Twenty-two women and children, the first of 1,819 American dependents ordered out of South Viet Nam by President Johnson, arrived in the United States Tuesday. Here Mrs. W.L. Sterzak and her daughter, Shaerry Lyn, 4, seemed puzzled as they arrived at International airport in Honolulu. Mrs. Sterzak, wife of a U.S. Army major, is headed for Michigan. (AP Wirephoto)

Redistribution Bill Is Expected In N.S.

By ED WALTERS
HALIFAX (CP)—The Nova Scotia legislature today begins a session in which Premier Robert L. Stanfield's Progressive Conservative government will outbursts the Liberal opposition 39-4.

There are no other parties represented in the 43-seat house.

The Liberals lost their leader last year when Earl Urquhart resigned after his defeat in Richmond in the 1963 provincial election.

Peter Nicholson, Liberal House leader, says he plans to accuse the government of patronage in awarding of construction contracts.

Legislation expected to come before the House may include a redistribution bill. The last Redistribution Act was passed in 1955 when representation was increased to the present number from 37.

Speculation on redistribution is rife in an area of population increase in urban areas without a corresponding increase in rural ridings.

be attended by a 100-man guard of honor from the 1st Battalion of the Black Watch, part of the Royal Highland Regiment stationed at Camp Gagetown, N.B. Lieutenant-Governor H. P. MacKeen will read the speech from the throne.

Lesage Has Warning On Pension Plan

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean Lesage warned Tuesday that anyone who quits a private pension plan in anticipation of Quebec's public plan is doing himself a disservice.

The premier told the legislature he has learned that some wage-earners are quitting private plans and withdrawing their contributions under the impression Quebec's plan will provide an adequate replacement.

The portable and contributory public plan is scheduled to go into operation Jan. 1, 1968.

COVER NOT COMPLETE

"I want to insist on the fact that the Quebec pension plan won't necessarily make the need for supplementary protection disappear and this ought to come from private plans," he said.

"The protection given by the Quebec plan will constitute a first level of protection and each citizen should decide on his own what degree of additional protection he needs."

"Persons who abandon their private plan thus may be doing themselves a disservice."

Mr. Lesage said there is a belief the government may appropriate reserves in private plans when its own goes into operation.

"This is totally false. Far from appropriating them, the government is taking steps to establish norms for the solvency of private plans to protect the rights of those covered by them."

MAY DISCUSS REPORT

The report of the royal commission on leading practices in the province, headed by Halifax lawyer Arthur Moreira, may also be dealt with. Mr. Moreira did not have his full report ready for the last session.

The idea of Maritime union, an historic concept resurrected last year by Premier Robichaud of New Brunswick, is likely to be at least discussed.

Maritime union would mean amalgamation of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and possibly Newfoundland into one province.

The government may also introduce legislation to provide for construction of one or more new bridges across Halifax harbor. The Angus L. Macdonald Bridge between Halifax and Dartmouth is the only link now.

Engineering reports submitted to the Halifax-Dartmouth Bridge Commission have called for a second harbor crossing and a bridge across the north-west arm to link Halifax with its more populous suburbs to the east of the city.

The opening at Province House in downtown Halifax will
