MOST PROFIT to the Grocer who sells Economical to the Housewife who uses

Woodill's German Baking Powder.

K. D. C. Will Cure You.

Camping Out.

Have you ever camped out? No? Well, try it. Not in wet weather, but in weather such as we have been enjoying all this week. It is delightful. Far from the dusty town are our canvas tents pitched. There are six of us, and a very merry crowd are we.

Reader! if you would enter into the beauties of Nature and see how she robes the earth in summer glory; if you would see a charming river, cool, girt with trees, and winding through a beautiful landscape—a river where trout flourish and grow fat, to the delight of anglers; come then, to the lovely retreat where we have pitched our canvas.

On the banks of this river we are encamped. One man of our company is an experienced cook; nay, more, he is a veritable chef. Ye epicures! what dishes he gets up. Oft in that stilly period of which the poets write, have I struggled with unmanageable nightmares: and I am bruised, for shouting in one's sleep, to the disturbance of the other slumberers in the tent, is not relished by my comrades,—and kicks are my portion. So much for the cook, though he is not a bad fellow after all. He has made most intimate the relations between ourselves and our respective grandmothers.

Six trunks, and a jelly mould! Shades of blanc mange! Each man brought a trunk with him. What work for the cook, and what feasts—I will not say of reason—there will be. As we gather each night for our evening meal and place ourselves at the mercy of our chef, the flow of wit begins

In addition to our cook we have an electrician, who, if he had his will, would desecrate Nature's handiwork by introducing telegraph poles into the landscape; a druggist, whose lily white complexion beautifully attests the virtues of Kalydor, Pears' Soap, etc.; a banker, who is also a redoubtable Engineer; a merchant prince, and a popular ladies' man. This is our whole company. Our merchant writes shorthand, and I fancy he takes notes of all the bon mots which are said. He will write a book, I imagine, when we return to town, the name of which will probably be: "A Week with the 14 Gallon Society."

We fish and get sun-burned all day, and tell fish stories all night. Oh, I will spare you the stories. When the book I have mentioned is published, you will find therein recorded some "terrors."

Don't imagine that we, like Indians, stay around our "camps" all day. Such a programme would not suit our ladies' man. Thanks to his efforts, we have made acquaintances at the houses round about, and the charm of female society is not denied us.

Then, when we have nothing else to do, we read In the evening, when the dishes are washed and put away, and pipes are lighted, and winged insects are singing—and biting, novels are brought out and we become quiet, save that now and then a slap is heard as some pestiferous, biting mosquito meets his doom, or some ardent angler, oblivious of groans and sarcastic remarks, tells the story of his day's exploits.

Last night was a perfect night. I was not sleepy and I sat for hours at our tent door, letting the cool sea breeze blow through my hair and toy with the shadow of my coming moustache. Within the tent a regular chorus of nocturnal music was going on. Without, the quiet of the night was disturbed only by the humming of attentive mosquitoes and the melancholy warbling of bull frogs. Now and then a splash would be heard in the river, and my mind would leap to visions of sport among the fish. The moon (or was it the sun) rose late, and as she shed her silver light o'er tree and plain and river, and bathed the scene in indescribable beauty, I turned in and tumbled over the feet of my sleeping friends and was soon asleep.

We will be here for a few days yet. But I think none of our friends would be able to find us out in the pretty spot where we have encamped. If they do succeed in finding the place it will be only after some days search. Before that time comes we "Shall fold our tents like the Arabs,

And as silently steal away."

Clouds Rent in Twain.

TOWNS IN NEW JERSEY AND WISCONSIN MADE DESOLATE.

MILFORD, N. J., July 5.—On Friday afternoon there was a cloudburst near this place, and the rainfall continued for two hours and a half, causing the creek that runs through the town to overflow its banks. A frame structure belonging to Wm. Teets, carpet manufacturer, was lifted from its foundations and borne down against the iron suspension bridge and completely destroyed the bridge, which was 162 feet long. A dam, the property of W. and E. Thomas, flour millers, was also washed away. One child was drowned. The loss of live stock, buildings and crops, it is estimated, will reach $100,000. The tracks were torn out within 100 feet of where the Oswego express was wrecked a few years ago, and the same train was approaching the washout when it was flagged just in time by a man who had discovered the danger.

