THE DAILY EXAMINER.

DECEMBER 1, 1881.

The Intercolonial Railway.

THE people of Moncton presented Sir Charles Tupper with an address; and in the course of his reply Sir Charles submitted the following record of the business of the Intercolonial Railway:

Table with 2 columns: Year, Revenue. 1878-9 under Mr. Brydges: $1,284,089; 1880-1: 1,760,193. Increase in two years: $466,294.

Then we will go a little further:

Table with 2 columns: Metric, Value. Expenditure per train mile, '78-9: .95; '80-1: .62. Difference: .32.

"In 1878-9 it cost $1.55 to earn $1, and you know how fast a person would get rich at that rate. In 1880-1, a little less than one dollar was required to earn a dollar; in other words the road was earning a small amount. Thus it will be seen the pledge of economy has been redeemed. He had some other further figures. In 1878-9 the train miles run was 2,111,426; in 1880-1, 2,813,723—difference 702,297. In 1878-9 the number of tons of freight carried was 510,861; in 1880-1 it was 725,577—difference 214,716, or enough to fill 21,471 box cars.

The "Patriot" and the Southport Ferry.

THE Patriot of last evening attacks the Government on account of insufficiency of boat accommodation on the Southport Ferry. The editor accuses the Government of "neglect" and "indifference" which he describes as "shameful" and "simply disgraceful."

Of course this language is just what might have been expected from the Patriot when speaking of the acts of "hateful Tories." But when we remember that the Southport Ferry is being conducted in strict accordance with a contract entered into by the Davies Government, it is easy to perceive that the organ, in its usual blundering way, has "put its foot in it."

It will be somewhat amusing to observe the manner in which the editor will squirm out of the blunder which he has made. Somebody will be served with a dish of Billingsgate, so as to direct attention from the way in which the awkward marksman has hit his friends. Like Mark Twain with a pistol, the editor of the Patriot may be a "dangerous" man, with a pen, but he is not "reliable."

The Local Government and the Scott Act.

SOME of the correspondents of our daily contemporary appear to be suspicious that the Government are not sincere in carrying out the Scott Act, and appeal to the drinking practised in Queen's County in proof. Now, what are the facts? The representative Temperance men of the Province asked last spring that Inspectors should be appointed. Their request was granted and an Inspector appointed in each County—the men being nominated by the Alliance. A vacancy occurred in King's County during the autumn, and at the first meeting of the Executive Council held thereafter, Mr. Edward Lane, of New Perth, was appointed—he being recommended for that position by the Alliance.

The Cape Tormentine Railway.

MR. TOWNSEND, M. P. P. for Cumberland, N. S., said to a Halifax Herald reporter: "With regard to the Cape Tormentine Railway, I think it must come in time, and will be a great boon to Amherst, making, as it will, this place a centre of the P. E. Island traffic. But its construction will depend largely on the wishes of the Islanders themselves."

St. Andrew's Day.

THE members of the Caledonian Club met at their Club Room last evening, at eight o'clock, and, after the transaction of business, they, headed by their piper, proceeded to the Rankin, where the annual St. Andrew's Dinner was prepared. The Chair was taken by John A. McDonnell, Esq., President of the Club, and J. W. Morrison, Esq., acted as efficient croupier. Among the guests were Col. Dunn, U. S. Consul, James Reddin, Esq., and Henry Lawson, Esq. The dinner was prepared in the best style of the Rankin, and fully sustained the reputation of the caterers for good taste. Every delicacy obtainable at the present season was provided, and the host and hostess were very properly complimented on the manner in which they served up the viands. The following was the MENU: SOUP, Barley Broth, Consomme. FISH, Boiled Salmon, Hollandaise Sauce, Fried Trout, Sardines. BOILED, Leg of Mutton, Capers Sauce, Turkey, Oyster Sauce, Sugar Cured Ham, Smoked Tongue, Corned Beef. ROAST, Ham Glace, Champagne Sauce, Spring Lamb, Mint Sauce, Turkey, Giblet Sauce, Sirloin Beef, Horse Radish, Goose, Cranberry Sauce. COLD, Tongue, Pressed Corn Beef, Boiled Ham, Lobster, Roast Turkey, Roast Chickens, Roast Beef, Potato Salad. ENTREES, Chicken saute a la Marango, Oyster Patties a la creme, Lamb Chops, fried with Puree of Celery. VEGETABLES, Mashed Potatoes, Boiled Heminy, Stewed Tomatoes, Celery, Spring Beans, Beets, Cabbage. SCOTCH HAGGIES, Partridge and Jugged Hare. PASTRY, English Plum Pudding, Wine Sauce, Apple Pie, Blackberry Pie, Cup Custards, Gooseberry Pie, Holland Cream, Jelly Roll. DESSERT, Apples, Oranges, Compot of Pears, Cheese, Grapes, Nuts, Vanilla Ice Cream, Raisins, Tea, Coffee, Cake.

