

Admit "Private Eye" In Baseball Not Unusual

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball blushed and admitted Thursday that it's not unusual for a major league club to put watchdogs on the aftergame habits of some of its players.

While second baseman Grady Hamner of Philadelphia Phillies angrily charged owner Bob Carpenter with "Gestapo tactics," Commissioner Ford Frick issued the following statement:

"It's my understanding that all major league baseball clubs, at one time or another, have had their players' habits investigated. It used to be quite a common practice, but I think it has largely discontinued. It's no violation of baseball law."

The case of the baseball "private eyes," long an open secret in the sport, came to public attention this week when Carpenter disclosed he had hired a private detective to check into the social activities of some of his hirings.

Hamner, a $25,000-a-year infielder, complained to police that a man had been following him. Police arrested Charles Leland, who turned out to be an investigator who Carpenter said was hired by him.

Carpenter said this was general baseball practice. Baseball men said, well, yes and no.

"We used to have our coaches check the players but discontinued when Bucky Harris became manager," said Calvin Griffith of the Washington Senators.

Joe Cronin, general manager of the Boston Red Sox, said: "We don't have players trailed unless here's something definite to work on." The general manager of Milwaukee Braves, Joseph Cairnes, agreed.

"We've never trailed an athlete, at least under the Bush administration," Al Fleischman, St. Louis Cardinal publicist, said.

Connaught Park Offered For Sale

TORONTO (OP)—Fred Orpen, owner of Toronto's Dufferin Park track, said Thursday the Connaught Park track in Quebec province near Ottawa has been offered for sale to him. He declined to reveal the price asked.

He said a decision on the offer may be made next week after the present Dufferin race meeting is over.

"We've not made our minds up," he said. "An offer has been made to us but we won't be doing anything about it until next week."

In Ottawa T. P. Tommy Gorman, owner of Connaught Park race track and one of the capital's sport kingspins, confirmed that he had offered the track for sale to Mr. Orpen. He said ownership and management of Connaught Park by Mr. Orpen could be made "a wonderful thing."

Loses Appeal in Fire Loss Case

OTTAWA, (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada today dismissed the appeal of a Fredericton restaurant operator who was ordered to pay $9,980 damages for a fire in his restaurant in 1950.

The operator, C. Roy Savage, hired a painting contractor, Roland Delong, to paint the premises. Fire broke out while an inflammable paint remover was being used and the owners of the building, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wilby, sued Savage and Delong.

The trial judge held Delong negligent and gave judgement against him for the $9,980, dismissing the action against Savage.

Delong appealed unsuccessfully. However, the Wilby's appealed successfully against that part of the judgment which had dismissed the action against Savage.

The Supreme Court today upheld the appeal court judgment.

NEW YORK (AP)—Lightweight champion Paddy DeMarco has been taken to hospital with a virus infection and his June 2 title defence against Jimmy Carter in San Francisco has been postponed until September, the International Boxing Club said Friday.

Aerial Action By Chinese Reds Stirs Speculation

(By Spencer Moosa) TAIPEH, Formosa (AP) — A sharp increase in aerial action off China's Chekiang province during the last few days has stirred speculation that the Communists may be preparing at attack on island bases held by nationalist forces off the coast.

A nationalist official today said there is no indication that an invasion is near, but acknowledged that stepped-up aerial attacks are aimed at disrupting any plans the Communists may have.

The official also acknowledged that a Red invasion could come with little advance warning.

The most important of the island bases is Quemoy, just off the China coast across the Formosa channel. Next in importance are the Tachen islands off Chekiang, northern anchor for the string of off-shore nationalist strongpoints.

It is in the vicinity of the Tachens that nationalist fighters have clashed four times in the last week with Communist MIG jets. And it is in this area that nationalist pilots claimed to have sunk two Red warships — one of 1,500 tons and one of 800 tons this week.

The Tachens consist of three major islands and about 200 islets. The big islands are heavily garrisoned and opinion here is that the Communists would have to be prepared for a comparatively major amphibious operation if they hope to overrun them.

Observers point out that loss of the Tachens would not be a fatal blow to the nationalists but it unquestionably would be a discouraging event and conceivably could spark the relatively dormant civil war into life.

Family Court Urged By Anglican Synod

HALIFAX, (CP) — A family court in Halifax to help prevent broken homes was advocated today at the diocesan synod of the Anglican church.

At present all cases involving family difficulties are heard in magistrate's court. In a family court the cases would be heard privately and informally.

