Change of Business!

For nearly fourteen years we have conducted business in this city in the lines of SEEDS and GROCERIES to the satisfaction of our patrons, as is evidenced by the fact that a large proportion of our present customers have dealt with us regularly from the start. For several years past we have foreseen that the development of our Seed business—now the largest in that line in the Maritime Provinces—would eventually make it advisable to give up the sale of Groceries altogether. That time has arrived, and we now RETIRE FROM THE GROCERY BUSINESS, not because of any want of success in that line or want of confidence in our ability to continue to compete for a fair share of patronage, but for the reason that we have plans for the future which, properly carried out, will, apart from the Grocery business, take up all our time and employ all our capital.

We propose to further develop and extend our Seed trade, improve wherever possible the quality of the Seeds we sell, and increase our facilities for conducting that business; to enter more largely into the growing of Seeds for our own trade in such lines as this can be profitably done, and in connection with the Seed business conduct in which the sale of Agricultural Literature will be made a specialty.

Our former Store in MONAGHAN'S BRICK BUILDING, on QUEEN STREET, is now being completely refitted and prepared for the proper carrying out of the above named plans. This Store will be open for business as soon as possible, and due notice will be given of the date. In the meantime our office remains where it is at present and we respectfully request prompt payment of all due and overdue accounts.

We have now to cordially tender our sincere thanks to our many friends and customers in both the city and country for their liberal patronage, and beg to inform them that we have sold out our STOCK OF GROCERIES and the good will of our Grocery business to MESSRS. BEER & GOFF of this city, and we bespeak for them the patronage of our customers in the Grocery line, and we feel confident that MESSRS. BEER & GOFF will endeavor to please all our old customers by giving them GOOD GROCERIES AT LOW PRICES and prompt attention, such as we have ever tried to do.

GEO. CARTER & CO.

Referring to the above, we shall make every effort to give Messrs. Geo. Carter & Co's. former Grocery customers, who may favor us with their patronage, tha attention and satisfaction which we are sure they have received in the past, and thus prove that we merited their confidence in recommending their customers to deal with us.

INDIAN BATHS.

The Red Men's Knowledge of the Laws of Health.

"Turkish" and "Russian" Bath of Civilization Known to the Indians.—How They Do It.—A Lesson From Nature which the Wise will Heed—Kickapoo Indian Sagwa a Grand Remedy.

INDIANS TAKING VAPOR BATHS.

In this way an Indian takes a "Turkish" or a "Russian" bath: They dig a hole in the earth, in which they lay stones, and upon which they build a fire, heating the stones to a red heat; they then carefully remove the coals; cutting a number of saplings they stick one end in the ground, bend them over and place the other end also in the ground, these extend over the hot stones in the shape of a half loop. Over these poles or hoops the Indians place skins of animals or blankets. If the "Russian" or vapor bath is desired, they then throw water upon the hot rocks, thus generating steam. Those desiring the vapor bath crawl underneath. After the pores of the skin are opened and they profusely perspire they crawl out and another Indian dashes buckets of cold water over them, or they plunge into a river by stream. They are then rubbed thoroughly with Kickapoo Indian Oil, and are given copious drafts of Kickapoo Indian Sagwa, after which they roll up in blankets and have a sound sleep.

Who can teach the Indians anything about health? His own physique answers for his superior knowledge.

His preparations of roots, barks and herbs, now given to the world for the first time in the Kickapoo Indian Remedies are unequalled by any discoveries of the medical world of the whites.

When you feel twinges of pain in your joints, look out, a slight cold might develop Rheumatic Fever. If you have pains in your back or sides your liver is congested or your kidneys are not performing their work and poison is gathering in your body.

Exposure to cold or contagious diseases would be fatal to you.

Pimples, blotches, and other humors indicate that the poison is working in your blood. You feel languid, heavy, dull; you awake in the morning unrested. Beware!

Drive these symptoms away at once!

