

Objections To Fluoridation Political Says Dr. Gullett

"Fluoridation has resolved itself into a political issue rather than a scientific question," said Dr. Don Gullett of Toronto yesterday. Dr. Gullett is National Secretary of the Canadian Dental Association and with Dr. K.M. Johnson, National President of the Association, paid a two day visit to the Province this week. They left by plane at noon yesterday. Previous to this both officers of the national organization addressed a meeting of the Prince Edward Island Dental Society.

Dr. Gullett said fluoridation of municipal water supplies in Ontario and New Brunswick is being held up due to legal technicalities in regard to the Public Health Act. It is anticipated, he said, that existing legislation will be amended in the near future which will allow the towns and cities in question to proceed. As an example of this he referred to the City of Saint John which has agreed to have its water supply fluoridated but cannot proceed without fear of having court action brought against them. On the other hand he cited Brockville, Ontario which has added fluorides to its water without consulting the provincial Government. "There the residents of Brockville and it is unlikely that any contrary action will be taken," Dr. Gullett said.

HALIFAX HAS IT

Dr. Gullett revealed that the cities of Halifax and Dartmouth, Nova Scotia have been using fluorinated water since last June. He said the chemical had been added to the water for several months before it was publicly announced and during the time that it was not made public and been a single complaint. "This goes to show," he said, "that fluoridated water is not only tasteless but harmless."

Referring to the progress of fluoridation programs in the United States, Dr. Gullett said that over 30,000,000 people in 1,426 communities are now using fluoridated water. In 1956 over six million people in 171 communities became users of water so treated. He notes that with populations between 500,000 and a million are now using fluoridated water. NO REAL OBJECTION

The national C.D.A. secretary said no scientist of note in the field of research has come up with any opposition to fluoridation of water supplies. He recalled that in 1956 at the annual meeting of the Canadian Dental Association, the organization firmly reiterated its recommendation to the Canadian people that communities which have a water supply adjust the fluoride content of the water by means of fluoridation procedure.

Canadian cities now using fluoridated water in Ontario, Moose Jaw, Saskatoon, Swift Current, Weyburn, Wynyard, Saskatchewan, Smithers, Prince George, Kelowna, British Columbia, Halifax and Dartmouth, Nova Scotia; Point Claire and Silery, Quebec, Alberta, New Brunswick, Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island are the only provinces which have not started to use fluoride treated water.

ment in embattled Egypt and enslaved Hungary would have on the election results. But reports from across the country showed voters turning out in larger numbers than had been expected.

The list of eligible voters totaled 80,158,364. Political experts estimated that a popular vote would reach approximately 61,500,000. The total voting population—all those of voting age—is 102,743,000. In 1952, a record year, 61,551,918 voted as the electors picked Eisenhower over Stevenson in that first election contest between the two men.

The weather generally was fair across the nation.

Early fragmentary returns from around the country indicated a pro-Eisenhower trend but these preliminary reports, usually from small precincts commanding only a scattering of votes, had only limited significance.

NO DISORDERS

There were no reports of disorders or disturbances at any of the tens of thousands of polling stations that make up the framework of the complicated U.S. election machinery.

At stake in the congressional races were 35 seats in the 96-member Senate, which puts up a third of its membership for election every two years, and 432 of the 435 seats in the House of Representatives. Maine elected two Republicans and one Democrat to the House two months ago.

The Democrats went into the election with Congress in their control. They held a thin 49-47 margin in the Senate and a more substantial 232-203 edge in the House.

In the presidential contest, the winner must capture at least 266 votes—a simple majority—in the 531-vote electoral college. Each state's electoral votes—equal to the number of representatives it has in Congress—go to the candidate with the majority of the popular vote in that state.

In 1952, Eisenhower virtually swept the electoral college into his pocket, capturing 442 votes against Stevenson's 89.

In addition to the presidential and congressional contests, the voters today also elected 29 state governors and balloted on a broad assortment of other state offices. Many states run off their local elections on the same day.

FOREIGN ISSUES

The tense international developments in the last week of the six-week campaign overshadowed the domestic issues on the election front.

The Republicans were quick to argue that Eisenhower's attempts to bring peace in Egypt and Hungary—initially unsuccessful though they were—strengthened his position as the one indispensable man who could keep the U.S. out of war.

