

British Beef Markets.

A correspondent of the London Live Stock Journal writes:—"At our last fortnightly market, beef made an exceptionally high price. One of the best judges in the district gave it as his opinion that in some cases prime beasts realised quite 10d. per lb. A person I know bought in November last some little cross-bred Hereford calves at an average of £4 4s. each, and sold them by auction at this market at an average of £12 17s. 6d. each."

Arabi Poses as a Napoleon.

The correspondent of the Cologne Gazette says Arabi, at a meeting of his friends, declared that he would imitate Napoleon, create an empire, and re-establish united Arabia. On Friday last, on the way to the mosque, Arabi suddenly stopped, stamped his foot on the ground, declaring that God had revealed to him that the barrel of a sacred cannon had been buried at that spot. A hole was dug, and the barrel found.

The Arrears Bill.

A LONDON correspondent writes, July fifth:—"Parliament was occupied to-day with the consideration of the Arrears bill. Mr. Gladstone briefly explained the financial aspect of the measure, stating that in the opinion of the Government £2,500,000 would suffice to meet the expenditure under the Act, and pressing on Parliament the necessity of passing the measure rapidly. The utmost dissatisfaction was caused among the Irish members by the failure of the Prime Minister to pronounce definitely on the amendment proposed by Mr. Heneghan, which would compel the court to take into consideration the tenants' rights as the most part of his assets before declaring him unable to pay arrears. The object of this simple-looking amendment is to compel the court to sell out the tenant, and actually reduce him to beggary, before permitting him to obtain the advantages of the Arrears bill. Should the Government be unwise enough to accept this principle, the Arrears bill will prove a greater failure than the Land bill, and will probably become an additional source of disorder instead of a healing measure. The Irish party would be likely to vote against such a measure. An overwhelming majority of the Irish members of all shades of Liberal politics are certain to oppose the amendment."

Improving in the States.

COMMENTING upon the recent Fourth of July celebration, the Boston Journal says that "when one compares the celebration of Independence Day twenty-five or fifty years ago with those of recent years, he cannot fail to see that our people have made great progress in learning how to make use of a national anniversary. We have steadied down, so to speak, on these occasions. Even the Fourth of July orator has lost that exuberance which in the days of our fathers led him, as a rule, to ruffle the plumage of the national bird on such occasions. To-day, the orator speaks of practical and sober topics. He is content to be thoughtful and earnest. He would be ridiculed if he should give himself up to windy and turgid rhetoric. Another hopeful indication is the general sobriety of our people on a day when inebriety has been regarded as excusable. As a matter of course, there is some intemperance, but it is confined to a class who have no self-respect. Doubtless the zealous reformer, who is impatient at the slow progress which the people of this country are making toward his ideas, will not be satisfied with these indications of general improvement in customs and opinions of the masses, but the more hopeful workers, who do not expect miracles, will be encouraged by the abundant evidence that, as a people, we are rising slowly but surely to higher planes and to better things."

Egyptian Parties.

The following remarks, which were made to the correspondent of the London Times by an Egyptian Moslem of high position, but never in office, are perhaps worth quoting:—"Your statement and newspapers all make the mistake of trying to ascertain the views of the people, and of allowing their ideas of such views to influence them. There are only two parties in Egypt—the one consists of ragamuffins, who desire any sort of disturbance in the hope of getting something out of it; the other consists of all the rest, who wish to avoid disturbance for fear of losing what they have. Beyond this no party or political view exists in Egypt. As for Tewfik, Arabi, Halim, Ismail, no Egyptian cares a piastre for one of them if a disturbance can be thereby brought about; the other will support any one in order to obtain peace. No solution will please the one party; any solution will please the other. "But," I said, "the army at least care for Arabi; this is a third party." He said, "That is very nearly true, but not quite; with a little more time given him it might be entirely true. By continually relying on them and appealing to them, he is gradually creating an esprit de corps which every day grows stronger. Still, even now there are very few who would be faithful to him if they had any harder work than marching through Alexandria to do." "Would they fight for him I asked." "Yes, with women and children; but not with half their number of armed men. Near Sennax, on the Nile, 1,500 of them, armed with Remington rifles, met less than 2,000 followers of the false prophet, armed with Bedouin guns, sticks, and knives. They were led up in firm order. They fired one volley, took the rifles by the barrels, flung them into the crowd, and bolted."

The London correspondent of the Western Morning News says:—"A Canadian Deceased Wife's Sister Bill is coming before the Colonial Office for the Royal sanction this week. It has already been sanctioned by Lord Lorne, who is personally opposed to it, and I learn that it will without delay receive the sanction of the Queen. Lord Kimberley has openly stated that he will follow in this case other colonial precedents."

Famous Autographs.

Autograph hunters will have an opportunity to-morrow of making some valuable additions to their collections. At the bazaar, during the evening, there will be offered at auction the following world-famed names:— Her Majesty the Queen. Lord Lisgar. Lord Dufferin. Lord Hillsborough (1767). Complete set of the Bishops of Charlotte town. Complete set (with one exception) of all the Anglican Bishops of N. S. Complete set of the Island Governors. Gladstone. Granville. Forster (The late Chief Secretary for Ireland). Sir Stafford Northcote. Sir Fenwick Williams (The Hero of Kara). Jefferson Davis. Joseph Robinson (The great Loyalist). Wellington (The Iron Duke). Palmerston. Sir Robert Peel. Dean Stanley. Captain Marryat. Lord Lytton (Bulwer Lytton). Charles Dickens. Such an array of ecclesiastical, political and literary autographs is not often to be met with, and there will, doubtless, be some brisk bidding for the treasures.

