ENGAGEMENT. Mr. and Mrs. Wilmut G. Read, Coleman P. E. I., announce the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Helen, to George P. Philip, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Philip, Kamloops, B. C. Marriage to take place at Kamloops, B. C., in the near future.

Personals

Mr. William Wright, student of Mr. Allison University, and Billy Calbeck, student at P. W. C., spent the weekend of Jan. 27th at their respective homes in Central Bedeque.

Miss Ruth Johnson, Central Bedeque, who has been on the staff of the R.C.A.F. at Trenton, Ont., for the last four months, has been transferred to the Summerside R.C.A.F. Training Centre.

The Messrs. Gordon and Darrell Lidstone, who have spent the past week in Summerside, due to the death of their father, the late Walter Lidstone, have now left the former to return to Mount Allison University where he is a student, and the latter to the R.C.A.F. Station, Trenton, Ontario.

Maritimer Enters Alberta Oil Hunt

EDMONTON, Jan. 29 (CP)—J. H. Loggie, a Maritimer, has forsaken winter residence in balmey Florida to engage in Alberta's oil hunt.

In 1946 Mr. Loggie retired as president of the family business, A. & R. Loggie Co. of Loggieville, N.B., at one time the largest canner of lobsters, clams and blueberries in the Maritimes. The town is named after his grandparents who founded the company.

Mr. Loggie later became engaged in the canning and freezing of blueberries in Maine and because this was seasonal he was able to spend his winters in Florida. But he made a visit to Edmonton in 1960 and became interested in the oil industry. After failing to find oil for himself he decided to purchase a drilling rig. Since then he has been more successful drilling for somebody else than for himself.

Mr. Loggie is enjoying himself in the oil business although he finds it more hectic than the retirement he had planned. He now heads Loggie Drilling Ltd. with headquarters in Edmonton.

Plan Dinner For Rt. Hon. Mr. Massey

LONDON, Jan. 29 (CP)—Peers of the realm, two knights, an archbishop and a high-ranking British cabinet minister will be among the guests tomorrow at a dinner for the governor-general-designate of Canada, Vincent Massey.

The dinner is being given by the Canadian high commissioner, L. Dana Wilgress, at his official residence in Upper Brook Street, Mayfair.

Two former governors-general of Canada, the Earl of Athlone and the Earl of Beaulieu, will attend along with Lords Salisbury, Jovitt, Swinton, Courtauld-Thomson, Camrose and Herbert, and Sir John Anderson and Sir Alan Lascelles.

Other guests include the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, Housing Minister Macmillan, Anglo-Canadian trade expert James Duncan, Dr. Sidney Smith, president of the University of Toronto, J.B. Bickersteth, former warden of Hart House, University of Toronto and two Canada House officials, Frederic Hudd and Campbell Moodie.

The governor-general-designate's sons, Lionel and Hart, will also attend. Massey went to Canada House in Trafalgar Square today to deal with correspondence. He posed for cameramen, but declined to comment for publication. A spokesman explained to reporters: "He has some papers to deal with and is not seeing anyone in particular. Mr. Massey doesn't wish to be interviewed before going to Canada. He is still a private citizen. He will take up his new appointment sometime early next year."

Profit Rink Wins Alberton 'Spiel'

At the Alberton Curling Club last night a team skipped by Jack Profit were winners of a seven-team double knockout schedule played over the past two weeks, defeating J. H. Myrick's team by a score of 10-5.

Teams were made up as follows—Jack Profit, skip, R.E. McDonald, mate, playing in place of George O'Connor, Herb Clark and Clayton Travers.

J.H. Myrick, skip, Lloyd Wilkie, mate, Verne Campbell, and W.C. Leavitt.

The Alberton curlers are planning on entertaining members of the Summerside Curling Club boys (Wednesday) if roads are satisfactory, with games scheduled for afternoon and evening.

Essential Steel Needs Being Met

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que., Jan. 29 (CP)—Despite temporary difficulties, all essential steel needs of North America are being provided for, George S. Rose, secretary of the American Iron and Steel Institute said tonight.

Addressing the Canadian Wholesale Hardware Association, he added: "I see no reason whatever why your Canadian steel needs will not be quite as adequately met this year as in the past."

At the present time, he commented, the distribution of steel is under control, "and it is extremely difficult, if not impossible, for a few men in government to determine what the real steel requirements of every fabricator are, and to make all allocations with complete fairness."

Mr. Rose estimated that American steel production in 1954 would be about 120,000,000 net tons a year, compared with 105,000,000 tons in 1953; and Canadian production would be about 5,000,000 tons, compared with a present 4,000,000.

Illustrating the size of North American steel production, Mr. Rose said that Britain last year produced around 17,000,000 net tons.

