DR. LESLIE BELL SPEAKS

Adjudicator Has Praise For Festival Performers

"I have adjudicated in many Canadian and American Cities and can say in all sincerity that the standard of your Festival vocal work is quite on a par," Dr. Leslie Bell said in a brief address at Prince of Wales College in a break between presentations of the Stars of the Festival program.

Dr. Bell continued, "I have not heard any ladies in their late 'teens do better anywhere than here and at Summerside." He reminded the contestants that all could not be winners, and admonished them to continue their interest in music as a great thing to enjoy as they grow up. "It has been an incredibly wonderful Festival, Dr. Bell said and a lovely experience for grownups to listen to the small fry go through their numbers.

"The mood of the Island in a way is reflected in the Festival. There was nothing stiff in the performances. The young folk were full of life and all were eager to sing, dance or do anything on the program with zest and pleasure."

Also speaking briefly Mr. Boris Roubakine expressed the pleasure of all the adjudicators at being here and congratulted those in charge on the success they have achieved. He suggested that the young folk attempt the works of the great masters in music, having in mind that many of these were written specifically for the young.

Mr. G. H. Mitchell said he was very pleased to note the improvements since the Festival he had judicated here last year. "We are trying to lead you along a long road and it is most encouraging to see the results of our suggestions of last year were taken to heart and acted upon." The leaders in the Festival movement are doing a splendid job and it is not too much to ask for liberal support from the people generally, especially in adding to the membership of the organization. "I would like to see music spread to the four corners of the Island," Mr. Mitchell said, with added classes for adults."

Mrs. Preston Beck, President of the Festival, presided at P. W. C. and Dr. Steel at Queen Charlotte High School.

Forty five numbers were presented before two well filled audit oriums at Prince of Wales College and Queen Charlotte High School as the performers were shuttled by taxi from one location to the other. Keen interest and unstinted applause gave indication of the popularity of the respective "Stars of the Festival" as they made their final appearance and were presented with their prizes.

The awards presented at Prince of Wales College were by Mrs. W. J. P. MacMillan and Mrs. L. L. Noonan and a smilar duty was performed at Queen Charlotte High School by Mrs. Fred M. Nash and Mrs. Stephen Trainor.

Adjudication activities were curtailed yesterday at both Prince of Wales College and Queen Charlottetown High School and were entirely dispensed with at the Community Centre.

Q.C.H.S. MORNING

The results at Queen Charlotte High School were as follows: Presiding officer, Mrs. Maylea Manning; platform secretary, Mrs. P. S. Fielding; awards representative, Mrs. E. Arnfast; adjudicator, Mr. Mitchell.

Indoor Swimming Pool Is Discussed By YMCA Directors

Charlottetown may have an indoor swimming pool in the near future if plans discussed at a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Y.M.C.A., last night materialize. Mr. Arthur Duvar presided at the meeting.

When the present Y.M.C.A. was built in 1948 provision was made for the plumbing and heating of a pool but shortage of material and rising costs prevented this.

Mr. Frank Curtis, last night reported that he had made an extensive investigation into the cost of constructing an indoor pool and estimated that with the present heating and plumbing facilities a steel insulated quonset type building could enclose a poured cement pool for a cost of approximately $25,000. This could be enclosed with brick facing at a later date.

SPECIAL FUND NEEDED

The Board discussed ways and means of financing such a project. It was pointed out that the present building carries a mortgage of $49,000 and it was felt that if the money were forthcoming it would have to be secured from some other source than from the regular campaign.

During the discussions, it was recalled that the "Y" has always tried to give leadership in the filling of the needs of the Youth of the City. School children no longer consider it a privilege to use the facilities of the Y.M.C.A. since a gym program has been included in the regular corriculum.

POOL A GREAT ASSET

Reports indicated that in most Y.M.C.A.'s across Canada the emphasis is placed on Swimming, volleyball, floor hockey and badmington. It was indicated however that in spite of this, the Charlottetown "Y" still attracts a large number of young people with its program of club work, camping and Christian Fellowship. It was the consensus of opinion at the meeting that the addition of a swimming pool would greatly enhance the present program.