Canadian Golfers Shoot Well In Practice Rounds

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (CP) — The greens are fast and the fairways narrow but Canadian golfers are "adjusting well and quickly" to the bunker-studded course beside the Firth of Forth where the 59th British amateur tournament opens Monday.

This was the report Friday from Gordon Taylor of Montreal, Captain of a seven-man Canadian team.

"We have had three practice rounds in our three days in Scotland," he said. "The boys are doing very well—we're all shooting between 70 and 75."

Phil Farley of Toronto has the hottest round so far. He shot a 69 Thursday. Don Doe of Granby, Que., had a 75 on the par-72 course Friday while Bob Fleming of Victoria, B. C., shot a 76 and Nick Weslock of Windsor, Ont., 77.

COURSE DIFFERENCES Taylor, who with Farley is on his second trip to Scotland, said the course features of the 6,800-yard seaside links which differ from Canadian courses.

"Bunker play is terribly important. That puts a premium on direction off the tee because there are lots of bunkers. The grass on the fairways is tight and the ball sits up well. Of course, the fairways are narrower than at home. The greens are good though fast."

"We have been playing with the small ball they use over here and we've found that the hard greens and the small ball make the roll a lot longer. You've got to play for the pin."

The Canadians will get one more crack at the course today before regular play begins Monday. By then the course will be closed Sunday.

THREE INDEPENDENTS

Walt McElroy of Vancouver and Doug Silverberg of Red Deer, Alta. are other members of the seven-man Canadian team. Three other Canadians are here independently. They are Colin Rankin of Montreal and Andre Tessier of Quebec and H.R. Pickens of Montreal.

The Amateur has attracted a field of 303 including 38 Americans. Joe Carr of Dublin, who shot a 69 Friday, is the defending champion. All Canadian and Americans drew first-round byes. Taylor, Doe, McElroy, Silverberg and Fleming have also drawn second-round byes.

Weslock opens Monday against Robert Jenkins of England; Tessier meets John Hendrickson of the U. S.; Pickens plays George Parker of Scotland.

Says Standard Of Living Can Be Increased

BOSTON, (AP) — Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks said Saturday the world's standard of living could be increased 25-fold if Russia would join other countries in an all-out attempt to put atomic energy to work for peaceful purposes.

Weeks based his estimate on information which, he said, indicated that new methods could raise the world's atomic energy reserves to the equivalent of 90,000,000,000,000 tons of coal.

Converted to industrial energy, this would mean, he said, that "the millions behind the Iron Curtain could share with us a universal prosperity 25-fold beyond today's standard of living."

$300,000 Fire In Freight Shed

WINNIPEG, (CP) — A $300,000, three-hour fire Wednesday destroyed one freight shed, an adjoining storage warehouse, 50,000 gallons of oil and other merchandise. Cause of the blaze has not been determined.

No one was injured in the two-alarm fire in which five boxcars and a 250-foot platform were also severely damaged. A nearby brick warehouse was not reached by the flames.

An investigation was begun immediately but fire department officials said it will "probably be weeks" before the cause is known or released. This is due to lengthy investigation required by insurance and Canadian National Railways inspectors.

The fire was discovered by workmen in one of the cars on a spur line near the CNR depot. Before employees could roll the boxcar—filled with canoe and boat equipment—free, flames spread to oakum stacked on the loading platform.

Converted to industrial energy, this would mean, he said, that "the millions behind the Iron Curtain could share with us a universal prosperity 25-fold beyond today's standard of living."

His remarks were prepared for a golden anniversary ceremony at Ventworth Institute.

Weeks told the technological school, which was inaugurating its president, H. Russell Beatty. "The Soviet world not only may be catching up with us in the production of atomic power, but certainly is in the total numbers of trained personnel to operate and increase that power."

"The United States now has about 300,000 scientists and 500,000 engineers. There is a current shortage of engineers of about 50,000. Estimates indicate that as many as 30,000 engineers will be needed annually for mobilization readiness and to keep the national economy running at a high level."

"The number of engineering graduates, at a peak of 52,000 in the 1949-50 academic year, will reach a low of about 19,000 this year. It will rise again to about 34,000 in 1957.

The Soviet Union had in 1952, 600 engineers of engineers of about 50,000. Estimates indicate that as many as 30,000 engineers will be needed annually for mobilization readiness and to keep the national economy running at a high level."

Man Loses Life In Melfort, Sask., Fire

MELFORT, Sask., (CP) — One man was burned to death Thursday when fire destroyed the garage of Relland Motors Ltd., causing loss estimated at more than $100,000. The body of 47-year-old Peter F. Relland of Nipawin was found in the garage.