Democrats said the upheavals abroad had substantiated Stevenson's charges that Eisenhower and State Secretary John Foster Dulles had "blundered" and either had kept the American people ignorant of the true state of world affairs or "did not know the situation themselves."

The Republicans campaigned largely on their record and on the "peace" theme.

THREE BIG ISSUES

The Democrats hammered hard at three big issues—foreign policy, the H-bomb tests and the president's health.

Stevenson closed his campaign with a Boston speech warning that a Republican victory would mean the entry of Richard M. Nixon, Eisenhower's controversial vice-president, into the White House within the next four years.

In the bluntest terms he had used on the significant health issue, the Democratic nominee questioned whether the 66-year-old president, a recovered heart patient, could survive another four years in the presidency.

Eisenhower's reply to the Democratic sniping at the health issue was to report that he felt "fine" despite the heart attack he suffered 13 months ago and the abdominal surgery he underwent last June. He underwent a complete physical check-up a week before election and his doctors reported he gave every appearance of being in good health.

PEACE IS OBJECTIVE

In his windup speech, Eisenhower said in a televised broadcast that "the great objective of peace." In recent days, he said, "we have had many crises that have tested our readiness to stand by principle."

Stevenson called for a U.S. move to seek international agreement to ban H-bomb tests but dropped this issue as war erupted in the Middle East. This, and his companion proposal for abolition of the draft as a waste of manpower, was rejected by Eisenhower as a "design for disaster."

Both candidates made a big pitch for votes in the strategic farm belt, dissatisfied over falling agricultural income. The Eisenhower forces argued that the administration's system of flexible farm price supports and related farm programs soon would wipe out food surpluses depressing the market. Stevenson promised a return to rigid high price supports.

Health, education, housing and civil rights lengthened the list of domestic issues developed during the campaign.

SPCA Reorganized At Meeting Last Evening

After several years of relative inactivity, the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals was reorganized last evening at an adjourned meeting held at City Hall when Mr. Walter M. Bears was elected president along with an energetic group of supporting officers.

Mr. George J. Rogers presided at the meeting which heard the report of the nominating committee and on their recommendation elected a slate of officers as follows:

Mr. Frank Creamer was elected field man and will be sworn in at once and empowered to act as the active representative of the S.P.C.A.

Mr. A. Wilson, authorized dogcatcher under the city regulations gave a report on the nature and scope of his work, citing a number of situations encountered where the S.P.C.A. would probably have served a humane purpose had the organization been active.

On motion it was agreed that the membership fee would be $1.00 per year and also that voluntary contributions would be gladly received and acknowledged.

Mr. W.E. Bentley, Q.C. speaking briefly, congratulated the meeting on the enthusiasm shown and asserted his willingness to support the Society fully in the work designed by the same.

The officers elected are: Honorary President, W.E. Bentley, Q.C. President, Walter M. Bears; 1st Vice President, Miss Joan Grant; 2nd Vice President, George J. Rogers; Secretary, Mrs. J.O.C. Campbell; Treasurer, Mrs. George Batt.

Eisenhower Is Delighted By The Cease Fire

WASHINGTON AP(— President Eisenhower, in a telephone call to Britain's Anthony Eden, expressed "delight" Tuesday at the prospect of a cease-fire in the Middle East. But the state department voiced new concern about Soviet plans in central Europe.

Even as a big break came in negotiations to end bloodshed in Egypt, the United States questioned Soviet intentions toward neutral Austria.

Any attempt to violate the territorial integrity and internal sovereignty of Austria would be regarded by the United States as "a grave threat to the peace," the state department said.

A department statement used these blunt terms in denouncing as "grossly false" Soviet charges that persons sponsored by the United States, and operating from Austrian soil had encouraged the Communist revolt which Russia apparently has crushed in Hungary.

Con Embree Makes Light Of Heroism

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP)—Con Embree, modest 48-year-old survivor of about 50 miners trapped by Thursday's explosion, said Monday: "It was just a miracle performed by God and I was the instrument through which He worked."

The pale and tired Embree, one of five survivors of the disaster still hospitalized, was acclaimed a hero by other miners taken out of the poisonous No. 4 pit early Monday morning.

"Miners are a breed that will do their duty when the chips are down," said Embree, who directed the construction of a gas-free shelter at the 5,400-foot level.