Another matter taken under consideration by the Board was the hiring of an additional staff member in the role of program director. Some hesitation was expressed as to the practicability of such a move due to the lack of revenue. It was felt however that the "Y" must continue to supply the highest form of youth service in the area and additional staff must be considered.

IN EXCHANGE FOR LIFE

Tells Story Of Convicts

EDITORS' NOTE: Bob Tremblay, Marcel Frenette and Charles Talbot, rioting Oakalla prison farm prisoners, released hostage guard Ernest Loveless on the understanding that Bruce Larsen Vancouver Province city editor, would publish their complaint that they did not receive a fair trial. The story follows, with some deletions advised by province lawyers. The entire story as told to Larsen has gone to the attorney-general of British Columbia.

By BRUCE LARSEN
Vancouver Province City Editor

VANCOUVER (CP) — Tremblay, Frenette and Talbot went to the brink of murder Monday to gain assurance that "their story" will be told.

That story is basically a claim of monstrous frame-up.

I traded them this story for the life of a good Oakalla officer.

As I promised Tremblay, I am undertaking to tell their story as accurately as I can. I insisted on my reservation to stay within the bounds of reason and the law.

Here is the story as it came from the three prissoners who held guard Ernie Loveless hostage. Some detail—at Tremblay's request — comes from another Oakalla inmate who was convicted with them of the attempted murder of Thomas Kinna.

Some of their story, because we must stay within our privilege in law as a newspaper, cannot be told here. My undertaking there was that I would pass that part on to the attorney-general's office.

So, without comment, their claim:

"We never had a fair trial," insisted Tremblay at the start of the half-hour interview that ended with Loveless' release.

"The fact is that we had a newspaper trial.

"We want a chance to get in the box—at the trial the lawyers advised us to stay out.

"We want the attorney-general to study what we have that didn't get into the courts—and decide if he should intervene—whether there is proper grounds to intervene.

WILLING TO TESTIFY

"When that material's being considered by Mr. Maclean (Deputy Attorney-General Alan Maclean) we want Mr. Hill (Larry Hill, Tremblay's trial lawyer) present and we want Bruce Larsen there for newspapers. We want our stuff tested by points of law—nothing else.

"If they want us to testify—take us there.

"I 'd rather not be present when Gordon (Robert Gordon, a Nelson, B. C. logger testified against the prisoners at their trial) was there so he'll talk freely. I want it all done in B.C.

Tremblay several times repeated one comment:

"If we had wanted to escape from here we could have done it a dozen times. All I'm asking is that it go by law."

PURSUASION NEEDED

Tremblay said that he did not think that much weight should be given to the testimony of the analyst "about bloodstains on the back of my trousers and a grass stain on my knee the size of a baseball. He claims he burned the patches because they were useless. If that is evidence against us—where is it now?"

That in essence, is what Tremblay wanted said.

He wanted that published along with what I'd taken down earlier from Jimmy Malgren and from Charlie Talbot.

Tremblay had intended to wait until our newspaper was on the street with the story before he released Loveless. Persuasion that their case would be stronger if Loveless left then with me finally won out and the guard was freed.

The earlier information from Malgren on Tremblay's "beef" (underworld slang for complaint), was mainly elaboration of Tremblay's points. Tremblay wanted to be associated with it because he was convinced the other prisoner and lawyer Hill could tell it better.

NEGOTIATIONS BREAK DOWN

Strike Vote By Railway Unions Is Seen Probable

MONTREAL (CP)—Likelihood of a strike vote on Canadian railways was seen Tuesday night after a new breakdown in talks between companies and unions representing 150,000 non-operating employees.

A short-lived attempt at re-opening negotiations lasted only 40 minutes Tuesday, when railway and union negotiators announced tersely they had been unable to agree even on a basis for discussion.

In Ottawa, Prime Minister St. Laurent said in Parliament he hopes there will be no interruption to rail services. In answer to a question he said the government is giving earnest consideration to the problem arising from the deadlocked negotiations.