He estimated Russia's production at 34,000,000 tons, which the output of other countries in the Soviet bloc might bring to 42,000,000 tons. But if Russia overran Europe she would control some 100,000,000 tons.

The greatest link between Canada's huge resources and the American steel industry, he continued, is her iron ore.

"Until recently, when your Sleep Rock, Ont. area moved into production, Canada was not producing enough iron for its domestic needs. But soon, thanks to the enormous and wonderfully rich ores in the Labrador-Quebec region, U.S. mills will be getting millions of tons of ore from you annually."

Canada, he said, supplies other major raw materials for steel—especially nickel and lead, and there is demand in the United States for others if they could be supplied.

MAKES STERN BID

pay its own way by the end of the year. The Commonwealth partners have promised to cut trade losses with the outside world and step up production of both raw and finished materials.

Highlights Of Plan
Highlights of Britain's new austerity plan:

- 1. The new cut in imports and a previous cut of £350,000,000 announced Nov. 7 will reduce luxury items in diet such as canned hams, meat and fish, canned-fruit and vegetables, some fresh fruit and cakes. Consumers will get less clothing, furniture, carpets, toys.
- 2. To stimulate exports, the home market will get only 60,000 automobiles and 60,000 commercial vehicles, compared with 110,000 automobiles and 100,000 trucks last year.
- 3. Sharper restrictions are placed on installment buying of radio and television sets, electrical appliances and motorcycles.
- 4. The foreign spending allowance of British tourists is cut from £50 to £25.
- 5. Charges for medical prescriptions and fees for such things as surgical belts, hearing aids and wigs are expected to bring in about £7,500,000. This year's budget provided £398,000,000 to run the health service.
- 6. The number of government employees—who totalled 1,469,770 or 65 per cent of the country's civilian labor force in 1951—will be reduced by 10,000 in six months. Spending on public relations is to be cut by about £1,200,000 annually.
- 7. A sharp limit will be placed on the use of steel in building.
- 8. Tobacco imports will be cut by about £22,000,000.

The goal of the whole effort is to halt runaway drainage of the gold and dollar reserves of the sterling area, for which Britain is the banker.

The reserves sank more than $1,500,000,000 in the last half of 1951. They now stand at $2,335,000,000.

"We have become the largest debtor country in the world, whereas for generations we had been the largest creditor," Butler said.

"We must pay our own way. This is the vital question and there can be only one answer—we must succeed."

Stresses Need For Trained Personnel

HALIFAX, Jan. 29.—"More than ever before there is need today for specialized training of personnel in industry," J. R. Davies, of Moncton, training supervisor, Canadian National Telegraphs, said here today.

The training was more essential today, said Mr. Davies, due to the increasing number of young men and women attaining positions of greater responsibility than before.

In the depression years young persons were the largest group of unemployed, he said, but during the war and particularly since 1945 they have had the opportunity for rapid promotion.

"Another reason for the present rapid advancement of young men and women," said Mr. Davies, "is the increasing number of persons reaching retirement age and the few trained successors to replace them."

Mr. Davies, who is presently conducting a five-day instructional conference here, annually travels 10,000 miles throughout the Atlantic Region from Sydney, Yarmouth, New Glasgow, Truro, Charlottetown, Saint John, Fredericton, Moncton and Campbellton to Riviere du Loup on the supervisory training programme.

Let's Talk It Over

Some say the Summerside Town Council will have to face the fact that winter recreational facilities for youth in Summerside are alarmingly inadequate. If because of financial and supply difficulties, the situation cannot be remedied at present, it should at least be admitted, faced squarely, and a long-term plan formulated to look after it.

The Town Fathers have done an excellent job in providing summer recreational facilities for our boys and girls. We have applauded them and they have taken their bows. In this progressive age, however, no one can afford for long to lie wrapped in his laurels and act like little Jack Horner did after he pulled out the plum. There are other plums to dig for.

We are without an indoor hockey rink, while smaller towns and even villages are supplied with one. We have no gymnasium where boys and girls can meet in healthful activities. These are sad admissions for a town whose leading citizens are as progressive as you will find in towns much larger than ours.

Admittedly it is a matter for argument whether the town should build its own community rink, or whether it should be left to private enterprise. Some argue in favor of the community effort, and cite successful community projects in other towns to support their argument. Others disagree and also have arguments to support their stand.

In any case the Council members should be readers, either in a community effort, or in an attempt to interest private enterprise in the venture, and it must be said in all fairness that the Council has offered a generous financial contribution and other considerations to anyone willing to hazard the undertaking. It should not feel that its responsibility ends there however, because responsibility can never cease while failure to reach the desired end persists. Right now while it is extremely doubtful if we could get the necessary materials for the erection of a rink, it is the time to plan for the future.

