Soviet Union Proposes Plan To Make Moon International

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The Soviet Union has called for an international treaty making the moon and other celestial bodies international and banning their use for military purposes.

The proposal, made in a letter from Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, was similar to one made by U.S. President Johnson earlier this month.

Specifically, Gromyko asked that the question of drafting the proposed treaty be placed on the agenda of the 21st session of the UN General Assembly, which opens Sept. 20.

The Soviet move was disclosed by Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko at a press conference. Fedorenko said he handed the Gromyko letter to UN Secretary-General U Thant Monday.

The ambassador said the Soviet Union had been seeking a treaty since 1958 to lay down international regulations that would prevent individual countries from exploiting the moon and other celestial bodies.

Asked whether the latest move has any relationship to Johnson's proposal May 7, Fedorenko said the U.S. president's initiative would be viewed within the context of the continuing discussion which, he said, started with the first Soviet move.

Parking Problem Discussed

SUMMERSIDE — The monthly meeting of the Summerside Board of Trade held here last night discussed the parking problem at the corner of Central and Church Street here.

George Meikle, chairman of civic affairs pointed out to the board members that this was a 15 minute parking area for the convenience of those using the post office and that a number of people were overparking in that area.

The president of the board asked M. P. Meikle to bring this matter up with the town police so that offenders in the future would be prosecuted.

C. Ross MacKenzie, chairman of the tourist bureau now under construction at Wilnot reported that the building was progressing favorably. He stated that a meeting of the tourist committee will be held on Friday at which time a report on the progress of the building is expected from the contractors.

Bernard McCabe, board of trade secretary mentioned that he received a bill of $300 from the town office requesting help in maintaining Santa Claus Lane. It was suggested that the secretary write a letter to the town office including a copy of a resolution that was passed some time ago to the effect that this matter be left in the hands of the retail merchants of the town.

Clinic Canvass Meets Response

F.O.B.A. Roberts, co-ordinator for the Red Cross blood donor clinic which is to be held in the recreation centre at the Canadian Forces Base, Summerside, on Wednesday, June 8th, reported last evening that the canvass being conducted by members of his committee for at least 240 donors is meeting with good response.

The chairman, who also headed the committee for last fall's clinic, stated that the extended clinic hours which will run from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and from 2:30 in the afternoon should prove convenient for all and avoid any waiting.

Wednesday evening's clinic will take place at the Royal Canadian Legion Home in Tignish under the chairmanship of J. Arthur DesRoches who has headed this committee for the past few years and achieved outstanding success.

Mr. DesRoches said he is confident that the residents of Tignish and the surrounding area realize the vital importance of the blood transfusion service and will again exceed the 150 objective which has been set for the clinic which is in progress between 8 and 10 p.m.

JAILED FOR KILLING — TORONTO (CP) — Roland Trepanier, 32, was sentenced Wednesday to 15 years in prison on a charge of manslaughter in the March 4 killing of Mrs. Theresa Beaudry, 45, with whom he had been living for 15 years. Evidence at the trial was that Trepanier, a truck driver and father of seven, bought a gun and drank all day before shooting Mrs. Beaudry during a violent quarrel. He then apparently turned the gun on himself, critically wounding himself.

FEDERAL LABOR

debate was the labor department's 1966-67 spending estimates.

Mr. Douglas first moved adjournment of regular business for a special debate on the strike.

The motion was withdrawn when the government offered to make the estimates the day's business as the alternative avenue to immediate debate.

Mr. Nicholson declined to open the debate with a statement on the strike, saying he did not feel he should speak while negotiations were progressing in a little more relaxed fashion.

QUOTED OUT OF CONTEXT

He also said his statements so far have been taken out of context and he used complaints from Gerard Tremblay, spokesman for Atlantic region longshoremen, as an example.

Mr. Nicholson also was criticized for bringing up compulsory arbitration and labor courts as a possible solution to disputes affecting the national interest.

This was a policy of despair, Mr. Douglas said.

Mr. Nicholson protested that he was answering a question when he mentioned compulsory arbitration and he offered it for Commons consideration.

During the question period, Trade Minister Winters told R. G. L. Fournier (PC-Royal) that the government is doing its best to keep goods and supplies moving to the site of the world fair, now under construction at Montreal. However, Expo 67 was suffering, like the rest of the economy, from the strike.

GOVERNMENT INACTIVE

Mr. Diefenbaker said the government has been inactive and uninformative since the strike began more than three weeks ago at Montreal, Trois-Rivieres and Quebec.

The Opposition leader had the House chiding with laughter as he said one Quebec association evidently is under the impression a Conservative government still is in office.

He read a telegram from the president of the organization of Independent Millers of Quebec, saying millers could not get grain from ships because stevedores blocked their way. The telegram urged Mr. Diefenbaker to "take your responsibilities."

Mr. Diefenbaker said this suggested the impact the Liberal government has had in the last three years.

Mr. Diefenbaker wondered why Immigration Minister Marchand, a former labor leader, and Health Minister MacEachen, former labor minister, had not been part of the government team that met representatives of both sides in the dispute last weekend.

Instead, Industry Minister Drury and John Turner, minister without portfolio who had no experience in labor matters but represented Montreal ridings, had been on the team.

The situation was an indication of the nonchalance, that easy-going uncertainty on the part of the government.

Gassius Cassius Clay Returns From Cairo Trip

NEW YORK (AP) — A tired and subdued Cassius Clay returned by plane from Cairo Wednesday and denied that he had said he was coming home "to beat the draft."

"I didn't say anything like that," said Clay on his arrival when asked about a story from Cairo May 25 quoting him to that effect.

"That's just some mad, angry reporter trying to get something started."

"It would be ignorant to make a statement like that. It would be foolish to say anything like that."

The heavyweight champion however, declined to answer questions on his draft status and whether he was a conscientious objector.

Clay is appealing his reclassification to 1-A, which makes him subject to military call-up.

VISITED UAR

He visited the United Arab Republic after he stopped Britain's Henry Cooper in the sixth round of a title fight at London May 21.

Clay, who professes his Muslim name of Muhammad Ali, had a 40-minute talk Tuesday with President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Asked here about his patriotism and whether he was proud to be an American, Clay replied: "I'm not saying anything about that. That's a tough question."

He added that no matter what he said it might be misunderstood, so he preferred to remain silent.

He repeated that he was ready to defend his title against West Germany's Karl Mildenberger. He also said that if fi-

The Commons debated the St. Lawrence ports longshoremen's strike during consideration of labor department spending estimates.

New Democrat Leader Douglas said Labor Minister Nicholson had presented the management side of the dispute to the Commons.

He and Opposition Leader Diefenbaker called for a full statement by the minister about the strike.

Mr. Diefenbaker served notice that he will seek an emergency debate on when and how an RCMP file on Arthur Vachon, president of the Quebec Provincial Police Association, got into the hands of the Quebec government.

Prime Minister Pearson said there has been no change in the policy that such files are available only to authorized federal officials.

Four senators over age 75 announced their retirements from the Senate.
