MISREPRESENTING MR. MARTIN

SIR,—I was at the Eldon meeting and heard the discussion as conducted by the different speakers. The report in the Patriot is unfair as regards Mr. A. Martin, M. P. The Liberal speakers charged that Mr. Martin supported Premier Farquharson at the Pownal meeting last February, where a resolution was tabled saying that the surveys and plans for the construction of the Hillsborough bridge were completed. What Mr. Martin said, was that "in his innocence" he thought such was the case; but during the campaign Mr. D. A. McKinnon boasted of the great service he did at Moncton last September with the Engineer in making a plan for the bridge, that still later, while addressing a meeting at Ugg, Sir L. H. Davies, with a flourish, stated that he had devoted three days to the arduous labor of making the plan for the bridge, and actually rubbed the perspiration, which the effort caused, then from his brow, so lately was the work completed.

Mr. Martin pointed out that all this was trifling with an important question, that Mr. D. A. McKinnon was only trying to exploit the railway and bridge for election purposes, that the people of Pownal at the meeting last February were told that the plans and surveys were finished, that the Provincial Legislature was told the same last April, that it appeared the plan was only finished a few days ago,—and to crown the whole absurdity, the survey was now going on.

It appears that Mr. D. A. McKinnon or some one for him rushed to the Patriot with a false report in order to revenge for the exhibition he made of himself.

OLD LIBERAL.

Belfast, Nov. 24th, 1899.

HE WANTS TO KNOW.

SIR,—Can you tell why Sir L. H. Davies went through Belfast and Murray Harbor with a plan for the Hillsborough Bridge and refused to bring the agreement between the Minister of Railways and our Provincial Government for its construction? We could not understand the plan, but we think we could understand the agreement. The people here think there is something wrong. We heard the survey was going on—after the plan was finished. Do you think Mr. Blair would make the agreement before he knew where the bridge was to be built or before the survey was finished? We think, here, that he would require to know where the bridge was to be built, and the cost, before he would sign an agreement. It looks bad, and I and others would like to know. I hope there will be plenty room for wagons and carts. We heard here that the Attorney-General thought that a cart axle was 3½ feet long—and that the plan had to be changed. The price for potatoes and farm produce is very low. Some people thought, when Sir Louis produced the plan for the bridge, that it was the Reciprocity Treaty and that the price of potatoes would go up.

OBITUARY.

At Burlington, on Nov 27th, Laura Brauder, daughter of Mr. Arca. Brauder, calmly breathed her last, at the tender age of twelve years. About year ago she was compelled to leave school on account of failing health, and, as her disease showed no serious aspect, it was thought that a short rest would restore her usual good health. But diabetes in violent form set in, and the best medical skill failed to assist its awful progress or even delay its inevitable consummation. Her death was one of those which verify the adage, "The good die young." Her character was beyond reproach. Her predominant virtue was perfect obedience. The writer cannot recall, in a tutorship of two years, a single act that could merit even a mild reproof.

She possessed intellectual powers rarely found in one so young and a judgment commended by few twice her years. In a word, she had all the qualities that constitute a great and noble character; and had her life been spared, her influence for good would have been widely felt. But for all these prospects of a bright future, she would not return from the state of happiness which she now enjoys, but will earnestly beseech the Most High that, when the fullness of time shall have come, she will be joined by her many school mates with whom she was a favorite and by her parents and friends who she loved so well and who now mourn their sad loss. The funeral was large. The last sad rites were pronounced by Rev. Charles McKay.—Com.

WICTIMS OF THE WEATHER.

Georgian Bay District Thankful for Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Kincardine, Dec 4.—This month has been the worst in years in the Lake Huron and Georgian Bay districts. Victims of rheumatism who probably keep a closer tab on the climatic variations than other people are all loud in their assertions as to this reason being a record breaker for dampness and raw biting winds. If these good people instead of keeping tabs on the weather would follow the example of Herbert Brown, of Watson and Malcolm's Furniture Factory, Kincardine, they would be conferring a blessing upon themselves.

Mr. Brown says, "I had been feeling very bad with backache from my kidneys, (Lumbago, a form of rheumatism.) I have taken three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and the pain has left me."
