Fine Passing Proves Key To Win In U.S. Grid Tilts

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Fine passing proved the key to victory in the United States football bowl games Saturday, helping the South to a 33-27 triumph over the North in the Senior Bowl game at Mobile, Ala., and the National All-stars to a 33-13 victory against the Southwest All - stars in the Southwest Challenge Bowl at Corpus Christi, Tex.

Glynn Griffing of Mississippi and Gary Cuozzo of Virginia were the passing quarterbacks for the south on a down-to-the-wire battle that kept the crowd of 38,048 in an uproar. Their tossing helped build up a 33-6 lead by the third quarter.

But Jerry Gross of Detroit was the sparkplug for a North rally that narrowed the South's winning margin to six points. The big lead melted away in the head of Gross' sizzling passing and the rebels were forced to seal their victory with a goal-line stand in the final minute.

Southern defenders led by Alabama's Lee Roy Jordan, Mississippi's Jim Dunaway and Louisiana State University's Fred Miller stopped Dave Hoppmann of Iowa State, who has been signed by Montreal Alouettes, Dave Katterhenrich of Ohio State and Gross inside the rebel two-yard line as the last seconds ticked away.

BYPASSED BY PROS

Gross, a quarterback bypassed to date by the professional leagues, completed 24 passes for 317 yards. Gross was named the outstanding back for the north in a poll of writers.

Griffing, awarded the accolade for the South, guided the South to 20 points in a spectcular second - quarter surge that threatened to turn a close game into a rout. When Cuozzo led the rebels to an early score after the half it appeared that the south was on its way to a runaway.

But Gross hit his receivers with astonishing accuracy and restored the north's prestige. Spectacular catches by North end Bob Jencks of Miami of Ohio gave him the honors as the outstanding lineman for the Yankees.

Miller was voted outstanding lineman for the South, but he was barely more effective than Dunaway, Jordan, Auburn's Jim Price and Georgia Tech's Larry Stallings and Rufus Guthrie.

SET UP THREE TDs

In addition to stopping the Yankees in the decisive final seconds, the South defence set up three touchdowns, two on pass interceptions by Jerry Logan of West Texas State and Bill Battle of Alabama and once when Dunaway recovered a fumble. Dunaway also blocked an attempted field goal by Jencks in the first quarter.

Mississippi State's Charley Furlow passed for two TDs and Bill Thornton of Nebraska ran for two in the National all-stars win.

Furlow, who completed 20 of 33 passes for 261 yards, was voted outstanding back.

The Southwest took the lead under the passing and running of Johnny Genung of Texas in the second quarter. But after that Furlow unlimbered his passing arm.

Furlow threw 35 yards to Louis Guy for one touchdown and 33 to Dick Williamson for another. The third touchdown was handed to the Nationals when Johnny Lovelac of Texas Tech was jarred loose from the ball. Don Dickson of Mississippi and Jim Moss of South Carolina chased the ball 18 yards across the goal line for a touchdown.

In the fourth quarter the Nationals surged 84 yards for a touchdown with a 50-yard pass from Furlow to Williamson setting it up. Thornton made it with a six-yard run.

Shortly afterwards, Furlow's passing and Santiago's running got the ball to the Southwest 13 and Thornton ran over left tackle for the touchdown.

Genung completed five straight passes to give the Southwest a touchdown with only one minute and 13 seconds left in the game.

Royals Widen League Ga In Defeating Eagles 6-3

SUMMERSIDE — The Parkdale Royals increased their league lead to nine points by defeating RCAF Eagles 6-3 at the airforce rink yesterday afternoon. The Eagles matched the visitors for two and three-quarter periods, the score being 3-all at that time, but having lost their big defenceman, Braisebois, who is believed to have sustained a cracked rib in the first period, the RCAF boys wilted and the Royals scored three goals in the last six minutes of the game. Angie Carroll of the Royals was the only player to score two goals. Referees Gord Kelly and Don Whelan handed out 11 minor penalties, 9 of them going to the Royals.

Hugh Spicer opened the scoring at 4:23, flashing in fast to snare Kennedy's pass about ten feet out and beating Ward with a rising shot. Whitlock evened the count seven minutes later.

The Royals had been playing two men short, and Buck had just stepped out of the penalty box when he snared the puck, out-manoeuvred one defenceman, and beat Walsh with what looked like a soft shot. Royals were still a man short at the time.

Kennedy, RCAF newcomer, put Eagles ahead 2½ minutes later, culminating a smooth 3-man passing bout with a neat shot from right wing. The Eagles made it 3-1 when Ron Hughes' long screened shot hit Eustace Reeves' stick and deflected into the cage behind Ward.

Stu McLure scored a goal at 19:59. It was disputed by the Eagles, claiming the buzzer had sounded before the puck entered the net, but referee Whelan ruled the goal had been scored before the buzzer sounded.

FAST PLAY FEATURED

The second period featured a lot of fast play and strenuous bumping with only one goal being scored. Dick Carroll connected at 17:27 getting the puck from brother Angie. Some exceptionally loose defensive work gave the Royals their tying counter.

Steve Phillips got a breakaway half way through the final period, but the puck refused to lie flat and a golden scoring opportunity was missed. At 14:11 Royals went ahead for the first time, Angie Carroll blasting one past Walsh after a frenzied melee in front of the net. Jim MacLeod climaxed a fast sortie into Eagles' zone by Gillis, taking Smelt's pass to fire the wafer past Walsh.

Angie Carroll ended the scoring with 33 seconds left to play. Carroll swooped in on goal alone to decoy Walsh out of position for the final counter.

