Queen Mother Unveils War Memorial

INVERNESS, Scotland, Sept. 28 (Reuters)—Queen Mother Elizabeth Saturday unveiled a memorial near here to fallen British commandos. The memorial, three nine-foot bronze commando figures on a granite plinth five-foot high, stands on a site which formed part of the tough force's wartime training ground. The Queen Mother said: "Raised in urgent and cloudy days, the Commandos hardened themselves for battle by land, sea or air in which nothing was certain except the hazards they would have to face. To them danger was a spur and the unknown a challenge."

IN MEMORIAM MILTON ROBERT COFFIN

The many friends of Mr. Milton R. Coffin were shocked and saddened to learn of the sudden death at his home on the Mt. Edward Rd., on the afternoon of September 1, 1952. The late Mr. Coffin was born at Savage Harbour on January 22, 1874. He was the son of William and Susannah Coffin, and a nephew of the late Rev. Dr. Fulton Coffin. He was a member of the United Church and a Christian man of exemplary virtues; ever faithful in his religious duties, endeavoring himself to all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance. There are left to mourn the loss of a kind and loving husband and father, his sorrowing wife, the former Katherine Piggott, and one daughter, Muriel; (Mrs. Ralph Piggott) a son Fulton; also two grand children, Robert and Leslie. His funeral which was largely attended was held from the Mt. Stewart United Church, preceded by a short service at the McLean Funeral Home, Charlottetown. The services were conducted by the Rev. John T. Irwin, assisted by Rev. John Evans and Rev. Mr. Byers. Mrs. Milford S. Hubley, of Brighton, Massachusetts, sang very effectively, Tennyson's "Crossing The Bar" and "Beyond The Sunset." Mrs. H. W. Davison was the accompanist. The floral tributes were many and beautiful which testified to the esteem in which the deceased was held. Interment was in the Mt. Stewart United Church Cemetery.

Ukrainian Immigrant Sentenced To Hang

PORTRARTHUR, Sept. 28 (CP)—George Gregor Hladly, 35-year-old Ukrainian immigrant, was sentenced to be hanged Dec. 9 by Mr. Justice D. R. J. Kelly in assize court Saturday for the murder July 26 of another immigrant, Josef Panok. Panok's body, crushed around the neck with rope, and with two railway plates weighing 20 pounds each wired to the neck and feet, was found floating in the McIntyre River here Aug. 8. Hladly had known Panok 34, and his wife, Margaret, in Germany since 1948, and had helped to bring the family to Canada. Mrs. Panok, key crown witness, told the four-day trial that Hladly admitted to her he had killed her husband and thrown his body into the river. She did not report it to police, she said, because Hladly "threatened to get rid of me too."

Strange But True

No other bird songster with the exception perhaps of the green-shank pours forth his song from the sky at a height so great that the singer himself is invisible. In the University of Aberdeen, Scotland, may be seen a keg of butter which is over one thousand years old. Buried in July of 931, when its owners feared it might fall into the hands of Vikings, it lay all these centuries hidden and preserved by peat moss. It's owner having been killed in the Norseman raids it seemed likely to remain buried for all time; but one May day in 1921 two brothers, cutting peats on the moss, felt the spade strike something hard. Carefully they uncovered their find and hoisted the barrel to the surface. Next they removed one end, and saw the butter that had been churned that summer's day over a thousand years ago!

In the University of Aberdeen, Scotland, may be seen a keg of butter which is over one thousand years old. Buried in July of 931, when its owners feared it might fall into the hands of Vikings, it lay all these centuries hidden and preserved by peat moss. It's owner having been killed in the Norseman raids it seemed likely to remain buried for all time; but one May day in 1921 two brothers, cutting peats on the moss, felt the spade strike something hard. Carefully they uncovered their find and hoisted the barrel to the surface. Next they removed one end, and saw the butter that had been churned that summer's day over a thousand years ago!

Strange But True

No other bird songster with the exception perhaps of the green-shank pours forth his song from the sky at a height so great that the singer himself is invisible.