A permanent committee consisting of Summerside citizens known for their initiative (we have scores of them here) could be appointed to work for satisfactory winter recreational facilities for youth and a Council member could act as liaison agent between the Council and the committee. In our Council we have Chairman in Electric Light Plant, Police, etc. Why couldn't we have a chairman of Youth Welfare? Maybe work done by this chairman would take away some of the work of the chairman of police.

COMMANDER ELLIOTT

Maritime Courses
He also stated it was hoped to hold another senior cadets leadership course this year as well as a Sea Cadet officers course, both in the Maritimes.

Several cruises on Canadian warships will be available for Sea Cadets this year including one to Great Britain and another from Vancouver to Halifax. In addition it is believed plans will be completed for shorter cruises from Eastern Canada ports.

Speaking of the Corps in general he said the number of Sea Cadets in Canada was up only slightly over that of last year, with approximately 6,000 enrolled. However, he felt that the quality of the cadets and their training were both definitely better. Cndr. Elliott stated flatly that his Maritime inspection tour had shown that the various corps had improved tremendously since his last inspection in 1950.

Large Turnout
A large turnout of Cadets was on hand for the inspection last night and their new white "flashies" stood out against the navy blue of their uniforms. The flashies have the words "Royal Canadian Sea Cadets" with a Maple Leaf emblem. The inspecting officer complimented the boys on their smartness and noted a great improvement in the Corps since his last visit. He mentioned the present shortage of uniforms, but told the boys it was expected this would be rectified in the near future.

"You can get much out of this," he told the boys on parade, "but it will be nothing more than you put into it. Your esprit de corps must be developed within yourselves." He said that he hoped they would retain their interest in the service and eventually join the reserve or the active force, and pointed out that last year alone 500 former Sea Cadets had joined the regular force.

Presenting Certificates
At the conclusion of his inspection he presented several of the cadets with certificates of proficiency qualifying them for Petty Officer or Able Cadet.

Present during the inspection and discussion were Lieut. John Smallwood, Sea Cadet commanding officer, Lieut. Lloyd Grant, First Officer, Lieut. Richard Hennessey, both of R.C.S.C. Kent, Capt. J. J. Connolly, Commodore Hibbard, Lieut. Commander Barber, Mr. J. Morris, president of the Navy League, and U.N.T.D. officers.

Carleton and Vicinity

—Mr. Frank Langille of Amherst, N.S., visited in Carleton on Thursday, Jan. 24th, guest of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Campbell.

Mr. Calvin Howatt of Carleton, who is employed in Charlottetown, spent Thursday night, Jan. 24th, at his home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Cheverie of Cape Traverse travelled by train to Charlottetown on Jan. 25th to see their baby daughter, who is a patient in the City Hospital.

Mrs. Phoebe Cheverie of Souris is at present spending a few days in Cape Traverse with her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Cheverie.

Mr. Allie Gallant of Carleton, who is employed by the C.N.R., is now working in Charlottetown and will remain there for the next few weeks.

Mrs. Gladys Gunning, who has been spending a couple of weeks in Carleton with her daughter, Mrs. John Quisley, returned to her home in Summerside on Saturday, Jan. 26th.

Egypt Eases Back To Quiet And Order Under Martial Law

CAIRO, Jan. 29 (AP)—Premier Aly Maher Pasha's new government kept a tight rein under martial law today and tried to ease Egypt back to order.

Five more bodies were recovered from the charred ruins of the Turf Club and Shepherd's Hotel, bringing to at least 67 the number killed by Saturday's torch-bearing mobs.

Two bodies were picked up in the Turf Club, where 11 died. So far nine Britons are reported to have been killed, only three of them identified. One of those identified is J. Macleod, Boyer, Canadian trade commissioner and a native of Victoria, B.C.

Business sources estimated Saturday's damage at more than $287,000,000 and said the Egyptian Government was among the losers because it now would be unable to collect claims for back taxes from many merchants whose properties were wiped out.

Flames still poured water on the smouldering ruins of Shepherd's Hotel, a landmark of Britain's stay in Egypt. The British and Belgian-owned company has not yet decided whether to rebuild.

Armed troops efficiently enforced a 9 p. m. to 6 a. m. curfew Monday and challenged anyone on the streets without a pass. Squads continued to patrol the streets.

Debris was still piled high in some places, but salvage and repair work was beginning.

Dispatches from the Suez Canal zone said there were obviously signs the British army of 50,000 men was ready to speed into Cairo should there be new rioting that threatened British lives and property.

