JUDGE MARSHALL, of Nova Scotia, although near the close of his ninety-third year, is vigorous enough to write a book, which has just been published, on the public proceedings and events which he has witnessed in his time. The judge has been a most indefatigable writer in his day, and has written more and longer letters to the Halifax press than any other man in Nova Scotia.

NEW YORK, the commercial capital of the United States, makes the following exhibit for the week ended August 6th, 1879. It is not bad for a protection ruined country. For the week the exports have been very large, the total value shipped from that port adding up $7,765,809, this being the largest weekly total of this year. UNRECOVERED.—The report that the relatives and friends of the late A. T. Stewart had recovered his remains and paid a reward of $50,000 is untrue. A New York lawyer has banded to the Police Supt. of that city the Stewart coffin-plate and several silver handles and knobs. The lawyer promises, on behalf of his "client," to deliver to Judge Hilton the millionaire's body in a good state of preservation, for the sum of $260,000. The Judge wants to capture the robbers, and says he will not pay a single cent until he sees what he is going to get for his money.

"You can say," he continues to the reporter, "that I will leave the challenge open for two weeks." The champion says he is not feeling very well at present, but he will not allow this fact to be taken as a reason why he will not row with Riley to-day.

HOME SECRETARY CROSS ON BRITISH AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS.

LONDON, Aug. 20. R. Asheton Cross, Secretary of State for the Home Department, in a speech at Liverpool to-day on the depression of the agricultural interests in the United Kingdom, said that agriculturalists in the neighborhood of New York were suffering far more from the great importation of corn and cattle which came across from their great Western States than the British agriculturalists were suffering from the present depression. He was not alarmed at the great amount of food coming from America.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 20. The employes at the Ministry of War have refused to continue to discharge their duties, their salaries being in arrears. The War Office is consequently closed.

A FLORIDA man, who owns 150,000 cattle, and is richer than anybody else in the State, is a recluse, living in a shanty which has neither fireplace nor chimney. He sells his surplus cattle in Cuba, he seldom sees men; and he hides his money in cans on his land.