He said responsibility does not lie with the government, either legally or technically, but Parliament has a responsibility to the Canadian people in respect to operation of rail services.

Labor Minister Gregg noted that the Montreal talks had been "discontinued" but added he would make no comment until he had heard from the opposing sides.

The parties had come together at the request of Mr. Gregg, following the majority report of a conciliation board. It recommended that the unions receive more than half their demands.

The sudden collapse of the talks dimmed optimistic hopes for an early settlement and renewed fears of a paralyzing strike on the coast-to-coast lines.

A joint statement by Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways, and three smaller lines, said:

"The railways came to this meeting prepared to make an offer which we sincerely believed would provide the basis for an early settlement. The unions, however, insisted that they would discuss nothing unless we agreed to accept the terms of settlement recommended in the conciliation board's majority report.

"Accordingly, we were given no opportunity to outline our position. The unions refused to listen to our offer."

ON NO OTHER BASIS

Frank Hall, chief union spokesman, had demanded last week that the railways accept the board's report. He said the unions would meet with the railways on no other basis. Subsequently he acceded to Mr. Gregg's request for another meeting with the companies.

Tuesday night Mr. Hall said merely that the 16-man union negotiating committee is continuing private meetings, and an announcement may be forthcoming today.

The majority report of the three-man conciliation board proposed an 11-per-cent increase for the non operating group, spread over the next 14 months.

In Ottawa, the prime minister when asked in Parliament whether the government would impress on the railways a necessity of accepting the conciliation report, replied that no decision had been reached on the point.

A strike by the non-operating group in 1950 tied up the railways for nine days.

To Search Pond Again For Boy

HALIFAX, (CP) — The RCMP said Tuesday they would give a nearby pond another "thorough going over" before calling off the search for a five-year-old Negro boy missing since Friday.

The search for Brayon Downey of nearby New Road settlement went through its fourth day Tuesday without results and police said they would search the duck pond area again before the hunt is called off.

Since the boy disappeared on a flower-picking trip hundreds of searchers led by the RCMP, and including armed forces personnel, have searched the wooded areas near his home. Police say they hold little hope for his safety.

NOISY SESSION ON PIPELINE

Federal Gov't Challenged To Early General Election

OTTAWA (CP) — The government was challenged to a general election Tuesday as it bared to the Commons its plan to grant a huge treasury loan to a private company to finance an immediate start on the long-stalled cross-Canada natural gas pipeline.

The proposal, outlined by Trade Minister Howe to a packed and noisy Commons, received a rough reception from jeering Progressive Conservative and CCF members. CCF leader Coldwell challenged the government to take the issue to the polls. Prime Minister St. Laurent did not reply.

Involved in the complex proposal is provision of a federal loan covering 90 per cent of the estimated $80,000,000 cost of building this year the Alberta - Winnipeg portion of the 2,200-mile line to deliver Alberta gas to Ontario and Quebec. The loan, bearing five-per cent interest, would be for nine months, to March 31, 1957. If the company defaulted, the government would take over the line.

WANT CANADIAN OWNERSHIP

Opposition leader Drew said the scheme is "truly fantastic." It was subsidy on a "grand scale" and an attempt by Liberal members to bail Mr. Howe out of confusion into which he had plunged his government.

"The present minister of trade and commerce can be too expensive a luxury for Canada under circumstances of that kind," Mr. Drew said.

Both he and Mr. Coldwell estimated that about 83 per cent of Trans - Canada is controlled by Americans. Mr. Drew repeated his appeal that the $375,000,000 line should be built by Canadians. Mr. Coldwell also asked for Canadian ownership, arguing that the government's proposal would mean "building enormous profits for U.S. private buccaneers."

The CCF leader was convinced that if the Liberals took the issue to the electorate, it would be flatly rejected.

"I say to the government . . let them go before the people of Canada at this time to see what will happen to them. I am convinced, from correspondence and from people with whom I am in contact, that there was never a more unpopular proposition put before the people of Canada than this one is."

The Social Credit party rather welcomed Mr. Howe's announcement. Victor Quelch (SC—Acadia) said his party is glad an immediate start will be made on the western leg.