Take Kickapoo Indian Sagwa. It will cleanse your system, heal your diseased organs, purify and enrich the blood, and drive every taint of poison from your body.

Then you will feel strong, bright, alert and active as the Indian does.

Kickapoo Indian Sagwa is composed of nature's remedies, gathered and prepared by nature's children, who depend not upon book knowledge for their cures, but upon the leaves, the flowers, the roots and the herbs that are placed in the earth by an all-wise Providence for the benefit of every living creature.

Why, look at the animals!

If your horse lacks his accustomed vigor you are taught to turn him out to pasture. You do so. The horse gets well.

Why?

Because there grows in every field the tender leaves of some medicinal plant which instinct tells the animals to eat, and does for the poor old horse precisely what some other, or perhaps the same plant will do for a human being. Restores the wasted energies! Renews the lost strength! Revives the drooping spirits.

Why you take Cold and Cough.

Generally caused by exposure to cold, wet feet, sitting in a draught, coming from hot and crowded places, in thin dress, or wearing damp clothes, stockings, or any other cause tending to check suddenly the perspiration. The result produces inflammation of the lining membrane of the lungs or throat, and this causes phlegm or matter, which nature tries to throw off by expectoration. In many cases she is unable to do so without assistance, and this is

WORKING THE HELIOGRAPH.

The System Regarded as of Great Importance in Military Science.

The west is the true home of the heliograph. The Department of Arizona, during the recent troubles over the late lamented Geronimo, made what might have been termed a heliographic survey of the seat of the Indian troubles, and located on the maps the available points of observation, with the direction and compass bearing of the other visible stations. In this way the country was covered with a network of heliograph posts, and the observers at each station kept flashing into headquarters the latest movements of the hostiles.

The Indians, under the cross-fire of mysterious sun signals, decided that the devil was in league with the troopers, and their superstitious fears, added to the constant harrying from the widely scattered parties of cavalry, brought them to terms, as never could have been done but for the use of the flash signals.

The distance covered by some of the heliograph stations was remarkable. Fifty or sixty miles were considered nothing unusual, and on one "reach" 125 miles were covered without an intervening station.

The invention of the heliograph belongs to England, and it has been used extensively in her service in India and Egypt, two countries where the atmospheric conditions are very much as in our own arid West. The instrument was first brought to America in 1874, and like a great many other inventions of John Bull, was greatly improved by his Yankee cousin, so that the instrument now in use in our signal corps is considered by experts the most nearly perfect in the world.

The speed of the heliograph is not so great as that of the regular telegraph instrument, although the Morse alphabet is used. Ten or twelve words a minute is considered good work, and is a vast improvement over the old method of signaling by flags, with which from three to four words a minute was the most that could be done.

An ally of the heliograph now in use by the signal corps is the flash lantern, whereby messages are sent at night over stretches of from ten to fifteen miles, though under favorable conditions, with night glasses, the messages have been sent for forty miles at a single reach. The old method in night signaling was to use torches, after the manner of flag signals. One of these, known as the foot torch, was placed on the ground in front of the observer, to give his location to the receiver at the other end of the line, and the "fly torch," on the end of the long pole, was used in waving out the words.

This method was afterward superseded by the use of lanterns with dark shutters worked by a key, as in the telegraph sounder, but these arrangements were likely to get out of order in the field, and now the energies of the corps are bent to perfecting a brilliant lantern of light weight, which can be obscured by a regular heliograph screen. The lanterns now in use in the corps are fed with a mixture of kerosene and sperm oil, but experiments are now going on with a magnesium lamp that burns a magnesium tape, fed before the reflector by clock work. It gives a very brilliant light at an expense of about 50 cents an hour.

