LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

The Other Side of the Question.
SIR,—I notice in the last week's EXAMINER a communication signed "Creel," referring to the change made by the Fisheries Department in the matter of paying the wardens. The new may be an improvement upon the old way; but the people of this country are, I think, thoroughly convinced that the appointing of wardens to look after our inland streams is simply a scheme to put money in the hands of a few political hangers on. With the exception of Midgell, Morell and Dunk Rivers, the inland fisheries are not worth the money expended, as everyone acquainted with our streams must know.
Take for instance the stream at Bonshaw, referred to by "Creel," in which he says no fish can lie on account of sawdust thrown into the stream. The facts are that the only fishing ground is just below the milldam—and Charlottetown sports have been in the habit of coming out there not realizing that in so doing they were trespassing upon the property of the millowner. With the exception of two or three hundred yards below the mills, the river is soft mud upon which, as "Creel" says, no fish will lie. And for this reason the expenditure of money upon this protection is sheer folly.
Mr. Crosby's shingle mill has been closed

Horse Notes.

Allerton, the great son of Jay Bird, 2 31 $\frac{1}{2}$ , has pulled down his record of 2 13 $\frac{1}{2}$  to the mark made by Axtell as a three-year-old, 2 12. The feat was done at independence last week. He reached the quarter in 34, half in 1 07 $\frac{1}{2}$ , third quarter 1 40, and the mile in 2 12. Williams is the only driver that has given three trotters records better than 2 13. They are: Axtell 2 12, Allerton 2 12, and Mary Marshall 2 12—all three of the Wilkes family. Mary Marshall is by Billy Wilkes 2 29 $\frac{1}{2}$ , son of Harry Wilkes 2 13 $\frac{1}{2}$  (Letcher's), the fastest since 1880. George Wilkes, and is a gelding since 1880. George Wilkes is the only sire whose sons (William L and Jay Bird) have produced two stallions with records as low as 2 12.

Thirteen new trotters by Electi near have entered the 2.30 list this season. General Wilmington, 2.30, full brother to Sunol, is the latest addition. Electioneer has now seventy-four trotters and one pacer in the list, thus placing him ahead of all sires living or dead in the matter of direct descendants. He was foaled in 1868 and died Dec. 3rd, 1890. He was bought from his breeder, Charles Backman, of Stony Ford, N. Y., by Senator Stanford, of Palo Alto, N. Y., and taken to California in that year, and up to that did not sire speed. The price was $12,500. His dam, Green Mountain Maid, by Harry Clay, 45, is the dam of seven in the list. Electioneer is not one of these, as he had no record. Shanghai Mary, an Ohio mare of untraced pedigree, was the dam of Green Mountain Maid.

Nutwood's son, Manager, who took the two-year-old champion pacing record last year of 2.16 $\frac{1}{2}$ , reduced it lately to 2.14 $\frac{1}{2}$ , and now holds the champion two and three-year-old stallion pacing record. He is Nutwood's fastest performer, and his dam Carrie, 2.29 $\frac{1}{2}$ , is the only daughter of George Wilkes to produce a performer so fast.

Among the noted performers in the Grand Circuit this year in the free-for-all trotting class is the nine-year-old mare Rosaline Wilkes, record in 1888 2.14 $\frac{1}{2}$ . She commenced the season at Pittsburg on July 17th. There were only three starters, her chief opponent being McDoel, who beat the great Allerton at Lexington last fall. Rosaline did not seem to be on edge, and McDoel won easily.

The next week she started in the same class at Detroit in such strong company as McDoel, 2.15 $\frac{1}{2}$ , Aleryon, 2.15 $\frac{1}{2}$ , Homestake, 2.14 $\frac{1}{2}$ , Gan Smith, 2.15 $\frac{1}{2}$ , and the great Canadian horse Alvin, 2.14 $\frac{1}{2}$ . The backers of McDoel thought he was invincible, and they put up a good round sum. The first and second heat was won by McDoel, and then his admirers dived still deeper into their pockets, but they never reckoned on Rosaline and her astute driver. The great Wilkes more than started in and won the third and fourth, and distanced McDoel on the fifth heat, his backers losing over \$15,000 on the pools. The next week the mare went to Cleveland and met only Alvin and Homestake. This time she was the favorite, but Alvin, the king of Canadian trotters, won in straight heats in 2.15, 2.17 $\frac{1}{2}$ , 2.18 $\frac{1}{2}$ . The beautiful uncertainty of Rosaline's way of going became quite a puzzle to some who wished to have some idea of how best to place their cash. Last week she started at Buffalo with Alvin, McDoel, Homestake and Mambrino Maid, 2.17 $\frac{1}{2}$ . The dam of Mambrino Maid is by Red Wilkes. Every horse was backed by his favorites. McDoel and Alvin the favorites. The first and second heats went to Mambrino Maid. The scoring began for the third heat, when it became evident that Rosaline was going to make trouble for those who failed to put their money upon her. The stout Canadian made one of his rushes and took the lead from the mare—she climbed upon and got even with him at the head of the stretch—then she fought it fiercely coming in a length ahead of the son of Orpheus in 2.15, the best time to the race. In the next heat Alvin made a grand struggle and a superb finish, but Turner drove as if he never gave up the lead. Rosaline Wilkes was sired by the son of George Wilkes, owned by the Government of New Brunswick, and stands for a low fee, considering his breeding. He is called Conn's Harry Wilkes, and has not yet sired another 2.30 trotter besides Rosaline Wilkes. She was bred in Kentucky, her dam is Cigarette, by a horse called Zulcoadi Gold-dust, sire of three trotters.

