SEPTEMBER 17, 1891.

Notes and Comments.

The Chicago Tribune pictures the President saying to any Canadian delegates who may go to Washington to discuss reciprocity: "Are you willing to pull down your boundary line custom houses and adopt the American tariff against all other outside nations?"

The editor of Goldthwaite's Geographical Magazine has been telling his readers some interesting facts about fossils collected on the Canadian plains at Swift Current, Assiniboia.

As an instance of the tone which educated Russians, not only of the laity, but of the orthodox priesthood, maintain towards the Jews at the present crisis, Dark-est Russia prints an extract from a lately published handbook of the Christian faith, the author of which is a court chaplain named Antinomoff.

News From the Magdalen Islands.

A passenger who arrived at Souris in the steamer St. Olaf yesterday, reports that the mackerel fishery at the Magdalen Islands is being prosecuted with considerable success, the price ranging from $5 to $8 per barrel, about the same as is being given in Souris.

Building Going on at Souris.

A large two tenement house, with store attached, is being erected by the Knight Estate trustees on the lot formerly occupied by the house and store of the late T. L. Smith.

Mr. Michael Holland, painter, is about completing a dwelling house on the rising ground east of the Methodist Parsonage.

Mr. Archibald Currie, merchant, is building a large warehouse on Main Street. The Presbyterian Church is undergoing repairs, and a fence is to be erected around it.

Mr. Thomas Morris has just finished a snug cottage on upper end of Main Street, to let.

The Fuller House, owned by Messrs. Matthew, McLean & Co., and occupied by Conductor McDonald and Mr. George McFarlane has been recently raised and repaired inside and out. New windows have been placed in front and the whole dwelling painted, which makes it look quite handsome and homelike.

Mr. Gorman is also renovating and improving his dwelling house.

Personal.

Mr. Charles P. Knight, of Emerson, Man., is at present visiting his relatives at Souris.

Mr. P. C. Murphy was in the city to-day, on his way to New York to resume his studies at the University Medical College. He goes West this evening.

Mr. W. G. Burke, of Georgetown, went west last evening, to take the boat at Summerside, en route to University Medical College, New York City, where he completes his medical studies this year.

We are pleased to note that our old friend, Mr. Vianicome, has returned from an extended trip through the Province of Nova Scotia.

Rev. W. J. Kirby, Methodist minister of Winslow, P. E. Island, was in town yesterday. He is spending his vacation in New Brunswick, and left yesterday for his old circuit in Kent county.—(Moncton Times.)

We are pleased to hear that Messrs. W. L. Strickland and H. C. Shaw have succeeded in passing a very creditable Law Examination, and will be admitted at the next term of the Court to be held at Charlottetown. We wish our young friends every success in the practice of their profession.

EVANGELISTIC.—It is not often that one is permitted to witness such a large gathering in Charlottetown as that which assembled in the large Methodist Church last evening. Mr. E. Wells Bliss delivered an evangelistic address which was at once concise, clear and convincing.

NOTES FROM OTTAWA.

Striking Incidents of the Day

THE BAY DES CHALEURS STEAL.

Mercier, Pacaud & Co.

The Royal Road to Wealth.

The Company's Methods Explained.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE EXAMINER.]

Among the many striking incidents of this eventful session was a speech—short indeed—from Hon. Alexander Mackenzie. It was during the debate upon the appropriation for the salary of the Hon. Hector Fabre, Canadian Agent in Paris, when Sir Adolphe Caron, replying to the strictures of the Opposition, expressed surprise that the liberal party should object to the employment of a gentleman who had by their been elevated to the Senate.

The statement was freely made by opposition members that, so far as promoting emigration, Mr. Fabre was a failure, as he had succeeded in sending out only one emigrant, and that a woman, in several years past. The statement was not more than usually inaccurate.

The Senate railway committee have made their report in the matter of the investigation into the Bois des Chaleurs Railway subsidies, and they find the charges proved that $175,000 had been misapplied, of which amount Pacaud received $100,000.