Summerside Notes.

Dr. Bearsto has removed to his new house, lately purchased from Judge Kelly, after having refitted it at considerable expense. Healey's Hibernica Minstrels perform in Ludlow Hall on Tuesday evening next. Some of the Company were here last year and performed to a crowded house. The style of their entertainment always seems to draw in Summerside.

Quite a lively time was had at the office of Mr. James Campbell, J. P., to-day, a number of boys from Indian River having been summoned before him for throwing stones and breaking windows. Counsel were engaged on both sides and fought hard for their respective clients. Judgment has not yet been given, but I am informed the case will yet go to the Supreme Court.

L. B. Archibald, Esq., Railway Superintendent, passed through here yesterday, on his way West, and returned again to town in the evening.

Quite a handsome steam yacht came into the harbor on Wednesday evening, and left at five o'clock yesterday morning. It was reported that it belonged to a patent medicine dealer, who is on his way to the Thousand Islands on pleasure.

The Scott Act is being rigorously observed here, all the liquor dealers having closed their establishments.

The "boss tailor" has been making a tremendous display for the last few days, the street before his door being piled with boxes just arrived with summer goods, while his counters display one of the largest stocks of tweeds ever seen in Summerside.

Messrs. Clark, Roblee & Brown, of Summerside, are doing an immense business at their lobster factory, at Miminigash, this year. They have fifty-four hands, ten boats, and are putting up over a thousand cans of lobsters per day. Summerside, 7th July, 1882.

Over a Precipice.

A PLEASURE PARTY CARRIED DOWN TWO HUNDRED FEET—FOUR OF THEM KILLED.

(Sacramento, Cal., Union, June 26.)

On Saturday morning, on the road from Santa Cruz to Felton, and about three miles from the latter, a heavily-laden coach and four horses were thrown from the mountain road, with fatal consequences to several of the people on the vehicle. The party were returning from Santa Cruz to Camp Felton, and were residents of San Francisco. The moon was shining brightly, and the party was a gay and joyous one, but its pleasure was marred by a nervous feeling occasioned by the carelessness of the driver. Some of the party tried to get him to relinquish the lines to a former driver, who had driven the party to Santa Cruz on a hay wagon, which had become disabled, and for which the coach was substituted. Between tunnels Numbers 5 and 6, on the narrow gauge railroad, and at about 11.30 o'clock, a point 200 feet from the track was reached, when the stage suddenly went over the grade and rolled over and over until it struck the track below, a complete wreck. Three out of the company were killed in the descent, and one died in an hour after. Two others were seriously wounded, and the rest escaped with bruises and scratches. One young lady who was killed was badly bruised, cut about the face, and had severe injuries on other parts of the body. Her body, after striking the cliff above the railroad track, must have struck with terrible force, or been carried thither by the coach, as it was found on the other side of the track. At that point the bluff is about fifty feet in height and 200 feet of an incline from the scene of the accident. A boy of seventeen years had a terrible fate, as his skull was crushed in, and one of his legs broken in three places, and his spinal cord broken.

THE DRIVER.

When he got free from the wreck, exclaimed:—"Oh, God, forgive me! I am the only one to blame, as I did not know the road, and had no business to drive over it." He said that the bank caved away, but witnesses deny this, and say that he drove near the outer edge when he had five feet inside room, and continued to do so though remonstrated with about it. Where the coach went over the road was twelve feet before. Marks show that for seventy five feet before the coach had been driven on the outer edge of the road. An examination of the road showed that two heavy pine boards, two feet apart, projected over and beyond the road on the outside for a distance of three feet. The front wheels of the omnibus running upon this, passed in safety, but the hind wheels broke the boards off short, while at the same time, while the leaders were on the road, the wheel horses were plunging and rearing at the edge of the precipice, and, with the coach, rolled over and over to the bottom. Two of the horses were killed by the descent and one died afterward.

Three thousand Egyptians, under Gen. Yussuf, attacked a false prophet and have been defeated. They lost 2,000 men, 4 guns and 3,000 rifles. The false prophet, with 7,000 men is marching on Sennar.

Rear Admiral Anthony Hockins, one of the Junior Lords of the Admiralty, has been nominated for second officer in command of naval operations. He will probably proceed at once to Egypt. Startling Statistics.

In 1874, the Hon. Wilfred Laurier, leader of the Quebec Grits, was returned for Drummond and Arthabasca, by 238 majority. In 1877, when appealing to his constituents for re-election as Minister of Inland Revenue, he was defeated by 22. In 1878, the Liberal-Conservative majority in Drummond and Arthabasca was 162; in 1882 our majority was 610. And so we go on from conquering and to conquer! It is also worth noting that while in 1878 Mr. Laurier's majority in Quebec East was 778; in 1882 it had dwindled down to 475! In 1887 Mr. Laurier will, doubtless, join in the great army of defeated Grits—Huntington, Laflamme, Smith, Anglin, Jones, Killam, Cartwright, Mills, etc., etc. The two remaining Grit leaders are also booked for oblivion at the next general election, viz— Messrs. Blake and Mackenzie. In 1872, Mr. Mackenzie was elected to Parliament by 675 majority. In 1874, he was returned by a majority of 108 votes! Mr. Blake's case is even worse than that of Mr. Mackenzie. In 1867, he was returned for West Durham (his present constituency) by a majority of 406. In 1872, he was re-elected by acclamation, and also elected for South Bruce by a majority of 1,688. In 1882, he is only elected by the insignificant majority of 83 votes!! Truly the "re-action has set in," and is "sweeping over the country with irresistible fury" (vide Chronicle)!!! —Herald.
