

City Cancer Drive Objective In Sight

The City Cancer Campaign objective is in sight, with 80 per cent of the quota being turned in up to last night.

A number of teams have not yet completed their canvass and in other cases donors were away and could not be contacted. However, when complete returns are filed it is confidently expected that the City objective of $5,000 will be reached.

Campaign workers will keep right on the job until all their calls are made in order that the funds necessary for cancer control may be provided.

Councillor W. H. Beaton, City chairman, will be receiving returns at his Auction Rooms every day and urges every worker to do his utmost to put the campaign over the top.

Division No. 2, commanded by Frank G. O'Neill, led in the returns made last night. The team prize was won by the team captained by Leo Callaghan of Division No. 5. Members of the team were: Howard MacInnis, Alan "Toby" MacMillan and Fred Norton.

Large Scale Production & Processing Of Honey By Island War Veteran

Heads Manufacturers

Mr. Hugh Crombie, vice president and treasurer of the Dominion Engineering Works Ltd., Montreal, who was recently elected President of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association at the Association's annual meeting in Quebec City.

The production and processing of honey on a large scale is being carried on at Winsloe by Mr. Dennis G. Neal, a veteran of World War 2, who has been building up his operations steadily since he started with 25 hives in 1946. With the demand for honey good this year, he has already processed 9,000 lbs., and expects to reach a total of 14,000 lbs. by the end of the season. He now has 130 hives.

Mr. Neal stated that the bulk of his product is sold through local wholesalers, and if marketing conditions remain favourable, he has plans for further expansion next year. Production in 1950 was 8,000 lbs., one ton of which was shipped out of the Province, and 180 lbs. of wax, which he sells to candle makers or to makers of bee-keeper supplies.

The processing commences when the bees have filled the comb and capped it with a coat of wax. An escape board is placed under the combs and a period of forty-eight hours is allowed for the bees to evacuate the hive before lifting the combs from the hive, usually eight to ten per hive. These are then taken to the processing plant, where Mr. Neal, using an electrically-heated plane, strips the wax from the combs, and places it on a heated tray to be collected in pails after it melts.

The honey-filled combs are put into a centrifugal extracting machine, which, spinning rapidly, forces out the honey on to the walls of the machine, from where it seeps down to form a pool at the bottom. After the honey is pumped up to a strainer, where it passes through a series of screens to remove all impurities, it runs into a settling tank which has a capacity of one ton, and a waiting period of twenty-four hours is allowed to elapse before any pouring is commenced.

Three to four hundred combs a day are processed by Mr. Neal, with the season usually running from the beginning of August to the end of October. The honey runs from a clear white to a beautiful golden amber, dependent upon the standard of grading.

Some interesting facts about bees were given by Mr. Neal, who does not winter his bees, but buys fresh stock every year. They are bought by the pound, approximately 5,000 to the pound, and after the queen bee matures in sixteen days, she lays more than her own weight in eggs every day, 2-3,000, building the swarm up to 50-70,000 bees.

The queen is the only fully developed female in the hive, the undeveloped females being the workers, which reach maturity in 21 days and are hatched from fertilized eggs. The queen matures in 24 days. The queen is placed in the lower box of the hive, and is confined to the two brood chambers there by a queen-excluder placed above, but which allows the other bees to pass through.

The ten combs comprising the "super", with a foundation of wax bearing the impression of the comb in them, are put into the hive after the bees have thoroughly cleaned the combs and built them up to their final shape, the collection of honey is commenced.

Mr. Neal is a native of Saskatchewan and is married to Francis, daughter of the late Mr. F. S. Reeves, and Mrs. Reeves, of Southport, P.E.I. They have one daughter, Patricia, aged three years.

The visit to the busy processing plant was arranged through the courtesy of Mr. Chester E. Shaw, district inspector of the Fruit and Vegetable Division of the Department of Agriculture, and Mr. Stewart MacFarlane, canning inspector of the same branch.

Board Reports Keen Interest In Florida Seed Potato Test

Widespread interest is being taken in the arrangements made by the Potato Marketing Board to conduct a Florida test of Island seed potatoes this fall and winter. The object of this test is to obtain advance information on the extent to which such virus diseases as Leaf Roll, Mosaic and Spindle Tuber may have spread in our seed potato fields this year.

The information (disease readings) thus obtained is of value, first to the grower who plans to replant his own seed in 1952, second to those who plan to purchase new seed, and third to those with a quantity of seed for sale subsequent to the date at which the disease readings are made available, approximately January 25th.

Several Seed States including Maine, New York, New Jersey, Michigan, etc., and the provinces of New Brunswick and British Columbia, have been conducting these Southern Tests for several years and find the scheme of inestimable value in procuring the advance information on the spread of virus diseases. This information would otherwise remain an unknown quantity until the crop is grown the following year when of course it is too late if there actually was a spread of virus diseases.

The test this year is now being offered Island potato growers at the very nominal cost of $10.00 per sample with the Marketing Board assuming the balance of the total costs.

Each sample will consist of approximately 60 tubers each weighing about 2-2 1/2 oz. or a 100 pound bag of the "B" size. These will have to be gassed at Charlottetown to break dormancy so that sprouting is advanced for planting in Florida in early November. Growth there is rapid and disease readings normally can be taken about January 25th.

Growers interested in availing themselves of this opportunity to get their seed Florida tested are advised to communicate with the Potato Marketing Board as the number of entries may be limited this year. Only Foundation or Foundation A Seed stock is eligible. For further particulars and application forms write to S. C. Peppin, Potato Marketing Board, 123 Kent Street, Charlottetown, P. E. Island.

B.Y.C. Annual Meeting Held

On Sunday evening, Sept. 16th, the annual meeting of the Basilica Youth Club was held in the Holy Name Hall with a very good attendance.

Reports for the year were given by the various committee chairmen. The retiring president, Mr. Vince King, gave a very complete report on the activities of the Club. He felt that the Club made real progress and stressed particularly the success achieved last fall in the B.Y.C. sponsored booth during the Charlottetown Hospital Bazaar. He hoped the B.Y.C. booth would be equally successful this week at the Forum during the Bazaar.

Regret was expressed that the B.Y.C. was losing its very capable Moderator, Father James Kelly, who is leaving for Toronto to take post-graduate studies in Latin and French. However, the B.Y.C. is fortunate in having Father Francis Corcoran as his successor.

Under the direction of Harold Power as electoral officer the following executive members were elected for the coming year:

President—Mr. Arthur McInnis; vice-president, Mr. Lorne Arsenault; secretary, Miss Marie McGugan; treasurer, Mrs. Bride Arsenault; chairman of the spiritual committee, Mr. John Walsh; cultural committee, Miss Patricia McNeill; social committee, Mr. Abe Zakem; athletic committee, Mr. Louis Oatway; ways and means committee, Mr. Wendell Murphy; membership committee, Mr. Wilfred Butler; publicity committee, Mr. Edward Laughlin.
