SECOND EDITION NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

THE DAILY EXAMINER.

MAY 13, 1880.

Hon. George Brown.

THE INQUEST ON HIS REMAINS.

(Special Despatch to the Halifax Herald.)

Dr. Johnson, Coroner, opened the inquest on the remains of Hon. George Brown this morning at 10 o'clock, at the house of the deceased, with a number of prominent merchants on the Jury. Mr. W. H. Howland, foreman. The Jury proceeded to the Chamber and viewed the body of the deceased, in a rosewood refrigerator; the features of deceased were calm in expression. After viewing the remains an adjournment was had till 8 p. m., when the inquest will be resumed in the Police Court.

The news of the death was announced to the prisoner, Bendet, this morning, by the governor of the goal. He received the intelligence with apparent coolness, and said that he expected as much from a conversation he overheard yesterday. He knew that the wound was a serious one, but he did not expect fatal results. He was sorry for the accident from the first, and more particularly so since it terminated fatally. He did not think his counsel could have much difficulty in convincing an intelligent jury that he did not intend murdering Mr. Brown; but that the shooting was done in a scuffle. He says he is too poor to employ the lawyer he would like. The funeral, which will be a public one, will take place on Wednesday at 3 p. m., at the metropolis, where the Brown family vault is. It is expected the stores will be closed as the funeral cortage passes through the streets.

Toronto, May 11.

The coroner's jury in this case, which met at the late residence of the Senator, have found as follows:—

That said George Brown did, on the 9th day of May, come to his death by a wound caused by a shot fired from a pistol in the hands of the prisoner George Bennett, alias Dickson, which shot was feloniously, wilfully, and of malice aforethought, fired on the 25th of March last, with intent to kill and murder the Hon. George Brown.

The decided verdict of the jury is highly approved, and Bennett's statement that he would have no difficulty in convincing an intelligent jury that he did not intend to murder Mr. Brown strongly condemned. The funeral takes place to-morrow, and will be a spontaneous and almost universal tribute of respect to the deceased journalist.

A venerable lady, whose age is reputed to be 110 years, recently passed through Port Hope on her way to Beaverton, where her daughter resides. Her name is stated to be Bovaire. Her father was a Tuscarora chief, and her mother was a Scotchwoman. There is quite a romance, it seems, connected with her mother's courtship and marriage. She, when a young girl, as one of a party of immigrants, was on her way up the Connecticut river in a canoe, and, with her friends, had gone ashore to rest for the night, when they were noticed by a band of Indians that happened to be in the neighborhood. The chief immediately fell in love with the fair daughter of Auld Scotia, and, scorning the slow methods of the white man, carried her off to his wigwam. His love for her was tempered with esteem, and he bowed before her superior understanding. Through her means, he embraced Christianity, and, after the required preparation, devoted himself to missionary work among the people of his own race. Eleven children, of which Mrs. Bovaire is one, were the offspring of this strange but happy union. The old lady has been twice married, and her second husband has been dead many years. She has had seven children, one of whom, Mrs. McCullough, of Beaverton, has been already alluded to. According to the Port Hope "Times," Mrs. Bovaire can recollect the battle of Bunker's Hill, of which she was an eye-witness. She is quite brisk and active, can read without trouble, and is always happy to entertain the many visitors who call upon her from friendship or curiosity.

Sir Garnet Wolsley is now en route to England from South Africa, having brought the Zulu war to a successful close and established a system of government in that country which promise to maintain it in a peaceful attitude towards the neighboring colonists. Before leaving Natal Sir Garnet had an interview with John Dunn, who reported that throughout Zululand the feeling regarding the settlement of affairs there is satisfactory. General Wolsley deprecates any reactionary policy in relation to the South African settlement, and his personal knowledge of the actual condition of the country will doubtless induce the Government to act upon his recommendations.

Davitt and Brennan sailed on Sunday last for America. Davitt and John Dillon will visit California and other parts of the United States, in the interest of the Land League. It is believed that Parnell will join them four months hence, after the adjournment of the Parliament.

LONDON, May 11.

Mr. Gladstone's letter, explaining his animadversions on the foreign Policy of Austria, based upon a misconception of facts, and a letter of Mr. Fawcett, recalling his statement regarding the government's information relative to the Indian budget deficit, are severely criticised by the Post, Telegraph, Standard and Times as humiliating and damaging confessions.

LONDON, May 11.

The Anglo-American cable shares rallied yesterday on the strength of rumors of the new French cable having been cut by an iceberg. The stock market's idea is, that the French Company will be unable to raise the funds for the cost of the recovery of the cable, and that it will be sold to the Anglo-American Company on the latter's own terms.
