Paid His Way.

(Hamlin Garland, in America.)
I ain't complain' any,
I'll go if I think it's right,
I don't ask nary a bite n'r a penny,
More n'r less'n jest what's white.

But Steve, bimby when the old man's laid out,
Remember the words I say,
Yo' don't like t' have me round h'yere,
But I reckon I've paid m' way!

I'm eighty-one next Janooary—
Born in the Buckeye State—
I've opened two farms on the prairie,
An' worked on 'em early an' late,
Come rain 'r come shine, a-scrappin' t' earn
Every mouthful we eat, an' I want to say
That I never rode in no free concern
That I didn't pay m' way!

Your mother an' me worked long an' hard,
How hard you'll never know!
Bearin' the heat and standin' guard
T' keep off the rain and snow.
The mortgage kep' eatin' in nearer th' bone,
An' the war it come along, too—
But I wait—left mother alone
With sis in the cradle and you!

Served m' time and agin commenced
On an low prairie quarter—
An' then I plowed an' sowed an' fenced
An' niggid as no human orter,
T' raise m' babes an' feed m' wife;
An' mother scrimped till her hair was gray,
We didn't lead no joke of a life.
But I reckon we paid our way!

No high-toned tavern ain't good enough
F'r a man like me t' die in;
The work that's made me crooked and rough
Should a earned me a bed to lie in
Under the roof of my only son—
If his wife is proud an' gay—
F'r I boosted you into the place y've won,
Oh, I reckon I've paid m' way!

Y'r wife, I know, is powerful set,
An' mighty handsome t' see,
But I can tell it's a turrible fret
This havin' t' eat with me.
She never speaks an' never seems
To be listenin' t' what I say;
But the children does, and never dreams
Their 'grandad's' in the way!

An' so you're wantin' to board me round,
Well—mother's heart 'd be broke
If she weren't safe sleeping under ground,
N't hearin' the words y've spoke.
She'd allow I'd ought to live here
What time I've got to stay—
For, Stephen, I've travelled f'r fifty years
An' I've always paid m' way!

I ain't goin' t' bother y' long,
F'r soon I'll pioneer further west
Beyond the river, where God'll say
"Take it easy, Amos, you've earned a rest."
So, Steve, I want to stay with you,
An' I want to work while I stay;
Just give me a little sumpin' t' do—
I reckon I'll pay m' way!

Cardigan Notes.

On Monday, the 25th inst., a handsomely modelled and well finished brigantine, of about 180 tons register, was launched from the shipyard of James E. Macdonald, Esq., at Chariguan Bridge. This vessel has been thoroughly well built of seasoned material, under inspection of Hon. L. C. Owen, Surveyor for American Lloyds, and is classed A1, 7 years, in that register. The owners, James E. Macdonald and Capt. James Mustard, are to be congratulated upon having obtained so excellent a ship, and we trust their enterprise will be handsomely rewarded. She will be named the "Coriscian."

The schooner Cardigan arrived on the 25th inst. from St. Peter's Canal, C. B., with a cargo of limestone, and will load for St. Pierre, Miquelon, this week.

The annual school meeting for the Cardigan Bridge School District was held in the Schoolhouse, on Tuesday, the 19th inst. The unusual circumstance of an energetic canvas being made by John G. Scrimgeour, Esq., M. L. C., for the position of trustee, created great excitement, more particularly as it was rumored that Mr. Scrimgeour was averse to Mr. George Dewar, the very able and efficient principal of the school, being continued in that situation; and a lively meeting was accordingly held. Those who favored Mr. Dewar being continued, nominated Mr. D. C. Morson for trustee in place of Mr. D. S. McLaren, whose term had expired, and notwithstanding Mr. Morson's absence from the meeting, elected him by a considerable majority of qualified voters. Mr. Scrimgeour was very much disappointed at the result, as he had worked hard to gain the coveted position; but the people of Cardigan know how to appreciate a good teacher, and would not gratify the personal feelings of one or two persons who try to vent their political and private spleen on an innocent and unoffending young man. Mr. J. Parker, the efficient secretary of the Trustees, submitted the accounts for the past year, by which it was shown that over $100 of the debt on the school building had been paid, besides ordinary running expenses. The usual amounts were voted as supplement to the teachers and for running expenses, and after passing a vote of thanks to the Chairman, Mr. John J. Campbell, the meeting dispersed.

We understand that the Commissioners for King's County Exhibition, 1888, will hold a meeting in Georgetown, the 30th June, inst., and, no doubt, a goodly number will be in attendance, out of the eighty Commissioners who have been appointed by the Government.

June 26th.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain; and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, and take no other kind. [April 1 '88

Savage Harbor Notes.

