PROFESSIONAL BUTLERS.—The office of the Cumberland coal and railway company at Springhill was entered by burglars a few nights ago, the safe blown open and between $300 and $400 stolen. Some notes and silver occupied by the burglars, and was left untouched. Some valuable papers are also missing.

SAV HE'S AN ISLANDER.—A man named Ambrose Andrew Pickering is under arrest in Boston charged with the murder of a dissolute woman named Butler with whom he was living. At first the papers said he was a Nova Scotian, but the Halifax papers say he is a native of Prince Edward Island. This is an old trick of the papers of the other provinces.

Dawson, of Bridgewater, on pleasure bent and intending to pass three or four days sight-seeing in the most interesting city of the continent. Concerning "sex-education," Mr. Dawson said that night that he didn't believe that a single constituency in the Dominion of Canada would tolerate a candidate who was suspected of having even a slight leaning toward an aversion to the United States. The feeling which is growing in intenseness, he declared, is one of the greatest loyalty to the Dominion, and all other considerations apart.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

We do not claim to be selling all kinds of dry goods as much below their value as the above, but we are selling many lines at prices that barely cover the cost of manufacture.

The latest development of the milk business in London is to drive the cows around 27 miles and have them milked in the presence of the customers. The customer is thus able to judge for himself of the healthy appearance of the animal, and is sure of the freshness of the milk. The practice is a common and ancient one in Egypt.

A careful record kept at Yale for eight years shows that non-smokers are 20 per cent taller, 25 per cent heavier, and have 60 per cent more lung capacity than smokers. A recent graduating class at Amherst presented a similar difference in favor of non-smokers, who had gained in weight 24 per cent, over the smokers, and in height 27 per cent, and also exceeded them in lung capacity.

The Catholic directory for 1894, which has just been issued, gives the statistics of the Catholic Church in the United States. The Catholic population in many of the dioceses is approximated, and in the absence of exact figures the compilers of the directory are unable to say just how many Catholics there are in the United States. The directory gives the number as 8,202,000, but Catholic authorities claimed last year that there are at least 12,000,000.

A singular incident is related in the Congressionalist regarding a church which was seeking for a pastor, and sought that paper's help. It was found that the church offered an encouraging opportunity for the right sort of man and needs were accordingly set forth. One of the first letters in response came from a minister without a charge who expressed an ardent desire to throw his whole energy into just such a field as that described. It turned out that the church in question was the very one which he had been serving only a few months before.

The deadly bacillus is everywhere. The weakly consumptive who goes into the country to draw new strength from fresh milk and good beef, little guesses that he is hastening his death. Yet such the scientists declare to be quite possible. Tuberculosis among cattle is declared to be prevalent in all civilized countries, and is so contagious that the introduction of one germ into the human body in milk or meat is sufficient by rapid multiplication to bring on the worst form of disease in a short time. It is some consolation to know that Dr. Koch has discovered a means of identifying the existence of the disease in animals.

A thief broke into a certain house early the other morning and found himself in the music-room. Hearing foot-steps approaching he took refuge behind a piano. From eight to nine the eldest daughter had a singing lesson. From nine to ten o'clock the second daughter took a piano lesson. From ten to eleven o'clock the eldest son had a violin lesson. From eleven to twelve the other son had a lesson on the flute. At twelve-thirty all the brothers and sisters assembled and studied an ear-splitting piece for voice, piano, violin and flute. The thief staggered out from behind the screen at twelve-fifteen, and, falling at his feet, cried, "For mercy's sake have me arrested!"

During a quarrel between Anthony Kospile and his wife at Shamokin last Friday their four-month-old baby was thrown from the kitchen window. A Newfoundland dog, belonging to Joseph C. Oshakies, passing at the time, picked the infant up and carried the child to his kennel, passing over a creek en route. When the domestic differences in the Kospile household had been adjusted the parents thought of their child. A search for it began and was continued for two hours in vain. Then a faint cry was heard from the Oshakies kennel. There the father ran and found the little one kicking in the straw, while the big dog watched it and kept guard at the entrance of his lowly home.

