LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Scott Act Enforcement at Souris.

SIR.—In reading the proceedings of the "Local Legislature" in the Patriot, I was very much interested by a statement made by our member in reference to the Canada Temperance Act. In reply to Mr. Underhay, who did not believe that the prosecutor did his duty in Souris, etc., etc., Hon. Mr. McLean said the statement was utterly incorrect, as Mr. Campbell, the prosecutor did his duty strictly and impartially. As a matter of fact there is not half the quantity of liquor sold there as there was years ago. Now, sir, the latter part of the foregoing statement is correct. There is hardly any liquor sold here at present, at least openly. But, is the credit of this due to the Government or its officials? Not by any means. For the last two years, during which the present Government has managed the liquor traffic, the liquor traffic assumed alarming proportions, so much so, in fact, that only last summer there were between 18 or 20 places where liquor was sold here. Hon. Mr. Peters admitted that not one conviction had been obtained in Souris, but that several had been obtained in Georgetown. Taking the two places in comparison, I think Souris would rank far ahead of Georgetown in the number of its saloons, and yet Mr. Peters says no one has been fined in Souris. And Mr. McLean says that the prosecutor is doing his duty and is an efficient officer. The Government would have the country infer from this that it was owing to their wise management that the eastern county was getting temperate. But the fact of the matter is that the W. C. T. U. of this place, aided by the business portion of the community, rose in arms against the evil and determined to crush it, if money and influence could do so. The result of their efforts is that to-day, as I said before, there is no liquor sold here. The Hon. Mr. McLean is as well aware of this as I am, and yet he has the effrontery to stand up in his place in the House and tell an honorable body of men that the liquor traffic has been stamped out in Souris owing to the exertions of Mr. Campbell and his interest in temperance that the prosecutor is not doing his duty. The fact that the women of this place had to do his work for him and pay themselves should in itself be sufficient evidence of the truth of the statement. But that he is going according to his instructions I will not attempt to deny. I think Messrs. Peters or McLean would distinguish themselves if they would introduce a measure to abolish the salary of the prosecutor and give him the penalties of the law, for I think it rather too extravagant to have an official paid by the Government and by the vendor as well. I may say, in conclusion, that whenever the party who now carry things with such a high hand in this country ask the people for an endorsement of their acts, they will find that their disregard of the principles of the Canada Temperance Act will not be the least among the sins they will have to answer for.

Crapaud Notes.

HOW BUSINESS IS PROGRESSING AT CRAPAUD CORNER.
Mr. John Williams, merchant tailor, is building a new shop, 22x30, and will have it ready for new goods May 1st. Mr. Williams keeps five hands employed and is doing a good business.

Mr. J. J. McLeod, Merchant tailor, is also doing a good business in the same line and keeps five hands employed.

O. B. Wadman keeps the post office and telephone office in his grocery and drug store, and consequently keeps him moving at a lively rate.

McLean & Cameron keep a general store, dry goods, &c., &c., and are doing a thrifty business.

Mr. Robert McDonald and Mr. George Nicholson, our village blacksmiths, must be counting money, as you can hear the sound of the hammer from early morn till late at night.

Mr. David McQuarrie and Mr. Mark Trowsdale, our boot and shoe makers, are kept busy driving pegs. Mr. McQuarrie expects a first-class journeyman soon, and no doubt Mark will require extra help before long.

Mr. P. Newsom and Mr. P. McDonald can supply people in want of any kind of harness at lowest prices, consistent with the times.

Mr. Robert Reid, carriage builder and undertaker, is kept busy and keeps a supply of caskets on hand. It is rumored that Mr. Alvin Wadman intends branching out in this enterprise about the first of May.

Mr. James Arbing, our popular tanner, is busy as a nailer preparing leather for spring trade.

Mr. Artemas Wadman has any quantity of work in his line as people are always in need of chairs, tables, lounges and all kinds of furniture.

Dr. Robertson was kept very busy during the past winter, but we trust as the warm weather approaches his business in his line will decrease, as the doctor anticipates taking a trip to the World's Fair.

The Sons of Temperance meet Wednesday evening of each week. The Orange Lodge meets second and fourth Thursdays in each month. The Foresters meet the first Monday in each month.—Com.
Crapaud, April 17, 1893.

Alexandra Notes.