"They were really wonderful. There wasn't any panic," he said. SANG FOR MORALE

"We sang to keep morale high and had religious discussions. I tried to keep their minds on their families and their futures."

"When things looked bluest, I wrote a little note and many of the other men did the same," he said. The notes were actually wills.

"We had just finished a duet when draeger crews broke through to us."

"When the shelter at the 84 level got too gassy, Charlie Burton said he would try to take a group of the men up. I figured he had about one chance in a million to make it but he did."

"Later we heard someone bang-

SEASCAPE WINNER, CLASS B

In judging the entries of "B" Rock, George Lewis conducted a quiz in which the ladies of the club picked their photographic knowledge against that of the men. This was won by the men by a small margin.

In a period of practical work, several "B" member parties participated in developing the films they had brought.

A film, "Gift of the Glacier" was shown which told of the ice fields of the Canadian Rockies and the rivers which have their origin there.

"Landscapes" will be the subject for Class "A" competition at the next meeting, Nov. 19th.

To Compete In Drama Festival

The P.E.I. Regional Committee of Dominion Drama Festival is pleased to announce that the Indian River Players, under the direction of Rev. Louis Callaghan, D.D., has decided to enter a play not yet decided upon, in the Regional Festival, to be held in March.

Three full-length plays are required to hold a Regional Festival and until the advent of the Indian River Players only two were in sight, Montague Dramatic Workshop and the Little Theatre Guild of Charlottetown. Now, our three Counties will each be represented in the Festival, a fact which is of great satisfaction to the Committee.

The Indian River Players, produced the winning full-length play, "Come Out of the Kitchen" in the P.E.I. Drama Association Festival, last Spring.

Were Compelled To Take Action

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Donald Fleming, Parliament member for Toronto-Eglinton and candidate for leadership of the national Progressive Conservative party, said here Tuesday Britain and France were "compelled" to take action in the Middle East to protect the Suez Canal.

Addressing the Canadian Club of Saint John, he said "instant police action" was necessary and while the Canadian suggestion of an international police force was good, he regretted it was so belated.

Mr. Fleming said Prime Minister Eden's offer to turn policing over to the United Nations placed responsibility squarely on the UN. He added that Canada, with no direct interests involved, should not join the United States in "delivering moral judgments" on Britain and France.

Mr. Fleming will travel to Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island later in the week.

Preliminary Hearing On Milk Theft Charges Commenced

Preliminary hearings in connection with the alleged theft of a quantity of Perfection Brand condensed and powdered milk, the property of Central Creameries Ltd., Charlottetown, were begun at a special session of the Queen's county Magistrate's Court last night. The session, which lasted for three hours, was presided over by Magistrate Gilbert Gaudet.

The R.C.M.P., Charlottetown detachment, have laid charges against six Charlottetown men in connection with the incident. Previous to last night, five of the six accused had, when given option of Magistrate's Court elected to be tried by a judge without a jury. Before hearings commenced last evening, the sixth member elected trial by judge and jury. Mr. Gerald Foster appeared as counsel for the defense.

Evidence in the cases of one of the accused was given in part last evening. He is appearing on three different charges, the first of which is the illegal possession of 15 cases of Perfection Brand condensed milk in Charlottetown. Three witnesses, including a representative of a local business firm which is reported to have purchased some of the milk in question from the accused; a member of the R.C.M.P.; and a representative of the Central Creameries Ltd. were called by the Crown concerning the first charge. Mr. J.P. Nicholson represented the Crown, while counsel for the defense was Mr. Allison Gillis.

Evidence in examination and cross-examination indicated that the accused had sold some milk to a local firm, at a price lower than that charged by the producer. It was also learned, through code marks on the goods, that the milk purchased by the local firm had not been legally placed on the open market by the producer. The R.C.M.P. seized some of the purchase from the firm and produced a portion of the seizure as an exhibit last night.

One drunk and incapable was fined $10, and costs or five days in jail, a second was sentenced to ten days imprisonment, and a third was sentenced to five days. Four persons charged with being drunk and disorderly appeared with one being remanded until November 8, another fined $10, and costs or five days, at a third sentenced to 10 days in jail and the final one receiving a fine of $5 and costs or two days. The case of a drunken driver was adjourned until November 7.
