

THE FAT IN

the food supplies warmth and strength; without it the digestion, the muscles, the nerves and the brain are weak, and general debility follows. But fat is hard to digest and is disliked by many.

Scott's Emulsion supplies the fat in a form pleasant to take and easy to digest. It strengthens the nerves and muscles, invigorates mind and body, and builds up the entire system.

SOME TARTLETS.

The following extracts from some of Tarte's speeches in France, will show the kind of sentiments and speeches of which Sir Wilfrid Laurier approves in a member of the Canadian government:—

"The remembrance of the Motherland (France) still lives in Canada. But we are under the necessity of acting with policy and discretion.—Tarte in Le Journal de Paris, April 5, 1900.

"Allow me to say so, and allow me to repeat it, we have remained French we are more and more so; we are more French then we were twenty years ago, and more than we were a year ago. (Applause).—Tarte at Rouen, France June 1900.

"We represent over there the France of Europe, and I do not think I am mistaken in saying that before twenty-five years we shall form the majority.—Tarte, at Rouen, France, June 1900

"Our eyes are constantly turned toward you; your reverses strike us full in the breast; your success is our greatest joy. We are, certes, loyal British subjects, but above all French.—Tarte, at Rouen, France, June 1900

If one day you come and I hope the greatest number among you will come to visit Canada you will see as you ascend the great river, discovered by your compatriot, Jacques Cartier, the tri-color flag displayed above our villages, because it is the national flag of French Canadians. (Loud applause)—Tarte, at Rouen, France, June, 1900."

"Frank declarations (on South African war) might arouse the susceptibilities of the English, without satisfying the French.—Tarte, in Le Journal de Paris, April 5, 1900.

It is quite possible that in their hearts 20 per cent. of the French Canadians disapprove of the war, and think that Canada could have put the money to more practical use.—Tarte in Le Journal de Paris, April 5, 1900."

"He eulogized Papineau, and said he was glad to be able to inform his audience that the grandson of the patriot M. Bourassa, now sitting in the house of commons, was no less eager and determined than his illustrious ancestor to preserve the nationality and uphold the rights of the French Canadians.—Tarte, at Paris, June 21, 1900."

"There are two millions of French people in Canada. On national feast days, not a house but is decorated with French colors. See the province of Quebec. It becomes more French, for French immigrants are coming in each day, and when the British are not in a majority in a country, when they are not masters, they get out.—Tarte, in Paris Figaro interview. September, 1900."

"Why should London, which is an island, become the centre of the world, rather than Paris, the city of civilization, of liberty, of justice?—Tarte, in Paris Figaro interview. September, 1899."

"He dwelt on the warmth of French-Canadian affection for France, and said that though they lived under the British flag, yet on their festival days and in national celebrations, it was the tri-color that floated over their homes. They were French at heart and they would always be French.—Tarte, at Paris, June 21, 1900."

"I will say, as I have often said before, that I am French, and that I was never anything but French, and that I will always be French. In speaking thus I am voicing the feeling of my fellow-countrymen.—Tarte, at Paris, June 21, 1900"

And finally Mr. Tarte capped the climax by declaring that in the event of war between France and Great Britain, Canada would stand neutral. These are his words:—
 "I have been asked what would be the attitude of Canada in the event of a war between France and England. Would the French-Canadians fight for England against France, or would their help go out to the land from which they sprang. To this I might reply somewhat in the words of a French gentleman with whom I was speaking the other day. We were discussing the question of a possible European war, and, coming to the point of likely allies, this gentleman said that if France found herself without friends she could stand alone and let Europe go her own way. And so I would say with regard to Canada—

Gentlemen,—While driving down a very steep hill last August my horse stumbled and fell, cutting himself fearfully about the head and body. I used MINARD'S LINIMENT freely on him and in a few days he was as well as ever.
J. B. A. BEAUCHEMIN,
 Sherbrooke.

Canada could stand alone and let Europe do what she liked."

Here we have a Canadian Minister openly discussing in France the possibility of a war between France and Great Britain, and there then declaring, and afterwards repeating, that in such an event Canada would not be true to her British allegiance, but would stand neutral!

NEW LAW OF VOTING AT DOMINION ELECTIONS.

The right to vote at elections for the house of commons of Canada is governed by the Dominion franchise act of 1898 and the Dominion election act of 1900.

Section 5. of the Dominion franchise act, 1898, contains the following provisions:

(a.) The qualifications necessary to entitle any person to vote at an election for the house of commons in any province shall be those established by the laws of that province as necessary to entitle such persons to vote in the same part of the province at a provincial election:

(b.) The polling divisions shall be those established by or under the laws of that province for the purpose of provincial elections, within the territory comprised in the electoral-district for which such election is held:

(c.) The voters' lists shall be those prepared for the several divisions so established, and which on the sixth day next proceeding the day fixed for the nomination of candidates for such Dominion election were in force or were last in force under the laws of that province for the purpose of provincial elections.

Section 5 sub-paragraph (f.) enacts that the provisions of the law of the province as to the places when non-resident electors shall vote shall apply to Dominion elections. Sections 64 and 65 of the Nova Scotia election act provide that no elector shall be permitted to vote in more than one polling district or division in this province on the same day, and that no elector having a right to vote in the county in which at the date of the election he resided shall be permitted to vote in any other county.

Apparently the effect of these provisions is that an elector can vote at Dominion elections in only one county on the same day in the province of Nova Scotia.

At elections for the house of assembly for this province certain persons holding Dominion offices are disqualified by section 67 of the provincial act above referred to. These disqualifications do not apply to elections for the house of commons, as section 6 of the Dominion Franchise act of 1898 contains the following provision.

"No person possessed of the qualifications generally required by the provincial law to entitle him to vote at a provincial election shall be disqualified from voting at a Dominion election, merely by reason of any provision of the provincial law disqualifying him from having his name on the list or from voting."—Halifax Herald

Save Your MONEY.

To save your money, by getting more for it, ask your dealer in medicine to show you the new 50 cent size bottle of JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT. It contains over three times as much as the old 25 cent style, which is a great saving to those who use this valuable family medicine. The superior quality of this old Anodyne has never been equaled.

JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT

Fifty years ago this month, Dr. Johnson left with me some Johnson's Anodyne Liniment. I remember him distinctly, and could tell you just how he was dressed on that day. I have used Johnson's Liniment ever since. Can't say it has sustained its high standard from that time to this. No medicine today possesses the confidence of the public to a greater extent than JOHN B. RAND, North Waterford, Me., Jan., 1851.

As a family remedy it has been used and endorsed for nearly a century. Every Mother should have it in the house for many common ailments, internal as much as external. Our book on INFLAMMATION free. Price 5c and 50c. J. B. Johnson & Co., Boston, Mass.

LET CANADA LEAD THE WAY

The words of Mr. Chamberlain's message to the British people are significant:

"Patriotism before politics. May the union between the colonies and the Motherland, now cemented by their blood, be forever maintained."

If that be the guiding principle of British statesmanship, when Canada, the British West Indies, Australia, New Zealand, Cape Colony, and Natal unite in asking the Mother Country to adopt a system of inter-Imperial preferential trade the request will not be refused.

It is only necessary for Canada to lead the way.

The Australians and New Zealanders are favourable to it, Mr. Cecil Rhodes and other prominent South Africans have advocated it, and the British West Indies would be delighted to join in such an arrangement.

But Canada is the premier colony, and the British people will do nothing until the Canadian Government takes decisive action in favor of reciprocity in Imperial preferential trade.—Montreal Star.
