Saint John To Play Saints In Hoop Tilt Here Saturday

The Saint Dunstan's basketball team, with four wins already to their credit, move into higher competition when they play host to the powerful Saint John Atlantics in an exhibition tilt in the college gymnasium Saturday night. Saint John has a power packed squad as evidenced when one considers that in their last encounter with S. D. U. the Atlantics came out on the long end of a 71-51 score. This loss to Saint John was one of four which last year's colorful N.B.-P.E. I. champions suffered so it is very probable that Saturday night's affair will provide spectators with plenty of thrills.

Playing coach Gus Dorais who has already distinguished himself on the varsity football team during the fall, will be minus several of last year's players for this season's team. Missing are John Taylor, John B. Finser and Gerald Lawlor. Filling these vacancies will be Bill Farmer and John Kelly, who played on last year's second team as well as Mike Saiti, a freshman, who will be making his debut Saturday night. The regular players from last year's team are John Reardon, last year's playing coach; Bob Mooney, Danny Shea and Frank Slowey. Reardon needs no introduction to basketball fans since his shooting ability during the past four years has been sensational. Irish Bob Mooney, the bespectacled guard from Concord, N. H., can be expected to come through with his brilliant long set-shots while playing a steady defensive game. Slowey and Shea, playing their second year on the team will be on the first line and should be very effective around the basket with a years experience behind them. Dorais, recovering from his football wounds, is a doubtful starter, but should he feel fit to don his uniform then fans can expect a dazzling performance.

The game Saturday will be one of two exhibition tilts the Saints will play before entering intercollegiate competition against the University of New Brunswick on January 29th. Plans are being finalized to bring a team from Stadacona over to the college next week.

In intercollegiate competition this year the Red & White squad play a total of four games against U.N.B. and Mount Allison. The winner will then play off with the Nova Scotia winner for the Maritime crown. Saint Dunstan's has been in the finals the last two years and barely lost out to Saint Francis Xavier both years. Saturday's battle should give us an idea of the Saint's chances to take honors this year.

Jackie Robinson Signs His 1955 Brooklyn Contract

BROOKLYN (AP)—Jackie Robinson signed his 1955 Brooklyn contract Thursday after a brief conference with Dodger vice-president E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi.

The brilliant Negro player, reported ready to stage a long hold-out campaign against a maximum 25-per-cent cut from his $40,000 of last year, paid a surprise visit to the Dodger office Thursday morning and agreed to terms after a 15-minute talk with Bavasi.

No terms were announced but it was believed Robinson agreed to accept a slight cut, probably $2,500. This would make his salary $37,500.

Neither the Dodger front office nor Robinson would disclose the figures but Jackie said he was "well satisfied."

PLAGUED BY INJURIES

Although he batted more than 300 for the sixth consecutive season in 1954, Robinson did not have one of his better years. Plagued by injuries on and off throughout the season, the 36-year-old Robinson played only 124 games, several of them only in pinch hit roles. His batting average was an impressive .311, although his home run total dropped to 15 and his runs batted in total skidded to 59.

White Sox Sign Seven Players

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago White Sox had seven players agree to terms during the past 24 hours, raising to 25 the total in the fold for the coming season. Three third basemen, George Kell, Bill Serena and Joe Kirrene, signed today. Second baseman Nellie Fox, first baseman Walt Dropo and outfielders Willard Marshall and Ed McGhee signed Wednesday.

Olympic Champ Involved In Hot Dispute On Status

NEW YORK (AP)—The Rev. Robert Richards, Olympic pole-vault champion, found himself in the middle of a controversial question on amateurism Thursday after a surprise appearance on a television program, on which he received keys for a new car and various other gifts.

The affair was somewhat similar to the rubarbs of recent years over the presentation of a car to skating champion Barbara Ann Scott and the appearance on a commercial TV show of four-minute miler Roger Bannister.

Richards was the central figure on the TV program "This Is Your Life" Wednesday night. At the end he was given the keys to a new car, a motion-picture camera and projector, and other gifts. The sponsor also announced a $1,500 donation to the Olympic fund.

MUST RETURN CAR

Dan Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the AAU, said Thursday that Richards probably will have to return the car to retain his amateur standing.

"It must be assumed that Richards received the award because of his prominence as an athlete and not because of his preaching. If that is so, he'll have to return the car," Ferris said.

Richards did not actually receive the car after the program but was to get it later from Chicago. He did receive a set of mock car keys. A spokesman for the pro-

Olson Receives Plaque At Boxing Writer's Dinner

NEW YORK (AP)—Middleweight champion Carl (Bobo) Olson received the Edward J. Neil memorial plaque as "Fighter of the Year" for 1954 Thursday night at the annual dinner of the New York Boxing Writers Association.

The Neil award, named in memory of the former Associated Press boxing writer who was killed while covering the civil war in Spain, was presented by Nat Fleischer, association president.

James J. Braddock, former heavyweight king who has retained an interest in the sport by working with amateur boxers, accepted the James J. Walker memorial plaque for "long and meritorious service" from James A. Farley, former postmaster-general and former chairman of the New York state athletic commission. Frankie Ryff, 22-year-old unbeaten New York lightweight was presented with the "Rookie of the Year" award by Murray Rose Associated Press sports writer.

Special auxiliary awards were made to Tony Canzone, former featherweight and lightweight boxer; Charles Goldman, veteran trainer; and Matt Reilly, former amateur boxer who acted as an aide to Lester Bromberg of the New York World-Telegram and Sun and producer of the annual writers' show. Al Buck of the New York Post presented the awards.

LITTLE SPORT

For the last month or more the main topic concerning goal scoring has been in the regard to the 400th goal of Maurice "The Rocket" Richard, the great right-winger of the National Hockey League Montreal Canadiens, who is considered the greatest hockey player ever. Now that the great goal is history it gives us a little time to consider some other great scorers and their star-spangled careers. Yesterday as we sat at our desk, our line of thought wandered back to the night of February 13, 1953, a night in which the Charlottetown Islanders were defeating the Halifax Atlantics 3-2. The Islanders took a 2-0 lead at 17:24 of the first period. About thirty seconds after the goal was scored the public address system in the Forum blared out the word to more than 2500 home-town fans that a Charlottetown native, Roy "Buck" Whitlock had just tipped George MacLennan's slap-shot by goalie Roy McMeekin for the 300th goal of his senior hockey career. Yes, that was a big night for the stocky centerman of the Islanders.

At that time Buck was playing his 7th season and was in his 30th year. Many fans earnestly thought that this was the climax in the great center's career. Now it is two years later in 1955 and Buck is leading the ACHSL scoring parade and is still as dangerous as ever. Last year he played only one third of the regular schedule and racked up a total of 114 points to capture third spot in the final statistics. Fans now can start looking for a new climax in Buck's career because the Islander's smoothie needs only fifteen more goals to equal Richard's brilliant efforts.

Monday night Buck banged in the 385th goal of his senior hockey career