for some time owing to the stringent enforcement of the law, as many of the people who have lumber lying uncut know to their cost; and I venture to say that the closing of these saw mills for one year will be a greater injury to the people around them than the loss of all the trout in the river for the next twenty-five years.

The people directly interested in the matter are the property-owners below the mills, and I am satisfied that there is not one on either side of the West River who would not wish to see the mills running as of old. They know what a convenience they have been in the past, and they also know that the sawdust has been no injury to them in any way.

It is true there are in Charlottetown a few who imagine they can come into the country, trespass where they will, and though kindly treated, as they invariably have been by the owner of the mills at Bonshaw, yet go back and demand that long-established industries shall be crippled because, forsooth, they have not been able to catch a few trout.

I may add that while the sawdust gets the blame, too often the plethoric condition of the basket leaving Charlottetown accounts for its emptiness on returning.

West River, Aug. 18, 1891.

Struck and Killed by Lightning

(Woodstock Press.)
"Died by visitation of God," at Glassville, on the 7th Aug., in Mr. M. Welch's fallow, Joseph Riley, aged 21 years, a native of Upton, Dundas, P. E. I., deeply regretted by all who knew him. The young man had been a year and a half in the neighborhood, and in the employ of Mr. Welch since the 16th of June. At the time of his death he was chopping a fallow for Mr. Welch in the company of three other men. When the heavy thunder and lightning storm of the 7th came about 2.30 p. m. two of the men took refuge in a shed about 15 or 20 yards distant from where they were chopping. One, James Brown, who was chopping with Riley, crawled under a birch log about four rods away. Poor Riley stood up with his back against a birch tree—one of the worst places he could have retreated to for safety. The lightning struck the tree, descended the trunk, struck Riley on the back of the head, tearing his hat open at the back and scorching his hair—passed down his body on the left side, tearing off the skin from his thigh for about ten inches, and leaving a scorch, as of a heated iron—went thence down to his foot, pressing out at his heel, just leaving the top of the counter of his boot, leaving in the boot a perpendicular rent of about five inches.

James Brown, who was dazzled by the lightning flash, when he recovered the use of his eyes, looked and saw Riley stretched on the ground, apparently dead. He ran over to the spot and called him by name, receiving no reply. The only apparent sign of life in the body was a quick twitching of the eyelids for a few moments, when all was still. James Brown called the other men, crying that he feared Riley was fatally struck. After examining the body, the men all repaired to Mr. Welch's house to report the sad occurrence. Mr. Welch, who was fortunately at home, sent two of the men immediately back, as he thought Riley might only have been stunned. He then despatched a wagon and span of horses to the spot to bring the body in, should Riley be found to be dead. The team was accompanied by John Simpson, Esq., the nearest resident magistrate, and his son, Mr. Wm. Simpson, by whom the remains were brought home. Meantime, Mr. John McIntosh, merchant, had been despatched for Dr. Port, coroner, who, however, said there was no use for holding an inquest in this case. The law had been altered, and all that was necessary to do was for two magistrates to make an investigation, view the body, and if satisfied there had been no foul play to order a burial. This was accordingly done by John Simpson, Esq., and Joseph Lee, Esq.—these gentlemen took down a sworn statement from James Brown. Mr. John Miller was despatched by Mr. Welch for a casket, and the accident telegraphed on the 8th from Bristol to deceased's friends in P. E. Island.

The funeral took place on the 9th, and was largely attended. Rev. Mr. Bearsto making a beautiful and touching allusion to the sad dispensation in his morning's service discourse. We have only to add that Mr. Bearsto, Mr. Welch and others speak in the warmest terms of the young man's character, and that Mr. and Mrs. Welch especially are profoundly affected by his loss.

We believe deceased held an accident insurance policy for $1,000, drawn up in his father's favor.
