter inquired whether it had ever been considered bringing compulsory insurance into effect.

Premier Matheson said the Island has compulsory insurance in the case of an impaired or drunken driver, also in the case of a person involved in the unsatisfied judgment claim. In all three cases the driver must show financial responsibility before his license is renewed.

Mr. Matheson said compulsory insurance which had been in force in some provinces of Canada had been repealed. It was found that drivers became less careful in their driving habits when it was known that universal coverage existed.

R.R. Bell pointed out when a person is convicted for drunken or impaired driving or is involved in an unsatisfied judgment claim, he must show financial responsibility to the ratio of 5-10 and -1 thousand dollars.

SHOULD BE THE SAME

He felt that since the act called for such financial responsibility evidence in one case it should be prepared to extend proportionate benefits from the fund.

Mr. Bell said that although five and ten thousand was the standard

Mr. J. S. Jean Gallant's class, Grades III, IV, won the trophy for parent attendance at the meeting. The trophy had been held these past two months by mother St. Catherine's class, Grades VI, VII.

HIGHLIGHT OF THE EVENING WAS an address by the provincial president G. Reginald MacNutt, who surely merits congratulations on his keen interest in Home and School as this marked his 25th. visitation outside the city.

Mr. MacNutt reviewed the Canadian Conference on Education, held a year ago, expressing his pleasure on having been able to attend and be an eminent speaker; outlined clearly the national set-up of Home and School in Ontario; covered national relations as to fees. Mr. MacNutt dealt with roles Home and School is assembling, strengthening relationship driver going 60 mph in a 40 mile zone.

The Attorney General said, "The Police will not bother you if you are going 41, 42 or even 43 in a forty mile zone but if you are going 53 to 63 mph they will bother you and they should. He felt there was no grounds for pleading ignorance of the law on the part of tourists all of whom had similar regulations in their own area.

M.M. Bell said visitors coming to the Island need not plead ignorance of the law. He recalled that he himself had been convicted of speeding at Cornwall and had paid a fine.

Mr. Bell recalled that during a recent visit made to California he had heard that 30,000 warnings were given in the Los Angeles area on the weekend before New Years. At Long Beach the court recorder told him he had a backlog of 3,400 cases to come up in connection with traffic violations.

Alberta Oil Sands Could Double Reserves in West

By BORIS MISKEW
Canadian Press Staff Writer
EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta crude oil reserves alone could exceed those of the remainder of the non-Communist world if proposed experiments to extract oil by nuclear blasts are successful in northern Alberta.

The Western Hemisphere now has about one-quarter of the total known reserves of the non-Communist world — whose total is about 230,000,000 barrels — with the remainder being found mostly in the Middle East.

The proposed extraction of oil from the Athabasca oil sands could, if successful, leave Alberta with reserves of up to 500,000,000 barrels.

Reserves in the Middle East total 164,312,000 barrels while the Far East holds about 8,400,000 barrels. Known reserves in the Western Hemisphere total 54,000,000 barrels, with 30,300,000,000 in the United States. Canada's reserves are nearly 3,000,000 barrels — mostly in Alberta.

The Athabasca oil sands contain an estimated 600,000,000 barrels of crude oil in a 17,000-square-mile area, about 200 miles northeast of Edmonton.

Oil experts believe that between 25 and 50 per cent of this oil could be recovered if tests by Richardson Oil Corporation and its associates are successful.

This could increase Alberta's reserves up to 300,000,000 barrels, and the total of the non-Communist world to about 530,000,000 barrels.

MAY START NEXT WINTER

Officials hope to proceed with actual experiments at the Athabasca sands next winter.

Sam Stewart of Calgary, Richardson's Canadian division manager, told a press conference the experiments will include nuclear blasts to produce oil "from the sands buried too deeply to employ surface strip mining oil extraction techniques."

Oil in the sands is too thick and tar-like to flow or pump naturally, he said. It must be heated to convert it to a light oil.

Heat generated by a nuclear blast appears to be the most economical and feasible energy source available to raise the temperature of the underground oil. Mr. Stewart said.

The cavity-forming blast is expected to leave a place for oil to gather before being pumped out in the conventional method. All fission products should be trapped in the rock melted by the explosion.

dent, $10,000 would be little enough to care for small children.

He noted that the amount being paid out each year was very small and felt that payments of such large amounts would be more or less rare. He cited an instance where a woman was injured two years ago and is still in hospital where her bills have now accumulated to something like $8,000.

Mr. Bell reminded the House that although these maximum amounts were stipulated by statute, the claimant would be eligible to receive only the judgment handed down by the court.

PREMIER AGREES

Premier Matheson said he agreed with both the member from 1st Queens and the Leader of the Opposition that the payments should be increased but he expressed concern that through too generous payments the fund might become depleted.

Leo Rossiter (PC—2nd Kings) suggested that if the fund showed signs of depletion, the yearly levy on licensees could be raised to $1.50 or $2.00.

Premier Matheson said there had never been any consideration given to such a move.

Frank MacNutt (L—3rd Prince) said he was strongly in favour of an increase in payments under the unsatisfied judgment fund. He felt that claims for damage against property as well as against person should be raised.

Mr. MacNutt inquired of the Premier whether he had given thought to introducing "A Safety Responsibility Act". Mr. Matheson said he understood such an act was in force in New Brunswick and Manitoba. He was not too familiar with it, though.

COMPULSORY INSURANCE

Mr. Rossiter inquired whether it had ever been considered bringing compulsory insurance into effect.

Premier Matheson said the Island has compulsory insurance in the case of an impaired or drunken driver, also in the case of a person involved in the unsatisfied judgment claim. In all three cases the driver must show financial responsibility before his license is renewed.

Mr. Matheson said compulsory insurance which had been in force in some provinces of Canada had been repealed. It was found that drivers became less careful in their driving habits when it was known that universal coverage existed.

R.R. Bell pointed out when a person is convicted for drunken or impaired driving or is involved in an unsatisfied judgment claim, he must show financial responsibility to the ratio of 5-10 and -1 thousand dollars.

SHOULD BE THE SAME

He felt that since the act called for such financial responsibility evidence in one case it should be prepared to extend proportionate benefits from the fund.

Mr. Bell said that although five and ten thousand was the standard

Stella Maris H. & S. Meets

NORTH RUSTICO — The regular monthly meeting of Stella Maris Home and School Association was held on Tuesday evening, Feb. 24 at 7:30 p.m. There was a good attendance. Mr. J. F. LeClair, president, was in the chair.

Mr. J. S. Jean Gallant's class, Grades III, IV, won the trophy for parent attendance at the meeting. The trophy had been held these past two months by mother St. Catherine's class, Grades VI, VII.

HIGHLIGHT OF THE EVENING WAS an address by the provincial president G. Reginald MacNutt, who surely merits congratulations on his keen interest in Home and School as this marked his 25th. visitation outside the city.

Mr. MacNutt reviewed the Canadian Conference on Education, held a year ago, expressing his pleasure on having been able to attend and be an eminent speaker; outlined clearly the national set-up of Home and School in Ontario; covered national relations as to fees. Mr. MacNutt dealt