MADISON, Wis., July 6.—News has been received of a cloudburst which occurred in Richland county and occasioned a loss of $200,000 or more. Four mill dams were carried out between Richland Centre and Lone Rock. An iron bridge was wrecked at Eagle Mills. Crops suffered greatly.

W. R. WATSON, Druggist is wholesale agent for K. D. C. It is sold by all druggists, and guaranteed to cure Dyspepsia and Indigestion or the money will be refunded.

Temperate Railway Men.

The work for temperance being done by the railways has often been commented upon. If there is one class of men more than another of whom sobriety must be demanded, that class is made up of the railway employees. The Baltimore & Ohio Railway Company, one of the oldest and largest corporations in the United States, has lately issued a circular which warns employees against frequenting drinking establishments, and says: "Employes will be discharged if intoxicated either on or off duty. No persons discharged for intoxication will be re-employed." This is rigid and may seem tyrannical, but is really not so. The officers of the company are virtually responsible to the public, and it is their right as well as their duty to choose for the vastly important duties of the company's service men who are thoroughly to be relied upon.

Indian Schools in Canada.

The total number of Indian schools under control of the different religious denominations are: Church of England, 84, of which 21 are in the Western Territories, 27 in Manitoba, 3 in British Columbia, 32 in Ontario, and 1 in Quebec; Roman Catholic, 80, of which 19 are in the territories, 10 in Manitoba, 6 in British Columbia, 19 in Ontario, 14 in Quebec, 6 in Nova Scotia, 6 in New Brunswick, and 1 in P. E. Island; Methodist, 34, of which 9 are in the Territories, 4 in Manitoba, 4 in British Columbia, 13 in Ontario, and 4 in Quebec; Presbyterian, 10, all of which are in the Territories The undenominational schools number 16, of which 10 are in Ontario, and 6 in Manitoba. The total payments to the schools in Manitoba and the Territories, from 1882 to 1889, were: Church of England, $186.761; Roman Catholic, $257,600; Methodist, $21,541; Presbyterian, $56,439; non denominational, $61,941.

Wealth of Colored People.

A correspondent of the Chicago Inter-Ocean, who has been gathering statistics regarding the pecuniary condition of the 11,000,000 colored people in the United States, says they own property worth in the aggregate more than $263,000,000. Of this amount $16,310,441 is church property. Their wealth is chiefly found in the following States: Alabama, $9,200,125; Arkansas, $8,010,315; California, $4,006,209; Colorado, $3,100,432; Delaware, $1,200,179; District of Columbia, $5,300,033; Florida, $7,900,040; Georgia, $10,415,330; Iowa, $2,500,372; Illinois, $3,300,511; Indiana, $4,004,113; Kansas, $3,500,222; Kentucky, $5,900,000; Louisiana, $18,100,528; Mississippi, $13,400,213; Missouri, $6,000,340; Maryland, $8,900,735; Minnesota, $1,101,236; Michigan, $4,800,000; New Jersey, $3,300,185; New York, $17,400,756; North Carolina, $11,010,652; Nebraska, $2,500,000; Massachusetts, $9,004,122; Ohio, $7,800,325; Rhode Island, $3,400,000; Pennsylvania, $15,300,648; South Carolina, $12,500,000; Texas, $18,010,545; Tennessee, $10,400,211; Vermont, $1,010,[illegible]; West Virginia, $5,006,721; Wisconsin, $1,575,000; Virginia, $4,90[illegible]

A Wonderful Flesh Producer.

This is the title given to Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil by many thousands who have taken it. It not only gives flesh and strength by virtue of its own nutritious properties, but creates an appetite for food. Use it and try your weight. Scott's Emulsion is perfectly palatable. Sold by all druggists at 50c and $1.