A declaration of marriage in Siam, says the New York World, is simpler even than it used to be in Scotland. You ask a lady to marry you by merely offering her a flower, or taking a light from her cigarette, if it happens to be in her mouth, and your family and the bride's family have to put up at least $1,000 a side for a dowry. Unlike Japan, the Siamese custom is treated as a mere formality, and seldom read or written. The principal impediment in the way of marriage is that each year is named after an animal, and only certain animals are allowed to intermarry. For instance, a person born in the year of the rat cannot marry with a person born in the year of the dog, or a person born in the year of the cow with a person born in the year of the tiger; and there are similar embargoes about months and days.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

THE ENGLISH OHPHANS. DEAR SIR,—Will you be good enough to give notice that Mr. Middlemore expects to reach Charlottetown about June 15th, with about 40 or 45 children. Applicants for these orphan will be notified of the exact date of arrival as soon as possible, and will be asked to claim the children at once, in order to avoid the expense of board in the city. Yours faithfully, JAMES SIMPSON.

POOR MONEY. Thomas Nast, the American cartoonist, has entered the employ of the Pall Mall Gazette. His work will be devoted to political cartoons.

Sir,—Why is the poor money withheld for the last three years, till summer is nearly over? This is the case in Belfast at any rate. Is it not heartless to withhold the small pitance for the poor? When seed grain, etc., are so scarce, this money should not be delayed. In the northern section of Belfast last year, or year before last, Mr. H. C. McDonald, M. P., had the distribution of it himself, and he held on to some of the money till harvest time. One poor old woman had to have several letters written for her to the junior M. P. before she was paid, and another is said to have been paid, or offered to be paid, by Mr. H. C. McDonald on Sunday, when the dog days were over. It is said she refused to take the money because it was the Sabbath day. Is there anyone to show justice to the poor in this matter? J.

FESTIVALS ON FRIDAYS. Sir,—As members of the Church of England we are constantly reminded, both by the circulation of anti-ritualistic tracts, effusions from the pulpit, private admissions, etc., of the great necessity of being true to the "Principles of the Reformation." Now, among the "Principles of the Reformation," as laid down by the Reformers of our church in the Book of Common Prayer, will be found a table of all the "Days of Fasting, or Abstinence, that are to be observed in the Church of England throughout the year," and in that document the following rule is given: "All Prayers in the year except Christmas Day." As it is not, in itself, any sign of true spirituality to observe fast days, so neither is it any sign of true spirituality to ignore them, especially when we have reached, and promised to observe them; but to turn a fast into a delightful concert, strawberry, and ice cream festival," (as was done last evening) naturally leads one to ask "Who are loyal to the principles of the Reformation?" OSLODNER.

THE HOSPITALS EXEMPTION. Sir,—I notice by your paper that at the annual meeting of the committee of the P. E. Island Hospital, a few evenings ago, a resolution carried disapproving of the act passed at the last session of the Provincial Legislature exempting the two hospitals from taxation.

On its face this looks a trifle peculiar. But the following facts will doubtless explain why the resolution was passed: Last year the Charlottetown Hospital premises were assessed at $12,000, and the amount of taxes was $120. The Prince Edward Island Hospital premises were assessed at $3,500, upon which the tax amounted to $35. The City Council recognizing the usefulness of these two institutions gave each an annual grant of $75, as a sort of offset to the taxes.

As a result of this arrangement the Prince Edward Island Hospital was in pocket the difference between $35 and $75, and the Charlottetown Hospital was out the difference between $75 and $120. Recognizing the unfairness of the treatment thus meted out, as well as the great value these institutions are to the Province, the Legislature very properly decided that it was only right and just that they should be exempt from taxation, and passed the measure which the liberal-minded people who sustain the Prince Edward Island Hospital take exception to.

After the bill was passed, the City Council withdrew the grants to the hospitals. At all events, there is nothing in this year's estimates for that purpose. This was the straw that broke the camel's back.

So long as the shoe pinched the Charlottetown Hospital people, there was no protest from the other institution. But when the Charlottetown Hospital was placed on a level with the Prince Edward Island Hospital in the matter of exemption from taxes, the protest came.
