KING HUMBERT KILLED.

We are in the dark as to the motive for the terrible crime which has been perpetrated in Italy. King Humbert was a popular monarch. In any case, his death must accentuate and still further complicate the political conditions of this disturbed and anxious time. King Humbert was the son of Victor Immanuel whom he succeeded in 1878. He was born at Turin, March 4th, 1844.

THE BRITISH WERE TRICKED.

BEFORE they gave British goods a preference in the markets of Canada the Liberals raised the duty upon those articles,—in many cases from 25 to 30 per cent and from 30 per cent to 35 per cent on the value of the import. Then they took off 12 1/2 per cent,—not of the value of the import, but of the amount of the duty,—a mere nothing, then 25 per cent and finally 33 1/2 per cent of the duty, reducing the duty on the import at last to a little less than the old rate. The British thought, at first sight, that they had a big thing,—they know better know. While our imports from the United States have greatly increased in the last few years of world-wide expansion, our imports from the Mother Country have increased very little,—if at all.

LEAGUE OF THE CROSS.

THE ocular demonstration, given this morning, of the work that is being done among the Roman Catholic youths of this city on behalf of temperance and good living must have been pleasing to all who saw it. "Train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it," and the long procession of the League of the Cross, going to its annual picnic, may be taken as a proof that, in respect to temperance, at least, many of our boys are being so trained. The League of the Cross is a temperance society which is, amid much insane noise and chatter, quietly doing a good work. It is true that we ought to have stringent laws carried into operation against the liquor traffic, and to that end we must have in connection the temperance and prohibition discussions and criticisms about the politicians and their officials. But it is equally true that the most effective weapon against drunkenness is found in the "moral suasion" by which men are, for conscience sake, deterred from drinking and induced to discountenance the traffic in intoxicating liquors. We, therefore, heartily commend the leaders in the good work of the League of the Cross of this city.

—It is reported in London that Russia has borrowed nearly ten millions sterling from the Imperial Bank of Russia since the commencement of the trouble in China.

—The recent purchase of Pennsylvania soft coal for shipment to Cronstadt on Russian account has been followed by the announcement that the British steamship Notsau has been chartered to load four thousand tons of the same cargo for Gutajewski, Russia. It is thought probable that the coal is intended for railroad consumption.

AN EYE OPENER.

THE EXAMINER is mildly censured by the Guardian because it has not taken an active part in respect to the remarkable miscarriage of justice resulting from the misconduct of the official prosecutor in the Doherty-Haley case. Our reply is that upon inquiry we found that the Guardian had stated the case against the prosecutor with sufficient force and definiteness. We, therefore, had nothing to do but await the reply of the Patriot in defence of the party official or the investigation by the Government which the Guardian demanded. But notwithstanding the charges of the Guardian, and the repeated suggestions of THE EXAMINER in respect to the matter, the Patriot has said nothing and the Government has done nothing. This is not wonderful. It is, in point of fact, what we expected. The much more heinous offences of the Pinson intrigue and the breach of faith with Mr. Wise having been condoned or approved, the Patriot and the Government naturally suppose that the press and the people of this province will bear them out in such a comparatively small matter as the transfer of a summons under the Liquor Regulation Act from the proprietor to the bartender. Besides, the prosecutor who made the deal in this case is one of the Government's pet officials,—one of those who took an active part in winning, gloriously, the victory in the second district by means of whiskey, etc. The Government is not likely to dismiss and punish, according to his deserts, one who is so ardent and so efficient in the working of the party machine.

We hope that this incident, comparatively trifling as it is, will have the effect of opening the eyes of the Guardian, and the public generally, to the evil effects of wink- ing at rascality on the part of the Govern- ment. Such violations of the moral and the statute law are the logical result of laxity on the part of the public. If such transactions as that with Pinseau and Mr. Wise, as that of the passage of a "prohibi- tion law" with non-prohibition clubs—a fraud, a delusion and a snare—as that of pledges to the electors unfulfilled and deliberately violated,—if such acts as these are treated lightly by the "independ- ent" critics of the press and condoned by "independent" electors at the polls, how can it be expected that trading in summonses issued by the courts, or surreptitiously changing the law so as to permit liquor dealers to keep their shops open all night, etc., will not prevail?

It has been well said that a free com- munity is as well governed as it deserves to be. The people of this province have the matter in their own hands. If they want to be well governed, and to be respected throughout Canada and through- out the world, they will decline to be parties to such acts as have recently been developed in respect to their Government—they will, at the first opportunity, "turn the rascals out." We call upon the Guardian and upon the people to see to it that this duty is performed.

GUERRILLA WARFARE.

It appears that Great Britain is likely to have as much trouble in subduing the Boers as the United States has in conquering the Filipinos. The Boers, like the English, evidently do not know when they are beaten. A war of ambushes, captured convoys and interrupted communi- cations is being waged, according to the promises made before the struggle began by Col. Villebois Mareuil, the deceased French strategist of the Boers. "Strike and run away" has become the motto of the Burghers, and they are acting upon it to the letter. A series of running competi- tions are now being conducted, both in the Transvaal and the Free State, and if Britain's enemies have not shown as fighters, they are coming out resplendently as escapers. General Dewet's feat of eluding the British and making for the north, blowing up the railway at Honig Spruit, and capturing a convoy with a hundred Highlanders as a Parthian shot is indeed a remarkable one. Whether the Boer guerrilla leader escapes or is captured his performance will go down to history as by no means a mean one.

LIVE STOCK MOVEMENT.

MR. F. W. HODSON, the Dominion Live Stock Commissioner, addressed members of the Board of Trade and prominent citizens of Charlottetown on behalf of a Live Stock Association. His object in coming here is to gain the good-will and confidence of our farmers, and see how matters stand in respect to our live stock. Whatever he may do, he is desirous of moving in harmony with the wishes of our farmers and the Provincial authorities. In the course of his address of this morning, he referred to the fact that as a result of his efforts in the West "all pure-bred animals registered in records recognized as reliable by the Department of Agriculture, are carried at half rates between all points west of Montreal. Car-load lots are carried at the same rate as settlers' effects between points in Ontario and on the west of Fort William, thus effecting a very great saving to both buyers and sellers. It has also had the effect of distributing bet- ter animals throughout the country. Since the cheap rates were inaugurated the demand for pure bred males has in- creased rapidly, the Eastern and Western provinces vying with each other in their demands on Ontario for such animals. The Association have done a good work by stimulating this trade, and have greatly benefited the Ontario farmers by having their animals collected by the secretary or one of his staff in car-load lots and distributing them along the line of the C. P. R. to the individual buyers. Where it formerly cost from $30 to $120 to send an animal west, the transportation now amounts to but from $10 to $15. Up to three years ago the interprovincial trade in live stock amounted to practically nothing; when with the cheap rates and the careful supervision of the secretary, it sprang up with a bound, and since then over $500,000 worth of live stock has gone out from Ontario to the Northwest and British Columbia in the West, and Newfoundland, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces in the east. The increased trade has also had the effect of stimulating the breeders to turn out better individuals, as a ready market is now assured for all first-class animals. Besides securing cheap rates, the Association, have rendered valuable assistance in obtaining an abolition of the quarantine regulations between the United States and Canada." Mr. Hodson has come to a good field in which to work, a field in which there is much to be done. We welcome his coming.
