"What could be in the box? I know there must be something in there." These children seem to be more interested in the contents of this package than they are in Santa Claus. Santa's special visit was to the RCAF Christmas Party held Saturday in the ballroom of the Rollaway Club. The annual party was sponsored by the members of the 201 Confederation Wing and the Ladies Auxiliary. A short program of children's films preceded the arrival of the special guest.

Cabinet Shuffle Involves Retirement Of Octogenarian

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost brought four new members into his cabinet Monday in a major reshuffle of Ontario administrative posts.

One cabinet minister retired and four received new portfolios in the Progressive Conservative government.

The newcomers are: James A. Maloney, 53, member for Renfrew South, appointed minister of mines.

George C. Wardrope, 62, member for Fort Arthur, appointed minister of reform institutions.

John P. Roberts, 41, member for London North, appointed minister without portfolio and a member of the water resources commission.

John Henry Haines Root, 50, member for Wellington-Dufferin, appointed minister without portfolio.

DUNBAR RETIRES

At the same time Mr. Frost announced the retirement of George H. Dunbar, 80-year-old member for Ottawa South, as provincial secretary. Mr. Dunbar, who has sat in the legislature continuously since 1937 and has been in the cabinet for the last 15 years, becomes a member of the St. Lawrence-Development Commission.

Health Minister Dr. MacKinnon Phillips, 60, member for Grey

North, leaves that portfolio to succeed Mr. Dunbar as provincial secretary.

Transport Minister Dr. Matthews Dymond, 47, member for Ontario riding, takes over the health post from Dr. Phillips.

Minister without portfolio John Yaremko, 40, member for Toronto Bellwoods, becomes minister of transport.

Reform Institutions Minister Thomas R. Connell, 42, member for Hamilton Wentworth, goes to the public works portfolio.

END DUAL POST

Mines Minister J. Wilfrid Spooner, 49, who held that post along with being minister of lands and forests, retires from the mines portfolio. However, the Ontario Dual Board will continue under his jurisdiction.

Mr. Frost's announcement said the government also is considering forming a new department in charge of the province's power and energy resources. There was speculation that this department might be headed by Robert MacAulay, 37, member for Toronto Riverdale.

The new ministers were sworn in Monday at a ceremony before Lieutenant-Governor J. Keiller Mackay.

The first printing presses in France were set up at the Sorbonne in Paris in 1470.

Industrialist; Secretary; Are Jailed For Contempt

BOSTON (AP) — Industrialist Bernard Goldfine, gift-giving friend of Sherman Adams, President Eisenhower's former aide, was sentenced Monday to three months in a federal prison for contempt of court in withholding records from the internal revenue service.

His blonde secretary, Miss Milfred Paperman, was sentenced to 10 days for the same offence.

Federal Judge Charles E. Wyzanski, who convicted them last Friday, passed sentence and said their jail terms will start Jan. 7. Both were released in personal recognizance of $1,000.

The United States attorney-general will decide at what federal institutions the sentences will be served.

SEPARATE ACTION

In a separate action immediately afterward Judge Wyzanski dismissed civil contempt charges brought by the Securities and Exchange Commission. Defence broken down," said a radio ham at Land's End on the extreme southwest tip of Britain. "There is the possibility that the balloon may have gone down in the sea."

While he admitted he was getting a little worried about the safety of the Britons—three men and a woman—aboard the Small World, he said if the balloon had come down it should have been spotted by ships on the route.

"The balloon's route from the Canary Islands to Barbados, its destination, would take it across three busy shipping trade routes from Europe to South America," the radio man said.

The radio ham said he had no definite signal from the balloon for a week. But the London Daily Mail, which is sponsoring the epic trip, reported it heard from the balloon Friday.

Ask Injunction In Ferry Strike

VANCOUVER (CP)—Manager B. O. Tolletson of the strike-bound Black Ball Ferries said Monday he is applying to the British Columbia Supreme Court for an injunction declaring the four-day strike by the Seafarers International Union (S.I.U.) illegal.

If the injunction is granted, the Marine Engineers' Unions will run the four ships of Black Ball Lines with or without S.I.U. crews. It was not certain Monday whether the S.I.U. would order its men back to work if the court application is granted. S.I.U. port agent Norm Cunningham said "they grant injunctions all over the place . . . but I don't know how they can get the men back to work again."

Mr. Cunningham said that in his view the strike is legal. Labor Minister Wicks has reused to state what the department of labor's view was of the legality of the walkout. CALL IT ILLEGAL

The company and two officers' unions, however, have said that in their opinion the walkout is illegal.

The dispute began Thursday night over the employment of a waiter on the Ferry Chinook's newsstand.

Crew members said the man was suffering from a weak heart and should continue in the light job. The company said he should go back to normal duties. The crew refused to work, and was fired. Next day the whole ferry service was brought to a stop, and the S.I.U. began demanding a 25-per-cent wage increase which it sought unsuccessfully earlier this year.

Balloon Radio Still Not Heard

LONDON (AP)—Radio amateurs failed again Monday to pick up signals from the British balloon Small World, last reported to be drifting with four passengers across the Atlantic toward the Caribbean.

Coast guardsmen and radio watchers expressed some uneasiness that the balloon, which left on its 3,000-mile journey 10 days ago, may be in trouble.

"The balloon's radio may have
