

Makers Of Farm Machinery Move Into Industrial Field

By FORBES RUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor
Farm-equipment manufacturers are moving into the industrial equipment field in a big way. This is perhaps the most striking feature of the Canada farm and industrial equipment trade show being held in Toronto this week—Wednesday to Saturday.

Purpose of the move into the wider field is to make the industry less vulnerable. Poor crops or surplus crops hit at farm-buying power.

Attracting the move are great numbers of construction jobs across Canada's economic economy which big construction machinery can't cope with.

Part of the move is the tractor, especially the economical diesel-powered tractor, now developed into a smooth-operating machine with easy hydraulic control. EVERYTHING HUNG ON IT.

Investors and producers have hung onto it about everything in the way of lighter construction equipment.

Harnessed to its front end are loaders for handling earth, snow, coal or other materials; sweeper for parking lots and streets; and a range of equipment for logging, grading and bulldozing.

Harvesters of this rear are machines called backhoes—which dig a pipeline route, for instance, to a depth of 12 feet or more—or giant steel core-drills for putting-down postholes.

Emphasis on tractors and industrial attachments, however, doesn't lessen emphasis on farm machinery proper.

Even the industrially-equipped tractor has an added sales pitch.

For the farmer. It can do many a farm job and, when things are quiet, the farmer or his son can take it to the nearest construction job to earn some added income.

INNOVATIONS FOR FARM. In the strictly farm line Massey-Harris-Ferguson Ltd. have a sleek new combine cut down by 18 inches in height for easier transportation and with a combining capacity of 70 to 80 acres of wheat a day.

Cockshutt Farm Equipment Ltd. is showing an automatic transplanter for tobacco plants, and such garden vegetables as tomatoes, cabbage celery and strawberries.

As it rolls along it cuts a trench, puts in the plants and pushes the earth back in. All the operator does is feed the plant to it. "A child can operate it," the demonstrator said.

These companies and the International Harvester Company of Canada Ltd. and many smaller ones have wide ranges of farm machinery with scores of improvements and developments—such things as self-propelled swathers for grains, but also useful for cutting and windrowing hay; and a "reciprocating bar rake" which reduces leaf loss by cutting down the handling distance from swath to windrow.

English tractors are a big feature of the diesel field. David Brown (Canada) Ltd.—which imports from its English parent in Yorkshire—sold 300 to 400 tractors in Ontario last year and perhaps more in Quebec.

Morris Motors of Canada is showing the Nuifield tractor with British Motor Corporation diesel engines, and also considers Ontario and Quebec the best present markets.

A demonstrator for Ford Tractor and Equipment Sales Company of Canada—whose show is half English and half American—commented: "The British know more about building diesel engines than anyone else."

Cockshutt's Canadian-built tractor is powered by an English diesel—the Perkins. Cockshutt's bought $1,000,000 worth of them last year.

Annual Souris Ice Carnival Wednesday Successful Event

The annual carnival was held in Souris rink on Wednesday night. There was an exceptionally large number of people in costumes, which contributed greatly to make the carnival the success it was.

The rink management spent considerable time and effort to have the rink gaily decorated for the occasion. Despite weather of 4 degrees below zero a large crowd of spectators was present. Prize winners in the adult class were: Best dressed, Mrs. D. Conway, Elmira and Miss Janice White, Souris, most original, Albert Perry as the hunter, costume, Miss Hazel Aitken as clown.

Costume Class for the Small Girls (Three Prizes): Seatch Leslie, Barbara Acorn, and Claudie Richards; King and Queen, Richard and Richard Kassner; The Irish Colleen's, Connie and Lynn Anne Roach.

Class for boys: The Cowboys, Eric and Tommy White; The Pirate, Weston MacPhee. The Bell Hop, E. Gallant. Following the judging all children present received a treat of candy and apples.

After the judging was completed there was an hour's skate for all who wished to skate. B.F. second time—Mrs. W. Doucette, came to the Bingo at the Memorial hall last fall when the jack pot was one hundred bucks. Her luck was good and she took it home. Last week the big game offered a jack pot one hundred bucks. Up comes Mrs. Doucette. Once more she was the lucky winner and took the C. note home again. Hats off to Mrs. Doucette.

