THE DAILY EXAMINER.

MARCH 9, 1889.

Our Book Table.

The March number of The Century has a very interesting paper on "Christian Ireland," the remains of many religious edifices being shown effectively by engravings, and valuable historic facts brought forward in such a manner that much light is reflected upon the modern form of Irish character, as shown in the nationalistic struggle for political independence.

The Irish "Correspondence of Miles Grogan" is a very good supplement article to "Christian Ireland."

The article on "Something Electric is Doing" is a good chapter of literature on the subject.

"The Use of Oil to Still Waves" is explained by Lieut. W. H. Beecher, U. S. N., very clearly, and demonstrates the value of this "friend in need" to still the troubled waters of seafaring peril.

The eighteen pages (pp. 718-736) devoted to York Cathedral, and so cleverly illustrated by Joseph Pennell, makes a "square meal" for those who feast on the historic past.

In short, there is very little opportunity afforded the faultfinder by this issue of this leading Magazine, while on the other hand every page readily suggests the great satisfaction it affords the intelligent reader.

The Century Illustrated Monthly Magazine is published in Union Square, New York City.

"How I Escaped," is a story of the four years' "unpleasantness" between the North and South sections of Uncle Sam's family. There are those who can be roused from apathy and forgetfulness by such warlike love stories—and here is one that will revive old memories in many a survivor of the Civil War, and teach others, perhaps, how to make love under martial difficulties. It is published by Publisher Robinson, of Montreal.

The volume which Mary Hallow Foots has called "John Bodewin's Testimony," is law suit, tragedy, and love, all in one. Tangles get unangled, mishapen affairs are given legal form, and at last the warmth of consecrated love smiles on John Bodewin, whose name really is his history, for he possessed the Bodewin faculty in a pronounced form, and came out of his honor-induced waiting, simply to win. J. T. Robinson, of Montreal, is the publisher.

One of the Canadian reprints of American popular novelists is called "The Truth about Tristram Varrick," and deals in the common form of trouble arising from envy, hatred and jealousy of one of two lovers of the same young lady—the result is murder, that effectual but risky mode of getting rid of a rival, and nobody realizes what was aimed at. But this is just what is likely to suit such minds as have not in their keeping the gist of the ten commandments, but think that aggressions, at their own poisoned wills, entail no retribution and cover no disgrace.

William Bryce, Publisher, Toronto, has issued a sort of petticoat-irate story, under the title of "Commodore Junk." It is a curious perversion of human employments, and though it makes a ripping satisfaction for any would-be outlaw, it does not make the girl-in-boy's-clothes a desirable object of imitation.

A MOVEMENT TO MAKE PUGWASH NO SCOTIA'S MART OF COMMERCE WITH P. E. ISLAND.

PUGWASH, March 5.—A communication was recently received here from a Charlottetown merchant asking Pugwash business men to co-operate with them in securing a subsidy for steamship service between Charlottetown and River John, Tatamagouche, Wallace, Pugwash and Baie Verte. In consequence, a public meeting was announced, when Councillor Wilson was called to the chair and H. C. Black appointed secretary. The objects of the meeting being explained and an informal discussion having taken place with regard to the relative merits of Pugwash in the premises, it was resolved that a committee be appointed to memorialize the Dominion government through Mr. Dickey, the county representative, with a view to having direct steam mail communication opened up between Pugwash and Charlottetown. The consideration of other matters, such as right of way, coal shipments and charge of I. C. R. at Spring Hill were discussed and the meeting closed with the unanimous opinion that Pugwash first should be the programme.

Pugwash does not want to handicap its neighbors, but the resolution reads "Pugwash by its geographical position is better qualified for trade with P. E. I. than any other gulf port," then it must necessarily follow that if this contention be true, Pugwash is the only place between Pictou and Point du Chene where summer trade can be carried on profitably with the Stanley, and so far as the winter trade is concerned no ice ever accumulates to prevent the passage of the Stanley or inferior boats between Pugwash and Crapaud. The Island people will be more benefited by a direct service to Pugwash than by the circuitous route proposed.

THE STANLEY arrived at Pictou about ten o'clock this morning.

THE MAILS.—One hundred and forty-nine bags of mails arrived in town about half-past twelve to-day.

The "Times"-Parnell Commission.

