Big Battle Looms

The second leg of the Island's triple crown of racing will be history by Tuesday of next week.

Old Home Week opon Monday night at Charlottetown Driving Park and The Evening Patriot Invitational is the stellar attraction.

The Charlottetown-owned pacers, June Byrd and Hi Jay, are among the six entries. The others are McSampson, Tammany Hall, Bob Brook and Lord Adios.

One of the expected starters and a most popular pacer, Dee's Boy will not go in this second leg. The big roan is being rested at Myron MacArthur's stables in Kensington but will definitely be a starter in The Gold Cup and Saucer classic on Friday night of Fair Week.

Naturally there is dissappointmont at Dee's Boy not going Monday. The great feuds he and Bob Brook and June Byrd have staged all season were expected to be renewed on Monday here.

However, the Dartmouth horse has had a rugged season and his owners figured the big fellow was entitled to a rest. We can't argue with that because Dee's Boy followed a pretty stiff schedule since the 1962 campaign got underway.

The Big Two

BUT you can expect a battle royal with these half dozen speedsters.

That great four-year-old, Bob Brook, and Greenbrier Farms' June Byrd, are by now old enemies. The mare was 1-1 at Charlottetown July 7 when Bob was 2-2. At Sydney Bob Brook took the first dash of The Dosco pace and June Byrd was 4-1. At Halifax June Byrd chased Dee's Boy home in the first dash in 2.03:1 and Bob was photoed out in the second in a 2.03:4 mile.

Bob and June Byrd will have plenty of backers at the mutuels Monday. Each of these pacers has shown great staying power and they'll both be gunning for the lion's share of the $2500 purse Monday night.

Don't Sell Him Short

AS we said yesterday, don't sell Bill Boyles' Hi Jay short.

This has been the first decent rest Hi Jay has had since coming to the Maritimes. His previous feats indicate that he has the license to beat any of the others home. Perhaps Monday night will see the seven-year-old gelding hit his stride down here in the Maritimes.

Of course, Tammany Hall, Lord Adios and McSampson will be outsiders in the betting but outsiders have the nasty habit of coming home in front every now and then. Monday night could be one of these times.

Drivers have a $300 enticement when they go out there Monday night. That's the reward offered by The Provincial Exhibition Association to the driver who can rein his pacer home in a mile better than Mighty Lee's 2.03:4, the present record. It could very well topple in this second leg of the triple crown and, failing this, then Friday could become the record-shattering night.

Things will really start with a bang on Monday.

A Champ Talks

CANADIAN Open golf champion, Ted Kroll, thinks this country's greatest golf attraction will have to offer bigger purses if they want to attract the game's top pros.

Kroll received $4300 for winning The Canadian Open last month and he doesn't want anybody to think he is trying to belittle this country's major tourney. "But" he continues "the boys who play on the tour regularly have to take an occasional rest. It is almost impossible to play every week. Obviously they are going to skip a tournament when they can best afford it."

The present champion continued: "When the schedule includes a $100,000 tournament like the Thunderbird, the boys won't pass it up to play in a $30,000 tournament like The Canadian Open."

Kroll concludes that few players are interested in prestige but rather they are on the tournament circuit in order to make a decent living.

And is sounds logical.

Congratulations

A VACATIONER from Roxboro, Quebec, John Boivin scored a hole in one on the 12th at Belvedere Course yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Boivin was playing at the time with Louis Crete, Montreal, who is also vacationing in this province.

Both Mr. Boivin and Mr. Crete are graduates of St. Dunstan's University and are married to former Charlottetown girls. Mrs. Boivin is the former Claire MacDonald and Mrs. Crete is the former Kathleen Noonan.

Mr. Boivin was delighted with his big moment yesterday as he joined a select group who have accomplished such a feat at the local golf course.

Racing Card Goes At CDP Tonight

Another great nine-dash harness racing program is scheduled for Charlottetown Driving Park tonight.

There should be a honey of a battle waged in dashes four and eight where Leah's Girl has drawn the rail. Fighting it out with The Girl will be Sky Prince, Falcourt Heromine, Doctor F.C., Torrid Waters and Gay Laird. Both these dashes certainly should provide spectators with excitement in large quantities.

Races five and nine find seven horses ready for the wire. In these clashes Stalag Hanover will be going in competition for the first time this season. Stalag has drawn the number five spot in the opening dash and patrons will be expecting some of the speed to show that Stalag is famous for. Walter Downe has the rail with Janet M. The others going are Arturo Hanover, Jolly Abb, Irv Averill, Stalag Hanover, Ted Genesee and Concrete King.

Five other dashes round out the big program that looks like a real crowd pleaser.

Action starts at 8 o'clock sharp.

Shamrocks Stay Alive; Overpower Pistons 3-1

Don't count those BIS Shamrocks out yet!

These Vern Blanchard -coached Irishmen went out to the Old Diamond last evening trailing 3-1 in their best of seven semi-final series with Canadian Tire Pistons.

With elimination facing them the Shamrocks came through with a 5-3 victory and the opportunity to continue their playdown battle against Danny McCormack's Pistons.

