

first. To Mr. Bayfield: I saw James Offer and Owen McCloskey. Don't know which is to blame. I think McCloskey was right in taking a revolver from Offer if he saw him with it on the ground. Never carried a revolver. When I saw McCloskey throwing stones he was in front of Mrs. Offer's door. Will not swear positively the stones McCloskey fired struck the building. Cannot swear I saw any Protestant rioters.

DAVID STEWART SWORN—I am an Orangeman. I was at the Tea party. I went down in the morning. There was quite a crowd on the wharf. Nothing happened from the time we left the wharf till we arrived at the Lodge. I heard some one saying "There is a row." Looked out and saw a great bustle in the street. I went down and recognized the witness McKenzie. Caught hold of him by the collar. He was bleeding from the head. He wanted to get back through the crowd. I backed him across the street and got him on the platform. I saw then a crowd around Mr. McLean—suppose there was 10 or 12 in the crowd. At this time there were a lot of stones thrown against the building. Moved along to the gangway. There was a pistol report just behind. Could not find who fired the shot. Turned round and recognized P. Shea in the gangway. Saw a person run and strike Charles Molyneux in the face. At that time the row was getting bad, and I moved down to Terlizick's corner. I saw one man firing stones at Mr. Hooper in the wagon. He was Thornton To Mr. McLean: I am Deputy Grand Master of the Orange Lodge. I was at the tail of the procession. I entered the room first. I was not excited. McKenzie was the only one I saw at the time any way hurt. I cannot say whether McKinnon struck Sweeney first or returned Sweeney's blow. I saw no revolvers on the steamer. I saw no revolver in the hand of any Orangemen in the Lodge or out of it. I had no revolver myself. I am pretty sure Shea did not fire the revolver.

CHAS. STANLEY SWORN—To Mr. Hazard: I am not an Orangeman. Was standing in front of F. H. Campbell's when the procession entered the Hall. Before the procession entered the Hall I heard the report of a gun. Saw smoke at Harris's tin shop. Started to go home, but did not go far till the row commenced. Went in to the house and looked out of the up stairs window all the time and saw what was going on. To Mr. Bayfield: Cannot identify any person as throwing stones. There was no row at all till the Orangemen went into the Hall. Would not swear which way the gun was fired. The report came from the gangway.

SENATOR HAVILAND SWORN—To Mr. Hazard: When I got to Apothecaries Hall at 8.30 in the evening, and had walked to the tank on the Square, I heard the sound of revolvers from the side Dr. Jenkins' lives on. I looked towards the Hall; saw smoke rising into the air. After a little while, there was a second edition of reports. Then stones were fired; went up and heard the respectable citizens asking for the Mayor and Stipendiary Magistrate to stop the row. People asked me to use all my endeavours to quell the row. I ordered the Orangemen to stop firing those revolvers, which they did. After this a rally of stones went against the building. I reproved the crowd for it, and told them to stop. They said they would if the flag was lowered. I said it had a legal right to fly. I could not order it down. I identify Patrick McKenna as the person who fired a stone at him, and told me that he would polish me if I would not clear out. I saw the same man throwing stones at different times at the Orange Hall. I saw from 15 to 20 run out of the crowd and fire at the Orange Hall. Should think there were actually engaged in the scrimmage 50 or 60. It was as risky a row as ever I was in. I went into the row as a peacemaker. I do not think the marshal or the police could by themselves quell the row. To Mr. McLean—I did not see a man raise his hand in the crowd and fire towards the Orange Hall. I saw no revolvers fired from the crowd. I am not an Orangeman. I think at the time the magistrate came it would require a force of 60 men to quell the row. I think the row disgraced.