The question of the day is, what is Mercier going to do? The morning's report that a Royal Commission has been decided on to investigate the charges, is varied in the afternoon, to be directly contradicted at night.

Although the Globe spoke decidedly at first, and as though indicating that the Liberal party would move promptly in the matter, neither by word nor act can we say that that party realize the responsibility which is undoubtedly theirs.

Mr. Michael Holland, painter, is about completing a dwelling house on the rising ground east of the Methodist Parsonage. Mr. Archibald Currie, merchant, is building a large warehouse on Main Street.

Mr. Thomas Morris has just finished a snug cottage on upper end of Main Street, to let. The Fuller House, owned by Messrs. Matthew, McLean & Co., and occupied by Conductor McDonald and Mr. George McFarlane has been recently raised and repaired inside and out.

Burke, of Georgetown, went west last evening, to take the boat at Summerside, en route to University Medical College, New York City, where he completes his medical studies this year.

We are pleased to note that our old friend, Mr. Vianicome, has returned from an extended trip through the Province of Nova Scotia. Rev. W. J. Kirby, Methodist minister of Winslow, P. E. Island, was in town yesterday. He is spending his vacation in New Brunswick, and left yesterday for his old circuit in Kent county.—(Moncton Times.)

city residence, he has a splendid summer house on the Island of Orleans, and is building a castle on the most fashionable street in Montreal. Five years ago, Mr. Ernest Pacaud was poorer than editors usually are; but since then he has purchased a sumptuous residence, elegantly furnished, and this year he bought one of the most expensive houses in Quebec, and it was not exactly to his taste, he is rebuilding it. To say nothing of the extravagance in which he lives, the carriages, the horses, the diamonds, the furs and the champagne running in rivers! How has all this change been effected? Where has the money come from? Ask C. N. Armstrong; ask J. J. Macdonald, railway contractor; ask J. P. Whelan, of Montreal. But the latter gentleman speaks for himself. In an interview a fortnight ago with a correspondent of the Empire, Mr. Whelan expressed himself after this manner:—

"The only thing that surprised me was that this rascality did not come to light long ere now, as all those who have had anything to do with the collection or expenditure of money at Quebec have been quite convinced that any charge of boodling made in that direction, be it ever so astounding, might be credited, as the whole history of the present Quebec administration is simply unparalleled. The Government has been nothing more nor less than a collecting agency, and its members have permitted themselves to be used continuously by a gang of brokers, all business involving the collection of money being done by go-betweens. In fact, a want of judgment and lack of honesty have been visible on every side."

"Ernest Pacaud is certainly in the confidence of the liberal party, both in Ottawa and Quebec, and it must be said to his credit that he has worked most zealously to further the liberal cause all round."

"Pacaud is Mercier's trusted agent in all transactions, and a contractor having claims against the present Quebec government may employ legal and other talent, but as sure as fate Pacaud will turn up before you get through, and the general belief is that Mercier gets his share of the spoils."

"Knowing that Mr. Whelan spoke by the book the correspondent revived the $15,000 scandal, and secured details, which up to the present time have never seen the light. In order to understand the question it will be well to state that a heavy award had been made to Mr. Whelan, and the same had been unanimously ratified by the Quebec Legislature. In fact the case is exactly similar to the Baie des Chaleurs steel only of course, the plunderers were not so bold as they had become a year after."

"When Pacaud got $5,000 from you in February, 1890, to what end were you given to understand that this money should be applied?"

"It is to my personal knowledge that it went to take up overdue paper in the Banque du Peuple, at Quebec, for which Premier Mercier was responsible, but whether it was personal or election expenses I am unable to say."

"Now, will you brighten the country's memory on the next amount you paid Pacaud, viz., the famous $10,000?"

"In the first place I may say that Pacaud pocketed the half of that sum and gave the other $5,000 to J. Israel Tarte, now M. P. for Montmorency."

"Mr. Tarte admitted this to you and Mr. Lemieux in his room at the St. Lawrence hall, did he not?"

"He did, most certainly; but I never dreamed that it was to have been divided between Pacaud and Tarte when the former received the money here, as I was under no obligation to either of them. On the contrary, Pacaud was under great obligations to me."