Once again veteran Joe Thistle was called upon to handle the BIS mound chores. Thistle tossed a 7-hitter at the losers and walked three. He also sent three down via the strikeout route.

Lloyd 'Teet' Gregory toiled for the Pistons and he was tagged for a total of 10 hits over the seven- inning route. Gregory walked none and fanned one.

The first two batters for the winners in the first inning picked up hits and eventually scored. Second sacker Charlie Weatherbie led off with a single followed by a double by Gene Bradley. Johnny Whalen drove in one run with a long fly to centrefield and Lester Taylor brought in the second run with another long ball to the outer pastures.

Three straight singles coupled with a pair of errors accounted for two more Irish runs in the third inning. They counted their final run in the fourth when Roy McGonnell poked a double and Gene Bradley a long hit that went for three bases.

The Pistons were trailing 4-0 going into the top of the fourth but singles by Paddy Shepherd and Charlie Smith, an error and a sacrifice bunt enabled them to pick up two runs.

Their final run came in the top of the seventh. They had the tying run on base with two out but third sacker Apps Arsenault ended the game with an infield popup.

BIS shortstop Gene Bradley headed all stickers with a perfect 3-for-3. Lester Taylor was 2-for-2 and MacConnell 2-for-3.

Pitcher Teet Gregory was tops for the losers with two singles in three trips.

Ralph Pineau called the balls and strikes for last evening's contest.

McSampson Draws Rail

The four-year pacer from Saint John, McSampson, has drawn the rail position for The Evening Patriot Invitational which goes Monday night, August 13 at Charlottetown Driving Park for a purse of $2500.

This second leg of Prince Edward Island's triple crown of racing has attracted wide spread interest and many thousands are expected to be on hand Monday night when the fast ones get the word.

Here are the other starters with their positions: 2 —Tammany Hall; 3 — Hi Jay; 4 — Lord Adios; 5 — June Byrd; 6 — Bob Brook.

Save Easies Square Series

SUMMERSIDE — Gaudet's Save-Easies evened up their best-of-five semi-final series in the Prince County Softball League at one game apiece last night, downing MacKenzies by the score of 5-3. MacKenzies protested the game on the grounds that Save-Easies were using two ineligible players, Doug Tucker and Irv Walsh.

MacKenzies were leading the game 3-1 after four innings of play, but two back- to- back home runs by John Poirier and Gord Wilkinson tied the game in the fifth, and a walk to Mert Price, and the third circuit smash, this time by the veteran Mort Thomas, put the Save-Easies two ahead. MacKenzies were were retired in order in the top of the seventh.

Tucker pitched for Save-Easies and gave up five hits, never more than one in any inning. He walked two and both were converted into runs.

Harold Martin was on the slab for MacKenzies and gave up 6 hits, 3 of them homers. He walked four, two of these later scoring. Dune Wheeler and Doug Allen hit doubles for MacKenzies.

Pontiacs Even Series At 1-All

SUMMERSIDE — The A. E. MacLennan - Pontiacs evened their best-of-three semi-final series with Legion Juniors in the play- offs of the Summerside Town Baseball League at Queen Elizabeth Park last evening, defeating the Juniors 3-2 in an extra inning.

Pete Green singled to start the eighth frame Arch Cook reached first on a fielding error at second, and Greg Deighan sidgled to score Green with the winning run.

The game was protested, the Legionaires claiming George McNeill had been interfered with by runner Green on Cook's grounder to the second stacker.

Paul MacWilliams pitched for the Legion and Ed McCue for Pontiacs.

Catcher Pete Green's map to first after a strikeout to catch Wayne Matheson off base was the best defensive play of the game.

HUNTER'S CORNER

No Merit To Suggestion Is Claim Of Columnist

Within the past ten days I have received suggestions from two different trout fishermen, both designed with a view of improving trout fishing in the North River Causeway, that this productive trouting water should be drained long enough to kill off the entire natural plant life that, according to their way of reasoning, is interfering with their trout fishing. Heavy weight trout are lost on account of their lines becoming entangled in the under water vegetation. Once a heavyweight trout has sufficient leverage on which to exert pressure it makes short shrift of the leader.

To this columnist's way of reasoning they couldn't dream up a better way scuttling their sport with trout in this water if they tried. These natural water plant growths are made to order living quarters for the smaller life in such waters. Without such shelter and protection shrimp, gudgeons, water beetles, pin fish, leeches, etc., would have no breeding or living quarters. Here is a case in point: Before the eel grass died in the early thirties in the East River, or as it is better known under Hillsboro, seatrout fishing was supreme. Immense schools of prime sea trout offered top sport for scores of anglers at the Blockhouse Point and similar places at the Harbours mouth. The Hillsboro teemed with fighting trout and offered exciting sport off the wharves, creek mouths and natural sand spits. With the passing of the eel grass trout fishing in the Hillsboro died a natural death. Shrimp were their main dish in the Hillsboro. Without the eel grass protection they moved out to sea and the trout followed. With the return of the eel grass the harbour mouth is again coming into its own.