The crops in this vicinity look fine since the recent rains, and if the weather continues favorable for the next six weeks an abundant yield will be assured.

The farmer in this case is more fortunate than his brother, the fisherman. Lobster canners report the fish unprecedentedly scarce, and if the catch for the balance of the season is no better than for the first three weeks, the output of the factories on the North side at least will be comparatively small, as compared with other years.

The mackerel fishery, however, promises to be prosecuted more vigorously than in former years. An enterprising gentleman at Mount Stewart has just purchased a first-class seine, and with a fine schooner and experienced crew, purposes capturing a large share of the blue-backed beauties. We wish him all possible success in his enterprise.

We had a visit last week from an itinerant clock and watch repairer from Charlottetown, who, after being hospitably treated by us all, and fleecing us to the tune of ten or twelve dollars for his supposed services, succeeded in stopping every time-piece in the settlement with which he had anything to do. In addition to his watch repairing business, he sold some little articles of merchandise, just enough to have him fined if the Inspector of Peddlers' Licenses was doing his duty. It is supposed that another chum of his will put in an appearance in a short time to repair his blunders and thus fleece us of an additional sum; but should he show up we promise him a warm reception. No respectable jury would punish a man for horse-whipping such dishonest scoundrels. We warn the unsuspecting in other parts of the country to beware of this oily-tongued scamp.

JUSTICE.
Savage Harbor, June 25, 1888.

Stanley's Peril.

A despatch from St. Paul de Loanda says: "Several deserters from Stanley's expedition have reached Camp Yambouga. They state that after traversing the Upper Arawahim, Stanley struck into a rough, mountainous country, covered with dense forests. The natives were excited by reports spread by the Arabs, and disputed passage of the expedition. There was continuous fighting, and Stanley was severely wounded by an arrow. He was compelled several times to construct camps to repel the attacks, and was obliged to use the reserve provisions intended for Emin Bay. The Sudanese attached to the force all died or disappeared. The deserted estimate that the caravan lost one-third of its men, and say that many of those remaining are ill, including all the Europeans. Stanley was encamped when the deserters left, surrounded by hostiles, and unable to send news to Emin Bay, or to Yambouga. Maj. Bartlett had returned to Yambouga, where he was awaiting men. Ward was collecting to form a powerful expedition to go to the relief of Stanley. The sickness at Yambouga was lessening but only eighty of 125 Zanzibese survived. Tippo Tip recruited 62 men to form two caravans and started for the interior about the end of January. Ward left Boma, May 30, for Leopoldville, where he was to bring men and provisions. The time the deserters left Stanley is uncertain. Gov. Jansen left Congo on the 15th inst., on his way to Europe to consult regarding sending assistance to Stanley.

A Device for the Little Ones.

BY MRS. C. SIMPSON.

I send you a little device which I use in the primary room to inculcate good manners. I found these lines in a paper:—

"A bunch of golden keys is mine
To make each day with gladness shine.
'Good morning!' that's the golden key
That unlocks every door for me.
When evening comes 'Good night!' I say
And close the door of each glad day.
When at the table 'If you please'
I take from off my bunch of keys,
When friends give anything to me
I'll use the little 'Thank you' key.
'Excuse me!' 'Beg your pardon!' too,
When by mistake some harm I do.
Or, if unkindly harm I've given,
With the 'Forgive me' key I'll be forgiven.
On a golden ring those keys I'll bind,
This is my motto 'Be ye kind.'
I'll often use each golden key,
And then a polite child I'll be."

The principal of the school, who is a fine artist, drew for me a picture of a barefoot child holding a scroll. On this scroll is drawn a ring of golden keys. The lower part of each key is ingeniously drawn to represent an initial letter of the little expression to be learned. For instance, the lower part of one key has the letter I, suggestive of "If you please," another the letter T for "Thank you." At the bottom of the scroll are these words: "Golden Keys." It is a charming picture I think. A child takes the pointer and goes to it, recites the lines, pointing to the keys while reciting.—North-west Teacher.

Virtue in Onions and Beef.

What is the most strengthening food for a convalescent? Well, you know the beef-tea theory has been exploded. The most life-giving and digestible food that can be given to one just recovering from an illness is chopped beef. Just take a pound of the finest round of raw beef, cut off all the fat, slice two onions and meat together, turning them over and over until both are reduced almost to a pulp. Then spread on slices of rye bread and eat as sandwiches. People talk about celery being a nerve, but let me tell you that there is nothing which quiets the nerves without bad results like onions. The use of them induces sleep, and much strength is obtained from them. That is my ideal food for those convalescing, or for anyone who is in a weak state of health.—Kansas City Star.