"If you were under no obligations to Pacaud why did you pay over the money?"

"For the same reason as in the first case. As with Armstrong he gave me to understand that Mercier's liabilities were coming due, and must be met."

"Then you think that Pacaud deceived his chief with regard to the $10,000?"

"I do, and I will tell you why. Along in March Pacaud came back, and wanted an additional fifteen thousand, and when I refused he wired Mercier as follows: 'Once more deceived; nothing done,' which leads me to believe that when he and Tarte bagged the $10,000 Pacaud gave the count to understand that he had not been successful in his second mission to Montreal."

"Why do you suppose Pacaud gave his friend Tarte half the 10,000?"

"Well, as you know, Tarte and Pacaud were always hand and glove, and they invariably worked together. Tarte never applied to me for money; but no doubt Pacaud gave it to him as a pledge to prevent Le Canadien from exposing the clique's little games, and to keep Tarte's mouth shut in the matter afterwards."

"You are certain as to the destination of the $5,000 you referred to in this beginning?"

"Yes, there were notes, drafts and obligations entered into by the Premier, and he had also become responsible for expenses attending election contests. I was, therefore, to relieve him of this responsibility that the money was applied."

"Had you an opportunity of knowing the position financially of these men in 1886, and how did their mode of living compare with the present time?"

"Here Mr. Whelan laughed outright, and replied that in those days a $10 bill was most acceptable to many of them on market days, and trips to New York in private cars were, indeed, few and far between."

"These men are Laurier's political associates; to them and to the boodler they distributed he owes his present majority from the Province of Quebec. Yet, while all Canada is agitated at the magnitude and audacity of their surrounding operations, Mr. Laurier remains silent. He neither approves nor condemns. What closes his mouth is a question may well be asked. But the day is at hand, when Mr. Laurier will be forced to speak, when silence will no longer avail him, but when, as the accused, he will be put on his trial. A man is generally known by the company he keeps, and Mr. Laurier's associates have turned out to be very uncleanly."

News Notes.

The Paris Temps says Henry M. Stanley is planning a new Congo expedition for King Leopold.

The Chilean authorities have purchased the Italian ship Aquila, which has been transformed into a cruiser.

The village of Refel, in the Tyrol, was destroyed by fire a few days ago, during the absence of the inhabitants at a religious festival.

Archdeacon Farrar maintains that it is only an ignorant theology that can assume science to be hostile to religion.

The Scottish Gathering at Pictou.

The usual anniversary celebration of the Town of Pictou was held on Tuesday, 15th inst. These sports have always been among the most important in the Provinces, and as well conducted, being under the auspices of the Pictou Amateur Athletic Association. The Charlottetown and P. E. Island boys have always won high honors, and this year their record has been more than usually successful. The success of the sports was somewhat marred by the rainstorm which set in early in the afternoon, spoiling the pleasure of the large number present, and keeping many others away. The vaulting of McEchern was particularly good, and he showed his ability to go much higher; while D. J. McDonald, who is a great favorite in Pictou, showed that he had lost none of his old-time speed. A new man to Pictou—Dan McDonald—proved himself a good all-round athlete. The list of events was as follows:

Throwing Hammer (16 lbs)—1st, D. Cark, Grand River, P. E. I., 95 ft; 2d, F. P. Meikle, Pictou, 89 ft 9 in.

Putting Shot—1st, F. P. Meikle, Pictou, 41 ft 4 in; 2d, H. C. Gillis, Antigonish, 40 ft 9 in.

One Hundred Yards Race—1st, D. J. McDonald, Ch'town, 10 4-5 sec; 2d, E. Herriot, Pictou.

Pipe Music—Mr. McLeod, River John. Pole Vaulting—1st, J. A. McEachern, Ch'town, 9 ft 9 in; 2d, H. C. Gillis, 9 ft 3 in.