A former Bristol lady, Mrs. Robert Sanderson, who has been employed in Newfoundland since early last fall, when his company moved to that province to do an oil job, arrived home on Monday night. The severe weather has closed the job down until April when he will be recalled. Mr. MacDonald will spend the winter in the city, where his father and mother are residing. He quit the farm here a year ago.

Mr. Robert Sanderson, a business visitor to the city on Tuesday. Mr. Sanderson, who did all the public threshing and wood saving for many years has given it all up to stay home at the farm. The home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sanderson, at the Marie Church has been boarded up as the Sandersons have moved to Ontario, to reside in future.

The old Jordan pond here is a mighty open rink now with free skating to all. The cold clear nights have attracted skaters from far and near. As far back as the oldest resident remembers this has been a winter haven for skaters. Mr. Stanlis Lapierre, well along in the evening of life, informs us he and his brother the late John Lapierre, did their skating here seventy years ago. Miss Josephine Sinnott, who had her leg severely broken in a motorcycle car accident more than a year ago is around again with her leg in a solid cast, after several stays in hospital. All hope this will be the final cast for this attractive young lady and that brighter days are now in sight for her.

The condition of Mrs. J.C. McCarthy is reported as improved following a period of very grave illness. N. Friends of Mr. Fred Mosher will be obliged to learn that he has been sorry to re-enter the hospital for further treatment. Fred whose old home is here has resided at Savage Harbour for many years. He is a war navy veteran and the years in the service left him almost crippled with a bad back and his friends hopes had been all cleared up, but again it is learned he is down. Those of his class of other years here are all pulling for the old friend Freddie who is hailed as one of the best guys Bristol ever had. His old home is still here.

Mrs. Chester McCarthy, R.N., was in the city on Monday on business. Mrs. McCarthy has not allowed the nursing services for some years now. Mrs. Belle Gauthier, is spending some time in the city with her daughter Clara, Mrs. Prowse, and Mr. Prowse at present. Mrs. John McKeeney, Mount Stewart, has received the sad news of the passing of her mother, Mrs. Mary MacDonald, in Newport, U.S.A. where she had resided with other members of her family. The sincere sympathy of Bristol residents is extended to Mrs. McKeeney, whose husband was section foreman on the C.N.R. here for quite a number of years.

Mount Stewart Lady takes home the jack pot from here for the day, Sunday. Miss Juanita Jay, Charlottetown, was a visitor at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jay, Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Jay, and son Merlin, were visitors in Covehead Road, Sunday. They were guests of Mrs. Jay's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter MacDonald, and Mrs. John White, Montague, was a visitor in Pisquid East, Monday, January 28. B.A.

The financial report of the year was then read and was adopted. The president gave a review of the first year of this Association and remarked that the whole county the year before had only seven members and that this Association which covers only a section of the county has over 180 members.

Insists Britons Must Be Well Dressed In These Times

By SYLVIA HACK
Canadian Press Staff Writer
LONDON (CP)—Britain's "minister of fashion" did some tub-thumping for the home product at a show which opened London's month of fashion.

Sir David Eccles, the new president of the board of trade, a government department, told an overflow audience in the Dorchester Hotel that Britons "must be well-dressed at a time like this."

"We have struck a bad patch" financially in preferring action to talking," said Sir David, in an obvious reference to the Suez intervention. "We have a large bill to pay and we are determined to pay it."

ACCESSORIES KING
Sir David, who only five days previously had succeeded Peter Thorneycroft as trade minister, then joined his handsome wife Sybil, eldest daughter of the late Viscount Dawson of Penn, in the audience to watch the show.

Usually the "top twelve" designers, all members of the Incorporated Society of London Designers, show their own exclusively—designed clothes. This time their associate members, who make things like shoes, hats, foundation garments and furs were given the floor. The "top twelve" submitted only a chic black day or cocktail dress.