The heliograph is regarded by army officers as one of the most practical and useful inventions of modern military science, and in the case of a beleaguered city would furnish a means of communication with the outside world that would discount balloons, carrier pigeons, and the magnetic telegraph, as the line could not be cut by the enemy and the messenger could not be captured or shot in transit. In the case of Washington, should this city ever chance to be blockaded, the heliograph would furnish a very certain means of communication for a radius of thirty miles around, and a signal observer stationed on top of the monument could flash messages almost if not quite to Baltimore if the conditions were at all favorable.—Washington Post.

The Criminal Eye.

Eyes are the most certain revealers of the criminal nature. Many an expert detective tells a criminal by just one glance—not at him, but from him. The criminal eye varies greatly in setting, but not so much in color. Sometimes it is deeply placed in the head as if it tried to hide, fearing the result of its own involuntary revelation. Sometimes it is bulgy, protrusive like a frog's and heavy lidded. Such eyes, taken in connection with some other signs, denote treachery, lechery, loquacity, mendacity and general cruelty, with just enough cowardice to prevent the criminal from doing murder except insidiously or through others.

Of the criminal eye there are many remarkable anecdotes. The murderer Francesconi had little about him to indicate the ferocity that ambushed in his breast. His forehead was high and smooth, his beard was plentiful. To most people he rendered himself rather companionable, by a certain cheap facetiousness that often masquerades as wit, and on account of this social quality Francesconi's conceit was tolerated, and his huge egotism did not have its full chance to repel people. But years before his crime, a young girl—afterwards the Countess della Rocca—who had never left home and who lacked experience of life, recoiled from him violently when introduced, and refused to endure his presence. When questioned why she behaved thus towards one who stood so high socially, she answered: "If that man has not already murdered people, he will do so." This girlish prophecy very soon came true, and when Lombroso inquired by what sign she had foretold, she replied, "The eyes—I saw him in his eyes."—Donahoe's Magazine.

What Paris Shop Girls Earn.

A Paris shop girl ordinarily begins at a salary of from $5 to $8 a month. Besides, she invariably has a commission on her sales, varying from one-half to one per cent, according to her success. Many receive as high as $30 a month in salary, and make much more in commissions. Retail selling is the great business of all Paris, but the better places are hard to get, and require almost as much pushing and influence as to obtain a government position in America. The most attractive girls will alway stand the best chance on the strength of their good looks.—New York Sun.

PROGRESS.

It is very important in this age of vast material progress that a remedy be pleasing to the taste and to the eye, easily taken, acceptable to the stomach and healthy in its nature and effects. Possessing these qualities, Syrup of Figs is the one perfect laxative and most gentle diuretic known.

HAWKER'S LIVER PILLS contain no mercury, are purely vegetable, safe, sure and effective. Do not gripe, small, easy to take. Sold everywhere. .....

THE DEATH OF LADDIE.

A Dog Whose Demise Has Been the Cause of Profound Grief.

So many of us knew Laddie and had looked into his kindly eyes and patted his honest old head that we feel warranted in printing Will J. Davis's letter telling of the good old dog's last moments:

"I know your sympathy will be touched," writes Mr. Davis, "when I tell you that poor, dear old Laddie—tried, trusted and true, grieving that he had his dog friend Prince no more with him—lay down at the front door one morning last week and peacefully gave up the ghost. He was lying there so naturally that it was hard to believe him dead. I was at the farm. He lay all night (as was his wont) at the side of my wife's bed, and in the morning he put his nose to her hand and awakened her; whereupon she reproved him and said: 'Laddie, you must go downstairs and not disturb me.' So he went down and when the servant opened the door he took his old, accustomed place outside, and there, with his nose close up to the screen and in his old-time position, he breathed his last.

"You can understand how I felt when I heard of it—when I heard that the faithful dog that for years had met me at my door as I came home at night and that came every morning to my bedside for a greeting was no more.

"He had big brown eyes that were as deep as the sea, and at times they seemed to look way down into my heart, searching for the love he felt his fidelity deserved. He was courageous and had a vast contempt for tramps. In pluck I never knew his equal, and he disputed the right of Lindbloom's mastiff to come on our side of the street as readily as he would if Lindbloom's mastiff had not been a mastiff, but merely a yellow cur. And now some wretch has shot the mastiff, too! The dog fatalities and vicissitudes in Eugenie street would make a long, sad chapter."

