The Quebec Scandal.

The course of the opposition towards the Mercier scandal does them no credit. They took fright at the first whisper of the scandal, and their friends in the Senate favored the withdrawal of the Bie des Chaleurs railway bill, which action would have effectually stifled enquiry. Although he knew Picaud was an essential witness, Mr. Laurier did not revoke his permission to leave the country, and the scamp ran off, doing all he could to destroy proofs of guilt before he left. The liberal Senators worked against the investigation as far as they could, and finally identified themselves with the cause of Mercier by voting against the report when the committee presented it to the Senate. Thus at every stage of the proceedings the opposition or their representatives have failed to come squarely out against the unmitigated boodlers of the party.

A new sign of sympathy with the corruptionists is to be seen in the attitude of the party organs towards Lieutenant-Governor Angers, whose efforts to vindicate the good name of the country ought surely to meet with the approbation of us all, no matter what our political leanings may be. The Ottawa correspondence of the Toronto Globe, which is inspired from headquarters, expresses the more than languid indifference felt by the opposition in the course that duty and the national well-being prompts the lieutenant governor to take. The correspondent sneers at the letter written by him to Mercier and intimates, that "if he is doing no more than his duty," the Governor-General ought to take similar action with reference to his advisors at Ottawa.

This is the sort of encouragement the opposition give to an attempt to reach the bottom of the most audacious rascality ever laid bare in this country. Mr. Angers has not their aid and approbation because they are the allies and creators of Mercierism and have an interest in his escaping punishment for his wrongdoing. Does any sane man suppose the opposition would eschew the Count if they got into power? They would do what they did before in the case of Canoch: take into their embrace a man whom they had formerly accused of the most atrocious crimes in the political calendar, and elevate him to the highest offices of the state.

Sir Hector Not Guilty.

(Hamilton Spectator.)

The gleam of satisfaction which one will obtain from a perusal of both reports is that no charge is brought home to Sir Hector Langevin of having received any personal benefit from any payments made. The man who has served his country so long and so well for his friends all right feeling Canadians in both parties, and all such rejoice that even the adverse report does not charge him with the receipt of money. It could be wished that the reform members of the committee had reported the fact less grudgingly. They say that "in view of the statement on oath made by Sir Hector that Murphy 'did not offer, loan or pay him any sum of money, which we assume he intended as a denial of his having received any money, whether as gift, loan or payment, we are unable, after much doubt, to come to the conclusion that we would be justified in finding this charge proved.' All of which means that they are reluctantly compelled to find Sir Hector innocent of the charge that he received any money payment directly or indirectly. The fact should be matter for gratification. Only the most narrow-minded Grit would confess his sorrow because he cannot convict a political opponent of crime.

SELF BINDERS.—These reaping machines have only very recently been introduced into eastern King's County. Three or four years ago one of them was sold to a farmer residing in Dundas. This farmer was not satisfied with the working of the machine. A dispute arose which ended in a big lawsuit in the Supreme Court, the farmer winning the case. A sort of local prejudice against self-binding machines was thus created which took some time to dispel. This year several have been purchased by the farmers of the east, and it now looks as though self-binders had come to stay there as well as elsewhere. We are not sufficiently posted in the merits of the various harvesting machines in the market to say which is best, but this we know, that a good working self-binder is a favorite among the progressive farmers of the Province.

THE TURF.—A new mark has been set for the world's stallion record. Allerton is again king of stallions. At Independence, Iowa, on Saturday, Allerton went an easy, pure-sired mile in the following quarters: 32 3/4, 1.05 1/2, 1.37 1/2, 2.09 1/2.

The races at Chatham on Saturday resulted as follows:—Three-minute class: Dearborn, 1st; Allright, 2nd; Electricity, 3rd. Best time, 2.41. Free-for-all: Heck, 1st; Ben M., 2nd; Whistler, 3rd. Best time, 2.38.

WHISTLING IN HIS LUNGS.—On Saturday last the ten-year-old son of John Taylor, of St. John, swallowed the mouth-piece of a small bladder-whistle. The boy is in the hospital. Every time he breathes the whistle blows, showing that it is somewhere in his lungs. The operation of tracheotomy was performed by six doctors. An incision was made in the boy's throat, just above the breast bone, but the whistle could not be found.