ROBERT DIAMOND SWORN.—To Mr. Hazard: I am not an Orangeman. I was on opposite side of the street when procession went into Hall. While I was standing Martin Carroll came up and said, you "damn Orange" and struck me in the face. He walked off the platform. He picked up a stone and fired it at the Lodge window. I did not see it strike, but I heard the glass rattling down. He said come on, let us go into it. And Thornton went with him. They fired stones, I saw them both pitching stones. There were a great many of those pitching. I could not identify any of those except the men named. As I was about leaving before Quirk's I heard a gun discharged in the gangway. This was after the first shot was fired. I saw smoke in the gangway. To Mr. Bayfield: I never fired a stone at any person. I believe every Protestant man ought to become an Orangeman. I saw the first shot fired. I was standing alongside Mr. Quirk's. It made too much noise for a pistol. I was six or seven feet from the gangway, and as I was passing the gangway bang goes over my head. Most of the processionists were in the Hall at the time. I can swear it was not a small brass cannon owned by Mr. Quirk's children. I could not swear it was not a double-barrel gun, because it went off only once. The stones were fired before the shot. I swear I did not take any liquor that day.

SEYMOUR W. CRABBE SWORN.—To Mr. Hazard: My shop is next the Orange Hall. I am not an Orangeman. I was standing at my shop door when the procession arrived at the Hall. Shortly after the processionists went into the Hall, I saw parties come out of the building into the street. There was a general squabble on the middle of the street. I went up stairs in my shop and looked out the window. While there I heard two shots near the Hall door. I came out and went on the street. I do not know if there were any windows broken before I came out but stones were being thrown at the building. I cannot identify any of the men. To Mr. McLean—The first shot I heard fired came from the other side of the street. I did not see any person with a revolver. I know no person who had a revolver. To Mr. Hazard—The shot fired from the other side of the street was fired ten minutes before the second shot I spoke of. The procession had not then entered the Hall.

POLLEMAN BRADLEY SWORN.—To Mr. Hazard: I am not an Orangeman. I was present at the row on the 12th. I saw parties throwing stones. I identify Owen McCloskey, Thomas McCloskey, Thomas Smith. I cannot swear positively to the remainder of the persons. I saw in the crowd Angus McDonald, Wm. McDonald, Patrick Brennan, Richard Power, Nicholas Collins, John Thornton, Frank McGuigan, Patrick McGuigan, Francis McAdam, Michael Dooling, Francis McCarthy. I would not swear to Butler. All those men were running in the crowd that were throwing stones. Could not tell their intentions. To Mr. Bayfield—The worst I saw Owen McCloskey doing was grinding his teeth. He was in liquor. I did not see Sweeney after the first of it. I saw McKenzie go into the crowd. I pushed him back. He said, "I'm be damned if I will; I will go through them." When I put Mackenzie back, I did not see him more. I saw Mackenzie and Moore in the crowd fighting. Moore came to take Mackenzie away. I saw Moore with his hands up squaring through the crowd. He got struck. I did not see him get the blow. There were a good many with Moore at the time. There were no stones fired at this time. Shots were fired out of the Lodge after this. There were shots fired at this time. They came from the Hall door. The crowd moved off, picked up stones and fired them at the building. I saw no fighting in the crowd after this. There were no stones fired at the Hall till the two shots were fired from the window. If there were I could see them. I then went into the crowd to try and stop it. When I got in the crowd I saw two men come to the Lodge window and fire two shots. I could see the revolvers. They were pointed into the crowd. I then went into F. H. Campbell's store. Came out in about two minutes. Crowd dispersed, but came back and threw more stones. There were more shots fired. There were about ten. I do not know who fired them. The revolvers were pointed in the same direction. I saw a man running and the crowd followed him, firing stones; I followed him. He got out of sight. When I came back the crowd were taking a ladder out of Offer's yard. I helped to put it away. I saw Patrick Brennan in the crowd. He was the worse of liquor. He was not doing any harm. I saw no one with a revolver except the men in the window. I could not recognize either of them. To Mr. Hazard: I will not swear McKenzie struck anyone. I saw Moore attempting to strike some one. I swear there were no stones fired against the building—that I saw—up to the time the pistol shots were fired from the door. I was on the middle of the street when the pistol shots were fired from the crowd. I saw the smoke of the second shot fired from the window. The revolvers were pointed into the crowd.

Adjourned till 10 o'clock to-morrow morning.

[ERRATUM.—In the cross-examination of Mr. John Scott, by Mr. Shaw, the first sentence should read: "I saw Angus McDonald firing stones at the Lodge windows," instead of "I saw William," etc.]