POINT OVERLOOKED

Another point many anglers have overlooked: When the North River was flooded permanently there was top trouting in its waters the first year. After that the trout appeared sickly and off flavour. As one angler put it: "They smelled like marsh mud living in the past". Fishery officials stated that this condition was due to the decaying marsh vegetation exuding noxious gasses and it would be several years before the water would return to normal and once again suitable to sustain healthy trout. I have been inquiring this season about the table qualities of the North River trout and replies have all been favourable. There was just the odd off colour trout reported last season and this condition could have been caused by being exposed to the sun. Once trout have been in the sun till its skin becomes dry and brittle a pan full of fresh chips gathered at the chopping block are just as palatable. A few years ago I watched big trout under Moore's Bridge at Mount Stewart that were so dopey they didn't care whether they lived or died. In fact I think some of them did die. The trout I watched under this same bridge this week were alert with well rounded sides and finning as trout should fin when they are in the pink of condition.

Many of the top trout dams have been disappointing this season. In dams where the water is deep and bold between their banks and inclined toward the narrow side trout fishing is reported normal but run to the small side... 7 to 9 inches. A dam that has expanses of flags and natural growth on its borders is chock full of trout food. I understand that Wisner's, a natural trout dam, is letting the boys down this season and that Whitlock's is close to being in the same category. There is an abundance of fresh, cold water this summer and trout can cruise into the shallows at will without becoming nauseated by the tepid water.. and that's where their natural food is found.

CRIMPS STYLE

I know of a number of dams where heavy underwater growth interferes with angling for trout and also crimps ones style of casting. It's better to have half a loaf than having no bread at all. Nature is the master planner. Ofttimes mere man tried to improve on her set up. For instance we had a peak population of pheasants a few years ago with a bag limit of 8 per day... either cocks or hens, and with no sign they suffered in the reproduction scheme. A few weren't satisfied and wanted to increase a peak population that already existed. Now we have none or next to none at all. Mother Nature did not see fit to populate Australia with rabbits and yet mere man decided to correct this supposed error on her part and introduced rabbits to this rabbitless continent. What an error? And with no hope that it ever will be corrected and the cost is staggering... millions upon millions of pounds annually and the rabbits could win yet. My advice to anglers to put up with the weed growth. Better have weeds and lots of trout, although one has to work for them at times, than no weeds and next to no trout. There's a world of difference in the table qualities of stall fed trout and trout that are just subsisting on fare that is not up to standard.

$744 Double Highlights Driving Park Race Card

A daily double which paid a lone ticket holder the handsome sum of $744 featured last night's nine dash race program at the Charlottetown Driving Park. The winning combination was Babe Clegg and Perfect Hal in the first and second dashes.

This was only one of many terrific pays on the card. A show ticket on Mr. Jollscott paid $26.10 for the best single pay of the night.

There were two double dash winners on the card. Lizzie Clegg, a 5- year- old chestnut mare owned by Ray Stewart of Murray River, swept both dashes of a B pace, and Pert Darnley of the Simmac Syndicate Stables of Summerside took both heats of an AA and A pace.

Santiago and Amos Frost shared honors in a feature junior free-for-all and both horses had identical summaries. Bill Boyles' Amos Frost took the first dash in 2.08-4, the fastest time of the night with Santiago emerging runner-up. The Stanley Mayhew - owned Santiago came home the winner in the second dash in 2.09.

Other winners on the card were Babe Clegg and Vera Signal. Babe Clegg took a new mark of 2.18-3 in the curtain raiser.

SUFFERED INJURIES

Two horses suffered injuries in an accident in the sixth race. Windy June, with Emmett Bernard at the reins, was leading the field when she fell and Lucky Lark, handled by Joe Arsenault, ran into the fallen horse. It wasn't known at time of writing how seriously the horses were injured. Emmett Bernard drove again after the accident but immediately following the completion of the card both Arsenault and Bernard went for x-rays.

Bernard drove Pert Darnley to his double victory and after the second dash G. H. Buntain, secretary- treasurer of the Exhibition Ass'n, presented a cooler donated by Crockett and Storey Ltd. to driver Bernard.

Here are the other double pays on the card: — Second double, $24.70, quinella $18.40; exactor $15.00.

Enman's Drug Tops B Of C

SUMMERSIDE — Enman's Drug downed Bank of Commerce by the score of 16-7 in Social League softball play-offs last evening. Jim Fairley went the route for Enman's as did Gerald MacFarlane for the money men.

For Enman's Bill Ronan was the leading batter with 4 hits in 5 trips. For the losers Howard Court and Clayton Ward each had 3 for 4.

Malcolm MacFarlane made two nice catches in centrefield for the Bank of Commerce, and Don MacVicar made a smart catch at short stop. Ken Matheson made the catch of the game at second for Enman's.

Enman's Drug now leads the best-of-five semi-final series two games to nil.

Midgets Set For Action

Tracadie and Charlottetown Abbies clash this evening at 6.30 in Memorial Field in their first game of a best-of-three playoff series.
