

Lost flesh lately?
Does your brain tire?
Losing control over your nerves?
Are your muscles becoming exhausted?
You certainly know the remedy. It is nothing new; just the same remedy that has been curing these cases of thinness and paleness for twenty-five years. Scott's Emulsion. The cod-liver oil in it is the food that makes the flesh, and the hypophosphites give tone to the nerves.

FOR THE WOMEN

Jellies Made Easy.

Although the making of jellies requires some practice, there is no doubt that it is worth taking a little trouble about learning not only the art of making them, but also how to arrange them so as to present a dainty appearance at the table. Now-a-days we seldom take the trouble to make jellies, they may be obtained too easily and too cheaply, and so in most small families, where the cook is probably not a chief, the mistress learns the art of arranging the jellies, that is, if she be wise in her generation.

There are so many makes of jelly in the market that there is plenty of choice from those in bottles to those in boxes, and every flavour is represented.

The first appliances you need are several pretty jelly moulds, one with an open centre, one with a deeply-moulded flower on the top, or any other kind you may choose when you go to shop; there are generally plenty from which to select, and you can have crockery, tin, or copper moulds to suit your purse.

There are usually three or four different kinds of jelly to be had—calves' foot, lemon, or orange. The last two are so pretty in themselves that they do not need alteration, as they are of a pale lemon color and a deep reddish hue. The pale lemon you can turn into a beautiful red by means of a few drops of cochineal, or a pink by putting in a smaller quantity. Aided by this you can make all kinds of pretty changes.

Jelly with a cream centre is a very favourite dish, and for this the jelly must be put into a mould with an open centre; so that when it is turned out you may fill it up with whipped cream which you must pile up high and make look as pretty as possible. Bright red apple jelly is, for instance, very pretty; and if you make half the mould of this, and the other half of pale lemon jelly, the effect is still prettier. To make this, you must always pour in one half and let it cool and harden before you pour in the other.

The mixture of dried fruit, cherries, apricots, or dates is very popular. Peaches from a tin are also very good to embed in the jelly. A perfectly clear jelly is required; and you must melt the half, and pour it into a damp mould and let it set. Then arrange the fruit on the top of it, and pour more jelly on them. One or two layers may be used; and, of course, if you can get ice, on which to set your moulds, it would make the process quicker and more certain of success.

At a recent children's party I saw banana skins filled with red jelly, which had been poured in and allowed to set, so that the bananas looked as if they had transparent red centres. Rather a good idea.

Perhaps you may like to make a mould of variegated jelly. This is done by making some red jelly, letting it become solid and then breaking it up into irregular-shaped pieces. Then take some clear jelly, such as lemon, and pour a little into a mould, and let it become hard. Then pile the red jelly on top of this, leaving some spaces in between, and on this pour some of the clear jelly. When full put the mould aside to harden.

I find tin or copper moulds better for jelly than china ones. The latter are the better perhaps, for blanching or creams.—Exchange.

day in as many of the rooms as is possible, especially in the sitting-room, dining room and kitchen," says the Ladies' Home Journal. "Every room should be aired daily and given the benefit of the sunlight, if not of the sunshine directly. Should you close the house or a part of it during the day do not do it so completely as to shut out the moving air, but invite it in through the open window at the bottom and after its mission of purification is accomplished give it free egress through the windows open at the top. The dust may find its way in, also, but better some dust and some air than no dust and no air. Bear in mind that a cool room in summer is not desirable non healthful if the coolness has been purchased at the expense of fresh air and sunshine. Do not fail to have every window of every living room lowered from the top, if only a few inches."

To Take the Sting Out of Sunburn.

A good cure for sunburn is made by slicing and soaking a cucumber for a few hours in milk, and bathing the face two or three times a day with it. Dry the face carefully afterward, using a soft towel.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Dr. A. W. CHASE

DISCOVERED A NEW TREATMENT FOR NERVOUS DISEASES

In his study of diseases of the nerves, Dr. A. W. Chase found that in nearly every case the cause of trouble was improper nourishment. About one-fifth of all the blood in the human body is found in the brain, and unless this blood is rich and pure the nerves cannot obtain proper nourishment, and become worn out and exhausted.

Nervous depression, nervous headache, nervous dyspepsia, loss of sleep and vital force, lack of energy, are symptoms of weak, watery blood and exhausted nerves.

It was as a food for blood and nerves that Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food was prepared. Its remarkable success in curing all diseases arising from thin blood and impoverished nerves is proof that Dr. Chase's theory of feeding the nerves and blood is the proper one; stimulants only urge on the tired and worn out nervous system until there comes a complete collapse.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food creates new brain and nerve cells, and makes the blood pure and rich. It restores to the exhausted nerves the vigor of perfect health. See a large box, at all dealers, or Edmansons, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Listowel Gentleman who has no Complaint to Make Regarding Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Listowel, Ont., July 10.—Mr. Thomas Tamblin of the firm of Tamblin and Clime, grocers, was lately in receipt of a communication from a gentleman in Toronto who is gathering statistics as to cures by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Some three years ago Mr. Tamblin was troubled with a weak back and severe pain in the kidneys. He used Dodd's Kidney Pills and his trouble was removed. The Toronto enquirer asked if the cure had been satisfactory. Mr. Tamblin took the letter and wrote on the bottom in a firm hand, "The cure was quite satisfactory."