SPORT ECHOES

By Norman Macdonald
Summerside Bureau of The Guardian

We Defend Ourselves

First of all let us defend ourselves against an innuendo by saying we did not confine our criticism to the Combines for being missing from "away from home" games. We also took a crack at the Royals, and made a general remark about the practice which embraced all teams. Also, we were the first to call attention to the fact that the automatic suspension could scarcely be ignored when considering the Combine-Eagle dispute of a week ago.

All we sports writers should, like the merchants, take inventory at this time of year—take a back look over our output, and if we have been "homers"—i.e. blasting visiting teams and saying nothing against the home product, we should do something about it, and try to establish a reputation for neutrality. But, by all means, let us keep taking pot shots at something or other or our columns will become deadly dull affairs.

The boys who concentrate on spreading the goo will naturally reap gratitude from the receivers, whose Aunt Rachels may even send them a valentine, but the general reading public will read the syrupy stuff and then look for a place to throw up. Too much praise cheapens the award. It's like giving Victoria Crosses to every soldier who in making his bed tucks in the sheets neatly and doesn't leave wrinkles.

A new writer named Drylie (we think that's the name) is writing a column in the Toronto Star in place of Gord Sinclair. This new boy in one column took cracks at Pierre Berton, Tommy Ambrose, and Juliette. He seems to lean a little too far toward the verbal assault, but, human nature being what it is, this fellow will be read. We can hardly wait to see his next column.

Unwise To Read Between Lines

Regarding the great controversy we think it unwise to do too much reading between the lines of hockey rules and regulations, which are something like legal documents, and should be followed to the letter. Referring to rule 75, where it says "the order (for a team to come back on the ice) may be given to any player, coach, manager, or trainer of the offending team", a writer points out that it says "may" instead of "must." Implying apparently that it means — "if you're in the mood, and have nothing else to do — "the order may be given."

A doctor might say: "This patient must be given two grams of hoopla" and then add: "it may be given orally or intravenously." Surely the "may" in the second part does not weaken the "must" in the first part, but rather offers a choice in the method of doing something that must be done. We don't think the referee could shout his order in the general direction of the team, or have it announced on the loud speaker. He would have to deliver it to one individual, which, of course, referee Reardon may have done.

Our new slogan—"pat 'em on the back if they deserve it, but sometimes it has to be applied a little lower down." Please note we may have to start "last week's brickbat" to supplement "last week's bouquet".

Last Week's Bouquet

Speedy Vince and Billy Mulligan were outstanding,
Their smart play made Royals' edge still more commanding;
But when a shot comes from Doug Tucker
All those goalies better duck, or
Go in orbit, so to Doug the flowers we're handing.

Last Week's Brickbat

Ronnie, whom we otherwise admire, this tip:
The best of refs and players too can make a slip;
"Treat us right or we won't play,"
That's kid stuff—the sandlot way.
Let's have a little better brand of leadership.

Hornsby Names Greatest Thrill

In 1953 The Associated Press asked various sports stars to tell in their own words which game or athletic incident gave them their biggest thrill. Rogers Hornsby, who died in Chicago Saturday, replied as follows:

By ROGERS HORNSBY

My greatest thrill in baseball came when I tagged Babe Ruth for the final out of the 1926 World Series. It gave the St. Louis Cardinals their first Series.

As manager, I started Jesse Haines, who had shut out the Yankees in the third game. In the seventh inning of the seventh and final game he became very wild and walked three men. I sent in Grover Alexander. He fanned Tony Lazerri to end the inning.

Only one man reached base in the two and one-third innings Alex worked. That was Ruth.

With two out in the ninth the count went to three and two and Ruth drew a base on balls. Everybody in the park was surprised when the Babe tried to steal second base with the tieing run. He ran on his own and I don't know what Miller Huggins said to him afterwards. The Babe was trying to pull the unexpected play.

Catcher Bob O'Farrel made a perfect throw to me at second and all I did was catch the ball and tag Babe. As a matter of fact, when he slid in he tagged himself. It was my biggest thrill in baseball.

Boxer Has Eye Injury

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mickey MacMillan, Canadian lightweight boxing champion, has suffered a eye injury that will keep him out of the ring for six months, perhaps for life.

It means he won't represent Canada at the Pan American games as planned.

The injury was disclosed by Vancouver athletic coach Tommy DesLauriers. The champion, who was eliminated in his first match at the British Empire Games in Australia after suffering cuts above the eyes, had the cuts reopened in sparring sessions this week.

"The doctor has advised him not to box for at least six months," DesLauriers said, adding there was speculation MacMillan might forego the ring for good.

Terlep Closes Grid Career

OTTAWA (CP)—George Terlep, former general manager of the Ottawa Rough Riders, is leaving Ottawa and closing out a career of some 20 years in football.

Terlep, who resigned his post with the Eastern Conference football club last month, has accepted a management post with a mobile housing concern in his hometown, Elkhart, Ind.

After a college career at Notre Dame and 11 years in American pro football, Terlep came to Canada in 1957. He was backfield coach for Hamilton Tiger-Cats that year and then moved to Regina as head coach.

He came to the Rough Riders in mid-season 1959, and became full-time general manager in 1960. With a year still to run in his three-year contract he resigned last month and was replaced by Red O'Quinn, former Montreal Alouettes star.

BIGGEST IN CHAIN

Cuba, with an area of 44,206 square miles, is the largest island in the West Indies chain.

Jim Beatty Cops Sullivan Award

NEW YORK (AP)—Little Jim Beatty, who became the first miler to break four minutes indoors, was named winner of the 1962 Sullivan Award Saturday by the Amateur Athletic Union.

The award goes to "the amateur athlete who, by performance, example, and good influence did the most to advance the cause of good sportsmanship during the year."
