MR. AND MRS. F. D. MORRISON & ATTENDANTS

Double Ring Ceremony Held At St. Georges

A very pretty wedding took place in St. George's church, St. Georges, P.E.I., when Margaret Eileen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fitzpatrick, Woodville Mills, was united in marriage with Frederick Danie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Morrison, Lunenburg.

The bride was escorted by her brother and cousin of the groom, Norbert and Pius Morrison. The organist was Mrs. Felix Walker and the choir sang hymns during the ceremony.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, looked lovely in a flow length gown of white nylon net over satin with a chantilly lace bolero jacket, trimmed with pearls and styled with a standing collar and long sleeves, appearing to points over the hands. Her finger tip veil was of nylon net with a halo of pearls and rhinestones. She carried a cascade of red and white roses.

The maid of honor was Theresa, sister of the bride. She was attired in a gown of blue nylon over tulle net with head dress. She carried a nosegay of mums.

Rose Marie Maclean, niece of the bride, was bridesmaid. She chose a gown of yellow nylon net over tulle with matching headpiece. She carried a nosegay of mums.

The wingtip little flower girl was Daphne Victor, niece of the bride and she wore a long blue nylon dress and carried a basket of mixed flowers.

The best man was Joseph Wall, cousin of the groom. The ushers were Donald Fitzpatrick, brother of the bride and Felix Walker, cousin of the groom. The bride's mother chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of blue nylon jersey with hat and earrings. The groom's mother wore an aqua blue dress with white hat and a corsage of pink carnations.

Following the reception the groom with a few congratulatory remarks. He also read a telegram of congratulations from Mr. and Mrs. Cy Gorbun of Toronto, sister and brother-in-law of the groom. Many lovely presents including a large sum of money were received. Also a gift from the St. George's Junior Farmers of the groom's bride is a member and from the Newport Social Club.

When All Goes Well, Hard Times Are Soon Forgotten

Odd numbers of the herd of beef cattle that range now as long as autumn flocks were marketed today, suspending in a nice respite. It came to mind, the final harvesting of the year. Not that by the season could be ready over the provinces. Indications of winter's approach, but the weather is still in the clouds. It is a respect which is reflected at the time even in the steps of the farmhouses. With ears attuned to the affairs of the farm, we must suit the farmer's meals to the occasion. Now, hastening the breakfast it may be so that we'll be home from town in time to get some work done in the field and then, spending the afternoon so quickly away.

On school-holiday, the children would go too on the outing. Granddaughter seizing upon the opportunity to attend to small items of shopping and in satisfying himself at the earliest convenience as to "what those bigger ones weigh so quickly away."

Halls Should Be Cheerful

The front hallway is the handshake of the house and should greet people cheerfully. Unfortunately it is usually the most gloomy spot in the home because it seldom receives a ray of sunshine.

Suggestions for injecting a cheery "hello" into the most dismal entrance hall are offered by W. D. Sinclair, C.W.L. color consultant.

Paint can work miracles, providing the colors are right. The color of the hall walls should be light and sunny but it must also harmonize with the colors in the rooms opening into it. Primrose yellow is a good choice.

since yellow is an speaking terms with most other colors, says Mr. Sinclair.

If the hall is a long narrow tunnel, square it up by painting the end walls a darker color—a medium blue, for instance. Dark colors tend to pull walls in, light colors make them take a step back, visually changing the shape of a room.

Especially in an old house, the ceiling often seems far too high for the size of a narrow hall. Mr. Sinclair suggests using the dark color to trip to pull the ceiling down. Another effective measure is to dispend with the ceiling light and, instead, use a lamp placed low on a table.

Keep in mind all the dirty hands which will touch the stair-ways and carefully choose your type of paint, Mr. Sinclair says.
