

Modern Morell Creamery Swings Into Operation

By DONALD MACLEOD
Butter production has begun at the new $300,000 Morell Co-operative Creamery and it is expected that cheese processing will begin next Thursday.
Fire destroyed the former creamery last year and the new plant is as modern and fire-proof as up-to-date construction techniques will allow.
The new building, built on the site of the old — overlooking the Morell River — measures 90 feet by 110 feet and has capacity for 40,000 pounds of milk for cheese at a time. The old plant could handle 10,000 pounds. The holding tank of the new plant has a capacity for 20,000 pounds.

FOUR CARLOADS
The most modern equipment for the manufacture of butter has been installed and plant manager Reg MacLadd said that similarly modern equipment for cheese manufacture is being installed and should be ready for operation by next Thursday.

Refrigeration accommodation at the plant will hold four carloads of butter and the electrical defroster will assure that refrigeration is kept at maximum efficiency. Temperature in the refrigeration area will be kept at a constant five degrees below zero.
There was heavy demand for cold storage lockers at the old plant and the new one provides 250 lockers with a capacity each of six cubic feet.
Heavy protection for the refrigeration area has been provided. On the outside is four-inch brick, then a one-inch air space, a six-inch block, seven inches of cork and then the four-inch block wall finish.
The roof of the building has an ebbledown wall, with one inch of insulation and a veneer brick finish on the outside.
The cheese curing room measures 40 feet by 40 feet and is 14 feet high. It has temperatures and humidity control. The temperature will be kept at 40 degrees and the relative humidity will be 70.
The cheese holding room will have its temperature kept at 40 degrees.
The plant has two boilers in the basement to provide steam and in the basement there is a large holding room for dry storage which will include the equipment the plant will have available for farmers. There are also three compressors in the basement and the remainder of space is being held for the possible future expansion of the operation.
A pump in the new plant will provide 100 gallons of water a minute for plant operations. A second well is available to add to the water supply if necessary.

It is expected that the plant will have a buttermilk drier in operation within a year though there is a good demand for buttermilk now that more hogs are being fed.
On the receiving end of the plant, one man can receive sample drain milk cans and place them on the straight line into the water on the cheese side of the operation.
On the cream side, on the weighing line, along an automatic conveyor belt, go the cans which pass through a rotary washer and are sent back outside.
Milk is dumped into a pasteurizing vat where it is heated to 180 degrees, then goes through a plate cooler where it is cooled to 45 degrees before being piped into the 20,000 pound capacity holding tank.
After the cheese is manufactured, it goes through a vacuum of 20 pounds which contracts it and "takes the holes out of it."

Both Mr. Teillet and Mr. Lambert were prisoners of war.
The Canadian ambassadors and their military attaches in France, Belgium and Holland will join the official party for the ceremonies in their respective countries.
Four ceremonies are planned:
At Beny-Sur-Mer Canadian war cemeteries near the invasion beaches in Nor-

Prime Minister Announces Changes In Civil Service

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson has announced changes in the senior civil service, including appointment of Marcel Cadieux as undersecretary of state for external affairs and the addition of a second deputy minister in State Secretary Lamontagne's department.
Dr. George Davidson, director of the bureau of government organization, will become secretary of the treasury board under the reorganized treasury board setup announced in January. He will rank as deputy minister of the new department.
Jean Miquelon will continue as deputy registrar-general of Canada with the rank of deputy minister, relinquishing the post of undersecretary of state in C. E. Steele, assistant deputy finance minister. Thus both Mr. Miquelon and Mr. Steele will rank as deputy ministers.
Mr. Cadieux, 48-year-old deputy undersecretary of state for external affairs, succeeds Norman Robertson, 60, undersecretary since 1958. Mr. Robertson recently was named chief Canadian negotiator for the Geneva tariff-cutting talks of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.
Mr. Davidson, 55, will assume his duties under the present administrative structure of treasury board, pending legislation to make the board a separate government department with its own cabinet minister. Privy Council President McNeil has been designated as the new minister.

montagne greater help "to deal especially with questions of administrative and financial policy."
Last January Mr. Lamontagne was made responsible for the CBC, the Board of Broadcast Governors, Economic Council of Canada, National Film Board, National Gallery, Central Commission, National Archives, National Library, National Museum, the Canada Council and the Queen's Publisher.
Mr. Steele, 44, joined the finance department in 1951. His appointment as undersecretary of state is effective May 15.
Mr. Cadieux, a native of Montreal, joined the external affairs department in 1941. He has served in London, Paris and Brussels and was named assistant undersecretary and legal adviser to the department in 1956. He has been deputy undersecretary since 1960.
UNDERWENT OPERATION
Mr. Robertson, who recently underwent a serious lung operation, was serving his second term as undersecretary of state for external affairs. He will head the Canadian delegation at Geneva when Trade Minister Sharp returns next week.
Dr. Davidson, born at Bass River, N.S., has been responsible as head of the bureau of government organization for implementing the recommendations of the Glasco royal commission on government organization.
The commission recommended establishment of a separate department and transfer of the bureau as part of it. The board is to be generally responsible for administrative co-ordination and for improving management in the public service.
Mr. Davidson was the first deputy welfare minister on the formation of the federal department of national health and welfare. He was chiefly responsible for the inauguration of family allowances in 1945 and the universal old age pension in 1952. He was deputy immigration minister from 1960 until 1963.
The new external affairs legal adviser will be Max West, assistant undersecretary. H. Courtney Kingstone of the department's legal division has been designated Canadian counsel before the International Joint Commission, succeeding Mr. Werfsof.

Two Refineries Cut Sugar Price

MONTREAL (CP) — Two Montreal sugar refineries — St. Lawrence and Canada Dominion — have announced a 10-cent reduction in the wholesale price of sugar to $13.50 a 100-pound bag.
The third major refinery, Atlantic Sugar, kept its price unchanged at $13.50 a 100-pound bag.
The last price change, in which all three refineries were involved, was a 3-cent increase to $13.60 a 100-pound bag April 27.
The price of sugar has changed 25 times this year — 21 increased and 12 decreased.
A spokesman for a retail food chain said Thursday's small dip will not affect current retail prices which are 78 cents a five pound bag and $1.35 a 10-pound bag.