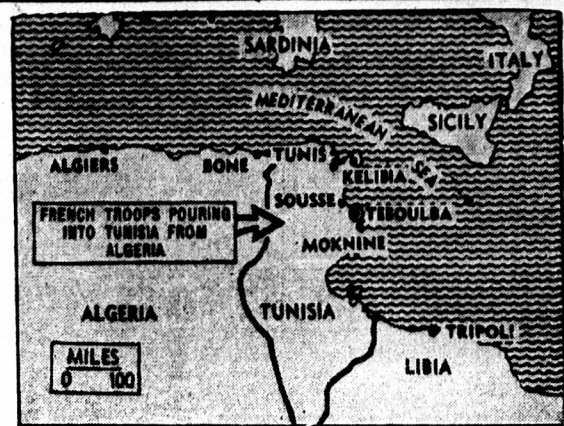

Navy Writes Finis To Demara Case

OTTAWA, Jan. 29 (CP)—The navy officially wrote finis today to the celebrated case of the American named Ferdinand Waldo Demara who posed as "Surgeon Lieutenant J.C. Cyr" and got away with it for months.

The official Canada Gazette, in publishing a list of officers recently listed "Surgeon Lieutenant J.C. Cyr" among them. His discharge was actually effected some time ago.

Demara is the man who got hold of a New Brunswick doctor's licence from the Canadian Medical Association, adopted the doctor's name, enlisted and went out to Korea to do notable medical deeds.

He was deported to the United States some weeks ago.

TUNISIAN CLASH—French troops continued to battle Arab nationalists in northeastern Tunisia and recaptured Teboula (circled), which had been seized by the Arabs. French Air Force fighter planes smashed a nationalist siege of the garrison at Kelibia, and heavy fighting was reported at the city of Moknine.

Alberta Building Big Defence Body To Counter Raids

By LORNE BRUCE
Canadian Press Staff Writer
EDMONTON, Jan. 29 (CP)—Alberta civil defence chiefs view the oil province as a potential "bowling alley" for hostile aircraft in the event of a third world war.

Raiding planes skimming the top of the world might sweep down from the north across Alberta on their way to the United States industrial centres, and Edmonton, with its oil refineries and new chemical and ore-processing plants, would make a sizable target.

"Edmonton, as Canada's oil centre and air base, could well be a primary target," say civil defence advertisements calling for recruits.

To meet this threat, Alberta is building up a civil defence organization which officials hope soon will comprise some 25,000 workers, or between two and three per cent of the province's population.

Nearing completion is a self-contained headquarters, built of heavily reinforced concrete on Edmonton's outskirts. It will be the province's nerve centre in the event of enemy attack.

In addition to paying for the $50,000 headquarters building, the Alberta Government is shouldering two-thirds of the cost of standardizing the province's fire-fighting equipment, a job expected to be completed in June. It is also financing a program to put specially-trained leaders in each municipal district.

"Gambling House" AT CAPITOL
—With Victor Mature, Terry Moore and William Bendix in the stellar roles, RKO Radio's melodramatic "Gambling House" presents the vivid story of a man's awakening to what Americanism means.

Mature is cast as a foreign-born gambler. Wounded during an affair at a floating crap game in which a man is killed, Mature agrees to take the rap for the real killer, Bendix, a big-time underworld character, who promises him fifty thousand dollars for the favour.

Mature wins acquittal on a self-defense plea, but the Immigration Service, learning that he has never become a citizen, picks him up for deportation, whereupon Bendix refuses to pay him off. While the deportation case is pending, Mature meets Miss Moore, a social-service worker helping immigrants get located, and begins to realize what the privilege of being an American means to himself.

How Mature resolves his problems brings a stirring climax to the unusual film. Zachary C. Charles, Basil Ruyssdael, Donald Randolph and Damian O'Flynn, Cud Moore, Ann Doran, Eleanor Aulley and Gloria Winters also appear in the production by Warren Duff, Ted Tetzlaff directed. Marvin Borowsky and Allen Rivkin wrote the screenplay from the story by Edwin Gelsey.

Now a civilian, he is using his 30 years' experience in Canada's armed forces to develop a comprehensive plan to keep the province organized from the cabinet down to municipal committees. A cabinet committee is advised by the commanding officers of the army, navy, air force and R.C.M.P. in the province.

That Alberta has made fair progress in preparedness is indicated by the word left by Major Gen. F. F. Worthington, Federal civil defence co-ordinator, after he had looked over the set-up.

General Worthington told Premier E. C. Manning the Alberta organization is "one of the best in Canada."

"The secret of our success," says Municipal Affairs Minister C. E. Ferhart, head of the cabinet civil defence committee, "is that the entire administration is on a voluntary basis except for a few provincial government employees."

"You couldn't hire the type of men we have heading our committees."