Dyspepticure—Is not a palliative, but a cure; it first relieves, then controls, and finally entirely subdues the irritation and inflammation of the stomach that causes indigestion and dyspepsia.

Finest stock of refusers, suitable for boys or girls, ever imported to P. E. Island, at James Paton & Co's., Market Square.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Campbell's Cove Breakwater.

SIR.—I regret to see by the Supplementary Estimates just published that there is nothing named for the repairs of Campbell's Cove Breakwater. This work has been allowed to remain, ever since the gale of last fall, without any repairs having been done to it. The covering was then carried away and in this exposed condition it has been left. It is becoming more or less injured every northerly storm; and it looks now as though the Government at Ottawa were going to let it go to destruction altogether. This breakwater, it is well known, is the only means of shelter for boats along the whole coast from St. Peter's Bay to Souris, a distance of over fifty miles. At North Lake, Naufrage, Black Bush and other fishing stations, the boats have to be hauled up every night, while at Campbell's Cove they can ride at anchor in shelter of the breakwater through the entire fishing season. There are at the present time twenty-five boats anchored every night in lee of it. Is not this a benefit to the fishermen? It certainly is. And now are they to be deprived of the same through neglect on the part of the Government? If the covering is not replaced this fall, before the heavy storms set in, there will be no breakwater here to repair, and it will be irreparably damaged if neglected till they come. It is not too late to grant the money to repair it. The session is not yet over. Let us hear from our representatives at Ottawa on this head, and let us hear of the money being granted. Otherwise you shall hear again from BAYFIELD.

Literary Notes.

There will be another instalment of the "Letters of Charles Dickens to Wilkie Collins" in Harper's Magazine for October. These letters increase in interest as the relations between the two great novelists become more intimate, and vividly recall the overflowing good humor, the busy restlessness of their author. To those who remember Dickens as a living personality, or who were readers of his novels as they came fresh from his pen, they will be like pleasant reminiscences of a time now nearly forty years gone by.

Perhaps the most remarkable romance published this year is George du Maurier's "Peter Ibbotson," now running in Harper's Magazine. As it approaches its conclusion its value as a work of art in fiction no less than as a curious study of psychological phenomena not yet understood becomes more and more pronounced. In the October number some new and marvellous phases in the "art of dreaming true" will be developed, and the story reaches a point of most absorbing interest. Mr. Du Maurier's drawing continues to add to the attractiveness of the tale.

News Notes.

Ex-President Balmaceda is reported to have arrived at Mendoza, near the Argentine frontier.

The Queen regent of Spain has contributed an additional $10,000 to the national food fund.

English trades unionists propose to run candidates whenever they have a chance of winning.

The discovery of rich anthracite coal deposits is reported on the Red Deer River, north of Banff, N. W. T.

Negotiations at Paris for the new Russian loan are reported to have reached a successful conclusion.

The money sent by Balmaceda to London to war material making firms has been deposited to the Bank of England.

The profits of the Bank of England for the half year ended August 31 were £763,238, making the rest account £2,776,802.

President Carnot and his Ministers reviewed the French Army, consisting of 110,000 men, at Vitry le Francois yesterday.

The London Standard's Berlin correspondent says the efforts to reconcile Emperor William to Bismarck have completely failed.

And so the war cloud over the Dardanelles turns out to have been but the smoke arising from the gipsy camp on a desert island off Mitylene, where half a dozen Jack-tars were picnicing. But it scared Europe, flattened the bourses, and called on the Farmers' Alliances of the United States to hold their wheat. For all that, however, the world will not laugh very loudly at the incident. It shows that European nations are in a decidedly nervous condition, and apt to start at every shadow. In the present instance, reports of the landing of the British sailors were sent to the French, Russian, Italian and Turkish governments. There is an uneasy feeling behind this vigilance which belies the lovely compliments European rulers have been paying each other of late.

THE sudden changes liable at this season result in cold in head, followed by catarrh and perhaps consumption and death if not speedily treated.