The Parnell Commission resumed its sitting on the 5th inst. Attorney-General Webster narrated the facts in relation to Pigott's communication from Madrid to Soames, the Times solicitor. He stated that another letter from Pigott was received to-day. It had been posted March 2. This letter was sent to Soames's office for "Mr. Bensonby." It was not read in court. Presiding Justice Hannen decided that the fact that the Irish World had raised money for the Irish cause, did not make a recipient of money responsible for articles in the paper, but it was an important link in the evidence referring to the distribution of newspapers inciting to outrages. He said the evidence proved that during 1880 and 1881, copies of the Irish World were sent either directly or indirectly from the Dublin League offices and were found in possession of league officials. Evidence on this point was admissible. The court assented to Dillon going to Australia for his health. Attorney-General Webster resumed the reading of articles from the Irish World, referring to Davitt's action in connection with the Home Rule movement. He also read a speech made by Dillon urging the destruction of the police who were engaged in protecting landlords.

Presiding Justice Hannen, on the 5th inst., protested against Attorney-General Webster reading the harshest reports of the anti-Parnell speeches made by Gladstone, Foster and other members of the House of Commons and said they were of no importance. A constable testified that in 1882 Walsh consigned a number of cases of revolvers to Egan and Flanagan.

Irish Affairs.

A Dublin telegram of the 5th reports that indications approaching the character of proof are coming to the surface of the complexity of the Times agents and of the possible connivance of the government officers in the flight of Pigott. The constables and detectives, appointed to protect and guard the informer, have got to satisfactorily explain the circumstances of his escape. It is reported that a letter has been found in Madrid, addressed to Pigott, by the assumed name of Parnell, in which the writer is supposed to be Shannon, the Dublin attorney of the Times, or Soames, the London solicitor, alludes to a promise to pay Pigott more money, and it is surmised this was to provide for him while abroad.

Parnell, finding it impossible to respond to the many letters he has received from Europe, congratulating him upon the collapse of the Times case against him, desires through the press, to heartily thank the writers of the letters. The communications received by Parnell comprise letters from unexpected quarters—sent from persons in the highest ranks of art, literature and science. Many of the writers say that revelations of the trial have converted them from Balfourism to Parnellism.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., March 6.—During the delivery of his address at Plymouth last evening, T. V. Powderly read a letter received by him last April from Henry Le Caron, one of the principal figures in the Parnell-Times prosecution. The letter discloses a plan for the destruction of property of the Missouri Pacific railway corporation, and continues: "Moral suasion, so good in the trial of some cases, becomes of no use when applied to such cold-hearted fiends as Jay Gould. You must not be expected to publicly countenance any but peaceful measures. You will not even know that any has been resorted to. All that you need will be to give me the names of those of your lieutenants along the Missouri and Pacific road, and I will attend to the rest, namely, those in whom you can place implicit confidence, and I will place in their hands material that will, if properly handled, destroy every bridge and culvert on the road. I have made a study of explosives and can give you an unfailing remedy for the wrongs your members complain of."

News Notes.

The population of Acadia Mines, N. S. is estimated to be 3,400, and its incorporation as a town is being talked of.

A strong effort is now being made to unite in one the States Guatemala, Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua and Costa Rica, and so re-establish the old republic of Central America. The five republics have a population of 3,500,000, and their imports, five-sixths of which are from Europe, amount to $25,000,000 yearly. So says the Guatemala Star.

The Dublin Freemason's Journal says that among Pigott's documents there were found letters from Lord Salisbury, Baron Staunbridge, the Duke of Argyll and the Earl of Derby. The letter of the Earl of Derby, the Journal says, shows that he had given money to help Pigott "unmask the Parnellites."

Mining Notes.

A valuable asbestos find is reported from Cape Breton. It is the first find of this mineral in veins in Nova Scotia.

A rumored new discovery of gold at Ardoise Hill, Hants County, has caused a rush at the mines office.

The company that purchased the Rose mine at Montague intend opening it up on the 15th inst., and are now hauling mining supplies.

Messrs. Hiseler, of this city, have sold a gold mine on the West side of Gold River, Chester Basin, to W. J. Nelson and T. B. Wade.

The discovery of three gold bearing leads at Beaver Harbor, near the Salmon River Archibald mine is reported. The discovery was made by Capt. Curry.—Hx. Mail