It is understood that under the bill the government will ask Parliament for a maximum $80,000,000, though it intends that the actual loan made will be slightly less than that amount.

Agreement terms likely will be tabled in the Commons today. The company plans to get the line started July 1 and hopes it will reach Winnipeg by Nov. 1.

Sask. Election Called June 20

REGINA (CP) — Premier T.C. Douglas, with an eye on wheat-seeding weather, Tuesday called a Saskatchewan election for Wednesday, June 20.

The traditional June date is a week later than the 1952 election which saw Mr. Douglas' CCF government re-elected with a heavy majority for a third term.

Provincial elections also will be held in Quebec June 20—the fifth time since Confederation that two provinces voted on the same day. Elections in New Brunswick will be held Monday, June 18.

Premier Douglas' announcement will step up political activity for what is expected to be largely a three-party battle among the CCF, Liberal, and Social Credit which wasn't represented in the last legislature.

Nominations for the 53 seats at stake will close June 4.

Standing in the last legislature, dissolved Tuesday by Lt.-Gov. W.J. Patterson, was CCF 41, Liberals 10, Progressive Conservative 1 and vacant 1.

Chief issues as they now appear are highway expenditures, health insurance, social services, aid to education and municipalities, and federal agricultural policies.

Freight Car Orders To Keep Trenton Busy

TRENTON, N.S. (CP) —An Eastern Car Co. spokesman said Tuesday new freight car orders from Canadian National Railways will keep the local plant busy well into 1957.

The railway announced earlier that orders for 450 longitudinal hopper cars and 130 air dump cars have been placed with the plant, a Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation subsidiary.

About 1,000 men work at Eastern Car, now working on a CNR order for boxcars. Current output is 16 cars a days.

The spokesman said the new orders will be fitted into the plant schedule after the boxcar order is filled but a steel shortage may prevent continuous production.

U. K. Gov't Urges Conference With Workers On Automation

LONDON (Reuters)—The British government, already facing its first major strike over "robot" production, Tuesday suggested firms have early discussions with their workers before introducing new automation techniques.

Labor Minister Iain Macleod told the House of Commons the government welcomes automation but it is bound to cause employment problems.

"These problems can be satisfactorily resolved if the government and both sides of industry work in close co-operation with each other," he said.

11,000 ON STRIKE

As the minister made his statement, leaders of the big Amalgamated Engineering Union were meeting here to decide whether to give official backing to the strike of 11,000 workers at the Standard Motor Company's works in Coventry.

The union chiefs agreed to wait until they heard the views of nine other unions involved at a joint conference tonight.

The stoppage, in its 13th day, is over a threat that 3,000 men may be laid off following the planned introduction of new types of machinery in the company's tractor plant.

The strikers demand that, instead of men being laid off, short-time working should be spread over all workers while the tractor factory was being re-tooled.

British Alert As Cyprus Sentences Are Confirmed

By SHANE GUEBENLIAN

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters British troops were on the alert for any new outbreaks or terrorism in all Cyprus towns Tuesday as Governor Sir John Harding confirmed death sentences on two young Greek-Cypriots for terrorism.

The two, Michael Karaolis, 23, and Adreas Demetriou, 22, would be the first accused terrorists hanged since agitation for union with Greece started the Cyprus emergency more than a year ago.

Harding turned down the clemency plea made for the two youths after court appeals had failed.

Paratroopers patrolled Nicosia streets, carrying machine - guns and rifles, and all vehicles were banned from the city's streets from 5 p.m. until further notice. British schools were told not to open today, and in Kyrenia, north Cyprus, Britons were warned to stay indoors at night and walk in pairs during the day.

More Vehicles Enter Canada

OTTAWA (CP) —Nearly 1,000,000 vehicles crossed the international border into Canada from the United States in March, an increase of about 33 per cent over the corresponding month last year.

Total crossings came to 979,300 and comprised 442,600 foreign vehicles and 536,700 registered in Canada, the bureau of statistics reported Tuesday. Foreign vehicles entering Canada increased 21 per cent and Canadian vehicles re-entering increased nearly 44 per cent.
