

Boys' Rights.

I wonder now if any one
In this broad land has heard
In favor of down-trodden boys
One solitary word?
We hear enough of "woman's rights,"
And "rights of working men,"
Of "equal rights" and "nation's rights;"
But pray just tell me when
Boys' rights were ever spoken of?
Why, we've become so used
To being snubbed by every one,
And slighted and abused,
That when one is polite to us
We open wide our eyes,
And stretch them in astonishment
To nearly twice their size!
Boys seldom dare to ask their friends
To venture in the house;
It don't come natural at all
To creep round like a mouse!
And if we should forget ourselves,
And make a little noise,
Then ma or auntie sure would say:
"Oh, my! those dreadful boys!"
The girls bang on the piano
In peace; but if the boys
Attempt a tune with life and drum
It's—"Stop that horrid noise!"
"That horrid noise!" just think of it:
When sister never fails
To make a noise three times as bad
With everlasting "scales."
Insulted thus, we lose no time
In beating a retreat!
So off we go to romp and tear,
And scamper in the street.
No wonder that so many boys
Such wicked men become;
'Twere better far to let them have
Their noise and fun at home.
Perhaps that text the preacher quotes
Sometimes—"Train up a child"
Means only train the little girls
And let the boys run wild.
But patience, and the time will come
When we boys will be men,
And when it does, I rather think
Wrongs will be righted then.

Mothers' Special Corner.

Never hamper and handcuff a child with a multitude of rules. Its nature should be spontaneous. Adults may hedge themselves round with as many rules as they please. It is their own affair, but children cannot bear this treatment.

Children need sympathy. Parents should be able to comprehend their notions and take an interest in their thoughts and feelings. It will give a stronger bond of sympathy which will strengthen the child's moral convictions and keep it from going into wrong courses in after life.

If a child inherits a nervous temperament great pains should be taken to cultivate the vital temperament, this is best done by cultivating quiet habits, giving plenty of sleep and abundance of healthy food, especially bread and milk, nuts, fruit, etc. If on the other hand a child inherits a phlegmatic temperament the nervous system may be stimulated.

The proper time for taking the young child at first into the open air will be determined by the season of the year. One born in spring or summer may, in fine weather be taken out when about fourteen days old, and by degrees accustomed to it in all except very damp or chilly weather, and when winter comes on it may still enjoy the pure free air upon every mild day.

In some families children are made a show of before company to an extent that would suggest the idea that they were being trained to the theatrical profession. Such precocity and boldness in social matters is injurious to the child, begetting as it does selfishness and vanity, and causing a dislike for the humble and obscure duties and labors that all children should be trained to perform. Let them in the family and in society be noted rather for modesty and quietness than for pertness and premature forwardness.

Teach your children to love, says Jean Paul, that is love them and love them rightly. Inspired by a wise love the sacrifices, the daily and nightly care imposed upon you, will not seem burdensome. Yet the happiness by which you are rewarded is not lightly purchased. How many restless nights must be passed on account of the sickness, even the slightest, of the child. But one glance into the face, into the beaming eyes of your darling, fills the heart and makes the burden light. "True, what you sacrifice for the world," says Jean Paul, in his Levana, "is but poorly recognized by it, for it is the man that rules and reaps the harvest. The thousand night watches and sacrifices by which a mother secures to the state a hero or a poet are forgotten, not even mentioned, for the mother herself does not mention them, and so one century after another do the wives unknown and unrewarded, send forth the arrows, the stars, the storm birds and the nightingales of time.

Count Massena, a son of Napoleon's Marshal Massena, died in the poor-house in Salt Lake, a few days ago. In an obituary of this man, the Salt Lake Tribune goes around the maxim, "Of the dead speak nothing unless good," and ascribes his end to a career of meanness and rapacity such as marked his most notorious father's life. The wife of the deceased is now a domestic in a Salt Lake family.

THE ANALYTICAL SANITARY INSTITUTION, 54, Holborn-viaduct, E. C., London, Aug. 18, 1879, report on the "Lorne Highland Whiskey" of Messrs. Greenlees Brothers:—"We have visited the bottling stores of Messrs. Greenlees Brothers, at Gresham-buildings, London, and have selected from the vats, samples of their Lorne Highland Whiskey, and have subjected them to careful examination and analysis. The samples were pale, showing their freedom from added coloring matter, very fragrant, mellow and of pleasant flavor; in fact, they possessed all the characteristics of pure and well-matured Scotch Whiskey of the first quality."

SEMINARY FOR YOUNG LADIES.

VISITOR:

The Lord Bishop of Nova Scotia

PRINCIPAL:

The Rev. John Padfield.

THIS SCHOOL offers, at very moderate cost, the advantages of a comfortable and pleasant home together with a thorough and refined education.

The course of instruction is the same as that of the best Schools in England and is founded upon the University Examinations for Women. Eight young ladies from this School passed the Local Examination of the University of King's College in June last. This is the only School in Canada that has passed pupils at a University Examination.

The number of pupils is limited, rendering the School select, and while it possesses all the educational advantages of a large public school, each pupil is enabled to receive that individual care and oversight which is so important, and which cannot be given in a large establishment.

Mr. and Mrs. Padfield are assisted by a staff of four resident governesses, besides visiting masters.

Parisienne French is taught conversationally. There are two resident French Governesses.

References given to parents of pupils. For further particulars address the Principal.

CATARRH.

Constitutional Catarrh Remedy CURES CATARRH.

Hear what a Reverend Gentleman says of the Constitutional Remedy.

T. J. B. HARDING, Esq., Brockville, Ont.:—"DEAR SIR—It is now two years since your "Constitutional Catarrh Remedy" was introduced to me. I have waited this long to see if the cure would remain permanent before doing this, my duty, to you, as at first the happy effects seemed to me to be "too good to be true."

I was afflicted in my head for years before I suspected it to be Catarrh. In reading in your Circular I saw my case described in many particulars. The inward "drop" from the head had become very disagreeable, and a choking sensation often preventing me from lying long. I would feel like smothering and be compelled to sit up in the bed. My health and spirits were seriously affected. When your agent came to Walkertown in August, 1876, I secured three bottles. Before I had used a quarter of the contents of one bottle I found decided relief, and when I had used two bottles and a third, I quit taking it, feeling quite clear of that ailment, and have not used any since until of late I have taken some for a cold in my head. A sense of duty to sufferers from that loathsome disease, Catarrh, prompts me to send you this Certificate, unsolicited, with leave to make what use of it you may see proper Yours truly,
W. TINDALL, Methodist Minister.
