Card Party Aids Retarded Ass'n

ALBERTON — Alberton branch of the Retarded Children's Association sponsored a card party for which Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Rooney offered the hospitality of their home Friday evening.

Prizes of "Maple Tree Craft" were donated by Herbert Leavitt.

Financial proceeds were most gratifying and will be used to pay the community's share of the supplement and travelling expenses of the teacher of the retarded children and to provide materials for use in the classroom.

The first prize was presented to Mrs. Charles Barrett and Donnie O'Brien, and consolations to Pamela Rooney and Bobby Boyce. The freezeout was won by Mrs. Charles Barrett.

5,000 PROTEST

PARIS (AP)—Five thousand students demonstrated Thursday in Paris' Latin Quarter to protest conditions in French universities. Students of the faculty of letters formed a long parade with signs protesting lack of sufficient university buildings, lodging and university restaurants. The students demanded government allocations to improve conditions.

UN Assembly Votes To Hold Trade Talks

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Thanks to a compromise engineered by Canada, the 17th United Nations General Assembly voted by an avalanche Saturday to hold a world trade conference by early 1964.

Termed by Muhammed Zafrulla Khan, assembly president, one of the most important actions of the current session, the vote means that the world's biggest trading nations have joined "whole-heartedly" in the project to examine the problems of underdeveloped nations.

Canada's key role was to solve a bitter conflict over the timing of the conference and the issue was in doubt until the vote—actually a series of ballots—was taken.

The assembly's 110 - member economic committee had recommended that the conference be held no later than September, 1963, over the objections of the United States, Britain, France and other countries which, in effect, threatened to boycott the affair.

The big Western trading nations contended such a conference would be a flop without thorough preparation and could not be held until 1964.

HOLDS PRIVATE TALKS

The situation developed into a stalemate between the "have" countries and the "have-nots." With both sides taking an adamant stand, Senator F. M. Blois of Nova Scotia, Canadian delegate to the economic committee, held some 50 private meetings with various delegations, including the Russians.

Canada, co - sponsored by Peru, finally introduced an amendment Friday proposing that the conference be held as soon as possible after July "but in no event later than early 1964" and it was this compromise that the assembly approved during the unusual all-day meeting Saturday.

The vote on the amended resolution was 90 to 0 with one abstention, Cameroon. On a separate ballot on the Canadian timing amendment, the Soviet bloc abstained and the vote was 72 to 0 with 11 abstentions.

Canada-Peru presented a second amendment designed to introduce a "gradual" concept into the resolution's demand for the removal of trade barriers by such groupings as the European Common Market. Bitterly contested by Russia, this amendment was approved 70 to 9 with three abstentions.

DEFEATS RUSSIAN BID

Under the terms of the resolution, all 110 UN members will be invited to the conference and he assembly defeated a Soviet-bloc bid that such nonmembers as Red China and East Germany also be invited. The vote was 27 to 44 with 18 abstentions.

The importance of Saturday's compromise was pointed up by a comparison with the vote when the resolution left the committee—in favor, 10 against and 23 abstentions.

"I'm delighted at the progress we made," Blois said.

Looming large in the background of debate and vote was the issue of the Common Market. The underdeveloped countries were particularly anxious that the conference be held before Britain's proposed entry into the Six.

Fred is a student at Carleton College in Ottawa. The latest report concerning his condition is that he has regained consciousness.

PM Is Silent On Wage Freeze

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Saturday he had "no comment to make on that" when asked at the close of a cabinet meeting about a report that the government's freeze on civil service salary increases has been lifted.

This was the general official reaction Saturday to the report.

"I don't know a thing about it," said a top spokesman in the office of Finance Minister Nowlan.

Heads of civil service staff groups said they have received no word from the government on lifting of the freeze, imposed after the government's June 24 program to cut costs and handle foreign exchange difficulties.

LOOK WHY THEY'RE BUYING
THE 4-WHEEL DRIVE SCOUT!

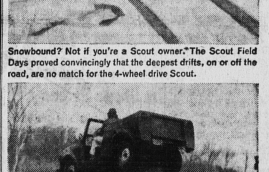
These pictures, snapped during recent Scout Field Days, help to explain why the new Scout has made International the undisputed 4-wheel drive sales leader in Canada.

Hundreds of prospects climbed into the driver's seat and took the Scout over a no-holds-barred two-mile course that at times was blanketed with deep, wet snow. Mud was churned into troughs nearly two feet deep. The rain-swollen creek made engines steam—but not stall. The Scout zipped up steep hillsides slimy with mud.

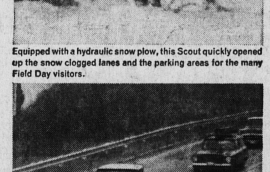
It was an experience that the drivers would not soon forget. They proved for themselves (as you can too) that nothing can stop the Scout.

Snowbound? Not if you're a Scout owner. The Scout Field Days proved convincingly that the deepest drifts, on or off the road, are no match for the 4-wheel drive Scout.

Equipped with a hydraulic snow plow, this Scout quickly opened up the snow clogged lanes and the parking areas for the many Field Day visitors.



Taking to the air after cresting a steep hill, the Scout lands with a crunch that would seriously damage most trucks—but not the Scout, even after repeated landings.



Then, off the rugged Field Day course on to the highway where the smooth-riding, easy-handling 4-cylinder Scout converts in seconds to 2-wheel drive.

Heavy rains and snow turned sections of the Field Day course into quagmires and proved that deep-rutted farm lanes, construction sites and wilderness trails are made to order for the 4-wheel drive and high clearance of the Scout.