We must not forget to note that among the dishes was the "Haggis," a dish well known to the "Sons of the Heather," and judging from our observations last evening, thoroughly relished by them. When ample justice was done to the good things provided, the intellectual part of the programme was commenced, and the following toasts were honored in cold water!—The day we celebrate, and all who honor it.—Responded to by A. McNeill, and W. Sharkey, Esq's. The Queen, God bless her. The Princess Louise and the Governor-General.—Responded to by A. McNeill, Esq. The President of the United States.—Responded to by Col. Dunn, American Consul. The Lieutenant Governor.—Responded to by W. C. DesBrisay, Esq. The land of the heather.—Responded to by Prof. Caven. The Parliament of the Dominion.—Responded to by D. Small, Esq. Our local Legislature.—Responded to by A. A. McLean, Esq. Press.—Responded to by H. Lawson, Esq., and P. McQuaid. Agriculture and Commerce.—Responded to by J. McNeill, Esq. The army, navy and volunteers.—Responded to by Capt. J. D. Irving, Capt. D. McRae. The clergy of all denominations.—Responded to by John W. Morrison, Esq. The bench and the bar.—Responded to by A. A. McLean, Esq., J. A. McDonald, Esq. Sister Societies.—Responded to by James Reddin. The Ladies.—Responded to by E. Palmer. Absent friends.—Responded to by Arch. McNeill, Esq. The usual number of volunteer toasts were drunk. Professor Caven favored the assembly with a number of Scottish songs, which were well received; and Mr. J. A. Morrison, of the North British Society, gave a recitation, which was loudly applauded. At a late hour "Our next Merry Meeting" was enthusiastically drunk and the party dispersed.

Bank of P. E. Island.

MR. FISCHE has finished his investigation, and gone home. There is nothing new to report. A member of the staff of the Bank of Montreal, is here to see after its interests.

Personal.

EMPEROR WILLIAM has resumed the transaction of official business. MRS. GARFIELD has placed the literary remains of her husband under the personal charge of Colonel Rockwell. She receives every day from thirty to sixty letters begging for money. HON. SIR HECTOR LANGEVIN is confined to his residence in consequence of continued suffering from inflammation of his eyes. REV. JOHN LATHERN, the popular President of the Nova Scotia Conference, now stationed at Yarmouth, has accepted a call to the pastorate of the Methodist Church at Windsor for next year. It has been well said that writing for the press is like making sugar—the more you boil it down the sweeter it gets. There is nothing like condensation unless it be more condensation. It is rumored in Manitoba that a new election for a member of the House of Commons will soon be held in the County of Provencher, as Mr. Joseph Royal, the present member is about to accept a responsible position in the new French-Belgian Colonization Society. THE London Daily News says:—"It seems obvious that the question of Guiteau's sanity and responsibility is a matter of word-chopping and psychological casuistry. Guiteau is perfectly well aware of the nature of his act. We might say Guiteau was crazed just as many people are called 'crazed,' who are yet acknowledged to be fit to control their own affairs. If Guiteau is declared to be insane a vast number of people like him, feather-brained, conceited fools, will justly infer that they too may indulge in eccentricities and murder. Owing to the number of outrages and the powerlessness of the police to check them, the streets of Liverpool are now unsafe for woman, girl, or child to traverse unprotected after dark.

The Beautiful Snow.

THE flowers of the forest, in Spring-tide were gay. And loud sang the warblers, their wild woodland lay. New hushed is the greenwood, where bright streamlets flow, They murmur in sleep, 'neath the beautiful snow.

The sun sat in crimson, and gray was the sky, Not a whisper was heard,—not an echo, reply. When morning awoke, in the sun's golden glow, The world was arrayed in the beautiful snow.

Like the beard of the thistle that floats over the sea, Or the silvery down, from the tall Poplar-tree, And long ere the rooster his claxon did blow, The landscape was decked in the beautiful snow.

It fell on the mountains, it fell on the plains, On tower, wood, and pasture, where dull cattle range, Like Beauty arrayed in her gay bridal show, The Earth donned her mantle of beautiful snow!

The purr of the streamlet, so sweet to the ear, Is lulled in a casement of crystal so clear; And the bright finny tenants that sport to and fro, Are wrapt in the shade of the beautiful snow.

Peer Robin! now calls from his haunt in the grove, And chirps a petition, our pity to move, Becomes our domestic,—a crumb to him throw, His trotters are chilled with the beautiful snow.

Fair offering of merrcy,—kind boon from above, To roll us in vestments of Heaven's pure love! Nor doubt we're forgot, in this cold world below, Or question who sends us, the beautiful snow!

From plain and from valley, the bells gayly ring, And fleet flies our steed, like a bird on the wing. We rival the train,—and all racers below, And sweep, like the wind, o'er the beautiful snow!

How jolly to dash in the fur-covered sleigh, To the chime of the bells, o'er the crystalline way! While pleasure exhilarates,—lights such a glow, To the speed of our flight, o'er the beautiful snow!