Quarter Mile Race—1st, E. Herriot, Pictou, 57 sec; 2d, D. J. McDonald, Ch'town. High Jump—1st, D. J. McDonald, Ch'town, 5 ft 1 in; 2d, D. J. McDonald and H. C. Gillis tied for second place, 5 ft.

Running Wide Jump—1st, D. M. McDonald, Ch'town, 18 ft 11 in; 2d, D. J. McDonald, 18 ft 3 in.

Hurdle Race—1st, E. Herriot, 2d, D. M. McDonald.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Letter From Councillor Crabbe.

SIR,—In your article on civic matters you make the charge that the Council was more inclined to improve a party advantage against Councillor Morris than to study the interests of the city.

As regards the resolution ordering a new platform on Grafton Street, near the residence of Dr. Taylor, I consider the Council had the best interests of the city in view when they supported it, as many complaints had been made about the unsafe condition of this platform, and a notice had been placed in a book kept for that purpose in the City Clerk's Office by the Hon. Thomas W. Dodd in August last, but no notice had been taken of it by the City Surveyor, hence my resolution to save the city from a bill for damages.

The vote of $125 to Mr. McCarey was made on a majority report of the Finance Committee, to whom this letter from Stewart & McNeill, as Attorneys from Mr. McCarey, had been referred some weeks ago.

The Committee reported to the Council that they had made inquiries from a number of persons in the vicinity of the accident, and had also personally inspected the place, and they had no doubt of the liability of the city in face of such evidence, and what chance would the city have in an action in the Supreme Court? Nothing short of being assessed for heavy damages with a big bill for costs. This may appear to you as seeking to make a party advantage against Councillor Morris—the Council thought differently and voted accordingly.

None of the members of the Council supposed to be acting with me have shown any desire to embarrass Councillor Morris as Finance Minister. On the contrary, they have always supported him in any matters brought before the Council that they thought were in the interest of the city as a whole, and have no desire to assume charge of a depleted civic treasury.

SIMON W. CRABBE.

Book Keeping Again.

SIR,—In reply to "Enquiring Student," whose letter appears in your issue of the 12th inst., and for the information of others, I wish to state that at the examination for second class license in June, 1892, Book Keeping will be accepted as an equivalent for French,—the course to be taken at the Business College.

Candidates for this grade of license may, therefore, clearly see that they are not obliged to attend both classes, as only one of the two subjects will be required for examination, according to the course prescribed by the Board of Education. Yours, &c., J. A. NICHOLSON, Supt. of Education.

Sept. 17, 1891.

The Fire at Boushaw.

SIR,—I notice by yesterday's issue that you have been informed that the fire at Mr. McNevin's at Boushaw was caused through incendiarism. This is a very serious charge to make against a community where a crime of this kind was never committed before. I can't see what would be the motive for any person to do such an act, as Mr. McNevin has no enemies who would do it, and there is no person out here who would gain anything by destroying his neighbor's property. But if the person who has given this information has reason to consider he has proof for making such a charge, he should make them public or give them to the authorities, and have the matter looked into. Hoping that the matter will be sifted, I am yours, &c., RESIDENT.

Evangelistic Services.

SIR,—It is to be regretted that the Guardian of the 12th inst., published the remarks made by the Rector of St. Paul's last Sunday morning, concerning the Evangelistic services now being held. They could only have been intended for his own people.

Now, that they have been published, it is just to that congregation to say, that almost to a unit they are not in sympathy with this means of increasing their church membership,—believing that the opposite result invariably follows the withdrawal of a congregation from its proper place of worship. Yours, &c., CHURCHMAN.

THE INCREASED SALE THIS YEAR OF CAMPBELL'S QUININE WINE Is the Best Proof of the Esteem in which it is Held. IT IS THE GREAT INVIGORATING TONIC OF THE DAY. It is invaluable in cases of Loss of Appetite, Weak or Painful Indigestion, Malaria, Lowness of Spirits, Fevers of all kinds, and as a General Strengthening of the System when weakened by Changes of the Season. It is necessary to remember that there are many so-called Quinine Wines, but that the GREAT ORIGINAL is CAMPBELL'S, and that the genuine bears the signature upon the label.
