LET'S CLIP AND FRAME THIS NEW STAR WEEKLY COVER 'I'm It lovely!' 'Yes—the object is good and the colors simply beautiful.' 'The inside pictures are fascinating too—I don't know how they get such lovely colorings.' 'Well—it's Rotogravure Printing you know and the Star Weekly is noted for its fine Rotogravure work.' 'I think this picture section alone is worth the price of the whole paper—but look, in addition here's the magazine section of forty pages, some in color—a complete Novel and the comics... four more pages of comics... and I like this NEW Star Weekly in its new compact Tabloid size.'

South dealer. Both sides vulnerable. NORTH: A K J, A 9 7 4, 7 6 5 3, A 9 8. WEST: A 4 3 2, 9 8 7 6 5, 7 3 2 0, A 9 8 7 6 5. EAST: 10 8 7 6 5 4 3 2, A 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2, A 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2, A 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2. The bidding: South West North East 1P Pass 2P Pass 4P. Opening lead—jack of diamonds. The question of whether to finesse against the queen, when the defenders have Q-x-x, or whether to play for the drop of the queen is the question that arises again and again. Multidimensionally, and as an independent proposition, the best result will be gained over a long period of time by playing to drop the queen rather than finesse for it, but the advantage of playing the A-K, as opposed to the finesse, is only slight. Any club obtained during the bidding or play, or other special combinations, may make it possible to swing over to the finesse as the better play. Two rounds of diamonds presented South with a wide choice of plays. He decided to tackle trumps first. After cashing the king of hearts he continued with a low trump and finessed dummy's nine. The one play removed all doubt as to the final outcome. The contract became sure whether the finesse won or lost. If the nine held, the ace would draw the queen and no more than two clubs and a diamond could be lost. If the nine lost, only a diamond, a heart and a club would go to the defenders, since the two small clubs could be ruffed in dummy. Had West shown out on the second trump lead, the contract was still secure. In that case, dummy's ace is played and a club ruffed in West has the club suit two clubs to be trumped in dummy, while if East has the club ace only one club need be ruffed in dummy because of the favorable position of the Q-10. If defender makes the mistake of leading a heart to the ace of trumps, West can lead back to the king, he goes down because West can cash the queen of trump and prevent two club ruffs in dummy. There is no tangible clue to guide defender to the location of the queen of hearts, but South's method provided a sure way to make the hand even if he misreversed the trump situation.

BEDTIME STORIES Bobby Thinks Fast

The slow of wit will lose at last; Success is won by thinking fast. —Old Mother Nature. There is nothing slow or stupid about Bobby Coon. He is one of the Green Forest folk who is smart. He long ago learned that he had to be smart in order to live. Smarting fast right now. It was a moonlight night. He was high in a tall tree at the foot of which a Dog was barking. Coming toward that tree were two hunters. Bobby couldn't yet see them, but he could see the flashlights they carried and turned on and off as they came on, and he could hear their voices. What to do? There was no time to waste. He would have to think fast and make no mistake. "I can't go down on the ground and run because of that Dog," thought Bobby. "There isn't any hollow in this tree that I can hide in. Somehow I have a feeling that I am not safe up here. There is just one thing for me to do, and that is to get out of this tree before those hunters get here." Now Bobby knew that tree, every branch of it, because he had often been up in it. He knew that there was one branch that reached out over a branch of a neighboring tree. Those two branches were big enough to carry his weight. He could cross from one tree to the other. He had done it before. He would do it now. Then perhaps he could get down from that other tree without the Dog knowing it. He would try it anyway. So Bobby crept out on that certain limb as far as he could go. He was very careful to make no sound while doing it. He didn't want the Dog to guess what he might be doing. When he was as far out as he could get and still hold on, the branch bent. A limb of the neighboring tree was just a little below and it wasn't very much of a jump for Bobby. He made it. He landed on the other branch and hung on, then he quickly ran along it in the trunk