Sometime, of course, we shall know it all; but by the light that is within us now, what a strange mystery is this feeling that so many of us have toward the dog and other forms of the higher animal life? Very often these feelings are terrifying in their suggestions and vividness and force. There must be a reason for and a meaning in it all. But the light within us is dim and misty yet. We must wait.—Chicago Record.

A BEAUTIFUL BALL ROOM.

Novel Ideas Embodied in the Hangings and Colorings.

In a handsome private mansion the ball room has been decorated in a novel manner. It is in a one-story addition to the house, without side windows. The walls are hung with a brocade silk fabric, extending from the top of a paneled wainscot, finished in white and gold, to the bottom of the deep cove cornice, of papier mache in an elaborate design, representing fauns and nymphs in a woodland festival, and finished in ivory white, touched sparingly with gold. Here and there, breaking through the lines of the cornice, are large pear-shaped bulbs of leaded glass, very delicate in coloring, and so arranged, in a metal framework, as to open, disclosing a recess for the electric lamps, which light the room by night. By day, skylights, which are just above, permit a softened light to shine through the same glass bulbs. The ceiling is painted with flying cupids and fleecy clouds upon a sky of blue; and the floor is of oak, waxed and polished to a surface so smooth that the dancers seem to glide over it with an ease unrivaled even by the winged feet of the messenger of the gods.—Painting and Decorating.

Complications in South Florida.

A good story comes from the Manatee River. A man named Westfield had a quarrel with his wife and they decided to separate, dividing their household goods between them. Westfield took his portion of the goods to his boat, but, after thinking awhile over the matter, decided that his wife had the best of the bargain, which so enraged him that he took an axe and went back to the house and broke up her portion. The woman swore out a warrant for him next day, and Westfield engaged a promising young attorney of Braidentown to defend him. After investigating the case the lawyer decided that his client was in a bad box, so he advised him to make up with his wife and try to stop the prosecution. This the man succeeded in doing, but the county authorities refused to let the matter be dropped. So the lawyer then advised him to kidnap his wife and baby and sail to Cinnabel Island.

The matter was arranged for the next night. The woman was escorted to the boat where her husband was awaiting her by the lawyer and a constable whom he had engaged to assist him. The lawyer and constable then returned to the house for the baby, but by mistake they got another woman's baby, and the mistake was not discovered until the boat was well on its way to Cinnabel. The man was afraid to return for the right baby, thinking that he would be arrested and prosecuted. This happened several days ago, and the woman whose baby was stolen will not reconcile herself to the exchange and proposes to have the young lawyer prosecuted for kidnapping. He is in a terrible state of mind, and swears that he will never practice law again.—Tampa Daily Times.

Put on Trousers and Saw the Sights.

Miss Emma Wood, who claims to be the daughter of a wealthy Colorado ranchman, was arrested in company with a young man who said his name was Frank Patton, and both were dressed in masculine attire. The story of the couple is that they both reside a short distance from Denver, and for the last two years have kept company. When Patton, who is employed on a neighboring ranch, was sent to South Omaha in charge of a consignment of cattle, they thought it an excellent opportunity to give the old folks a surprise party by making the journey an elopement as well. The girl declares that they were married by a Lutheran clergyman before they left Denver. They arrived in Omaha Thursday night and devoted the next day to seeing the sights. The girl had often worn her brother's clothes out on the ranch during a round-up and helped the men drive up the cattle, and last night she declared her intention of putting on one of her husband's suits and going out to see the town by gaslight. She assumed the trousers and the pair started down Dodge street and visited one or two of the swell resorts, after which the woman concluded she had enough and they started to their hotel, but were arrested. They were released to-day without being fined.—Chicago Tribune.