The balmy, exhilarating air of spring is giving quite an impetus to business in this place. At present lobster factories are the chief industry. James H. Judson is making preparations for running an extensive factory the coming summer. The firm of McKinnon & Judson also expect to be to the front as usual. So that most of our people will have employment at home.

Our carpenters also are quite busy. Theo. Burhoe & Co. have recently finished a summer house at Bellview, and George Judson is at present engaged in boat building, of which he makes a specialty. He is going shortly to superintend the building of the Vernon River Cheese Factory. In a few days Capt. Robertson will raise the frame of his new residence, which will, if reports are true, be an ornament to this fair place.

Our school has been closed for some time owing to the prevalence of measles, but previous to that the attendance had been so large that the subject of a new building, or at least enlarging the former one, had been discussed, the necessity of which is quite apparent.

One of our young men has just departed for the other side of the Dominion, and intends making his future home on the Pacific slope. Another has just returned from a six months' visit to New York, and in behalf of his brother, John W. Judson, presented Our Blooming Hope, I. O. G. T., with costly and beautiful regalia.

The Financial Situation.

(Montreal Witness.)

Canada is now passing through the most trying time of the whole year, financially speaking. The fourth of March is nothing in comparison with the early days of April and this year the protracted delay in opening navigation is adding to the strain which is upon the business community at this juncture. The fact that no serious trouble has arisen, and that the pressure upon commerce is indicated only by a general feeling of dullness and the prevalence of poor remittances, indicates rather that business is sound at bottom than that the year is opening badly, as some who are suffering would have us believe. The very activity of trade which characterized the close of last year helps at the moment to make matters worse, for the merchandise of one kind or another which was carried over the winter was in some instances unusually large, and until it can be disposed of upon the opening of navigation the banks and their customers will have a good deal to do in sustaining a burden which, like every load, appears to grow heavier towards the end of the portage. If, however, this burden can be disposed of advantageously, its very extent at the moment indicates that when the pressure is relieved the natural buoyancy of trade will be increased, and we see no indication at present to warrant us in anticipating difficulty in effecting an ultimate realization.

Two causes combine to make April the most trying month of the year in Canada, the one hardly preventable, and the other resulting from what cannot but be considered a short-sighted policy. These are, first, the long winter, during which navigation is closed and exportation nearly at a standstill; and secondly, bad roads in the country districts. We have already referred to the improvement of our country roads, and need not dwell long upon the subject now, but it is quite apparent to all who give the matter any consideration that the benefit which flows from the opening of navigation is but slightly enjoyed by the country districts until the season is so far advanced as to make the roads passable for loaded vehicles. Thus, instead of an immediate relief of the pressure which culminates in March, the early shipping which arrives is separated from its freight for several weeks longer by a barrier as impassable as ice.

The pressure upon commerce this April is, perhaps, somewhat greater than it was last year, if the rates of interest denuded and paid are any indication. Navigation opened last year on the 13th of the month. This year it will be, at least, ten days later. Call loans last April did not rise above four per cent; to-day they are quoted at five and a half to six, while discounts, which do not vary greatly in Canada, thanks to our elastic currency, were about one half of one per cent lower than now. Current loans, which in March, 1891, stood at $177,937,000; in March, 1892, at $190,647,000, stood at the close of February (the last return issued) at $197,709,000, and will not probably show any falling off from that figure in March.

A large proportion of that advice is proposed to-day. The evils of over-trading, over-stocking and over-importation are perennial, but on the whole there does not seem to be the same necessity this year for curbing legitimate business as there was at the opening of 1892, when it was not yet known what firms had come through the depression of 1890 without too much water in the hold. This year should see trade entirely re-established, unless some adverse gale from the other side of the United States sweep down upon us, or a worse storm in the shape of cholera from Europe.

The American Whiskey Trust seems likely to have been pecuniarily successful, if we may believe the New York World, which gives the total receipts for 1892 at $2,639,718 and its profits for that year at $2,217,442. Yet the Democrats have done nothing against these trusts which they so vigorously denounced during the elections.

The Assistant Postmaster-General of the United States is the official who deprecates postmasters. Mr. Clarkson, who held the position under President Harrison, made 1,324 appointments from March 4 to April 3, 1889, of which 825 were to replace removals. Mr. Maxwell, the present occupant, has so far made 873 such appointments, of which 370 were removals. He will have to handle if he wishes to come up to the record of Vice-President Stevenson, who, during Cleveland's first administration, dismissed 40,000 such officials.
