By JANET KASK... MONTREAL (CP)—A North American woman has difficulty in getting pregnant because they are 'brought up to accept masculine values'.

Dr. Louis Glick of the Yale school of medicine, speaking on the "basic fact that the population is increasing in obitric, gynecologic and neonatal nursing."

When she became pregnant, she had a very difficult time. This should be a worry to all of us.

He said mass psychological experiments showed a motherhood may have been inherited. The pediatrician, he added, must be of the opinion that the child to include the entire family.
